Military Trials For Discharged Vets Prohibited

Supreme Court Ruling To Affect Turncoats' Fate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ex-servicemen cannot be subjected to military trial for crimes committed while in service, the Supreme Court ruled today.

By a 6-3 vote, the court struck down a key provision of the 1950 Uniform Code of Military Justice. It permitted the armed forces to put civilians back into uniform and court-martial them for serious crimes occurring before their discharge.

The ruling, with potential implications to millions, specifically applied to Robert W. Toth of Pittsburgh. As a result, the Air Force cannot bring Toth, an honorably discharged veteran, to trial for the slaying of a South Korean civilian.

Affects Turncoats' Fate

The decision was expected to have a direct bearing on the fate of three turncoat GIs arrested at San Francisco last July 29 under the code of military justice. The trio—Otho G. Bell of Hillsboro, Miss., William A. Cowart of Dalton, Ga., and Lewis W. Griggs of Jacksonville, Tex.—are now held by the Army at Ft. Baker, Calif.

The three were captured by the Communists in North Korea and while held prisoner were said to have betrayed this country by informing and aiding the enemy in exchange for favored treatment. They later rejected the Reds and came home.

When the three first elected to stay in Red China, Secretary of Defense Wilson designated them as deserters. Then, in January 1954, Wilson ordered them dishonorably discharged.

Congress Exceeded Power

Justice Black, who spoke for the court majority today, said Congress exceeded its constitutional authority in enacting legislation to subject civilians like Toth to trial by court-martial. He said:

"They, like other civilians, are entitled to have the benefit of the safeguards afforded those tried in the regular courts authorized by Article III of the Constitution."

Black said there could be no valid argument that civilian ex-servicemen must be tried by court-martial or not tried at all.

"If that is so," Black commented, "it is only because Congress has not seen fit to subject them to trial in federal district courts."

During congressional consideration of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, some argued for giving federal civil courts jurisdiction to try civilians for crimes committed while in service.

15-Nation Atom Radiation Study Unit Approved

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) — U. N. members voted unanimously tonight to set up a 15-nation scientists' committee for a worldwide study of how atomic radiation affects man. They overrode U. S. efforts to keep it from having anything to do with Communist China.

The General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee, excepting only absent France, solidly backed an eight-nation Western resolution calling for such a group to collect reports from governments on atmospheric radioactivity and its effects.

U. S. Sought 11-Nation Limit

The United States, which proposed the investigation, sought to limit the committee to 11 countries and the scope of its work to the 84 nations in the U.N. and its specialized agencies.

But 20 Latin-American nations pushed through an amendment to add four more countries to the group, and India put over another calling on "all states concerned" to give information to it. The latter change would throw the study open to Communist China. The vote on the Latin - American amendment was 48-0, and on the Indian, 25-22.

Russia Bid Fails

The Soviet Union failed in a bid to put Red China and Romania on the committee. Only nine countries, including the Soviet bloc, India and Yugoslavia favored an amendment for that purpose.

The countries originally proposed for the committee were Australia, Brazil, Britain, Canada, Czechoslovakia, France, India, Japan, the Soviet Union, Sweden and the United States. Those added were Argentina, Belgium, Egypt and Mexico.

The committee voted down, 39-9, a Soviet amendment to have the Assembly call for continued big-power efforts to agree on a ban on nuclear weapons and, as a starter, to stop test explosions.

Eden Launches Antispy Move

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—To guard against another Burgess-Maclean case, Prime Minister Eden asked Parliament today to approve a study of Britain's antispy precautions by a group of elder statesmen.

The Prime Minister made the bid in winding up a House of Commons debate on the 1951 defection to the Communists of diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean—described by Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan as one of the most painful stories in the nation's history.

Admitting the government had been "a bit laggard" in recognizing the danger in the case, Eden said:

"We should examine . . . the security measures now applied in the public service and also consider whether any further precautions can properly be taken to reduce the risk of treachery . . . I therefore . . . propose that we should convene a small informal conference of privy councillors from both sides of the House."

Privy councillors are a select group of statesmen and national leaders who serve primarily as advisers to Queen Elizabeth II.

Soviets Seen Making New German Offer

Another Big Four Geneva Conference Next Spring Likely

GENEVA, Nov. 7 (AP)—New Soviet offers on German unification and disarmament were hinted by Russian officials here tonight as the Big Four powers reached virtual agreement to hold another conference in Geneva next spring.

The present slow-moving foreign ministers' parley—recessed five out of 12 days—will resume tomorrow when Russia's V. M. Molotov flies back from consultations in Moscow. The only uncertainty about the next conference apparently is the date—March or April.

German Stand May Be Eased

Molotov's diplomatic lieutenants, who remained behind in Geneva, guardedly indicated these moves are under consideration:

1. A softening of Molotov's opposition to free elections in reunifying Germany. But the Soviets still demand a united Germany bound to complete neutrality, and propose a unification process by gradual stages which would preserve the Sovietized institutions of East Germany. Free elections would be the last step—not the first, as the Allies demand.

2. An approach toward acceptance in principle of President Eisenhower's proposal for American-Russian exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection.

Dulles, Tito Embarass Soviets

But the Russians have no intention of accepting the President's timetable for the proposal. He offered it here last July as something the two powers could put into operation immediately as a prelude to a general agreement on disarmament. The Russians won't separate it from their declared aim of outlawing and abolishing atomic weapons.

Chagrin and embarrassment were apparent in Russian quarters here today after U.S. Secretary of State Dulles' statement made with agreement of President Tito of Yugoslavia that Soviet European satellites should regain their independence.

Employment Sets Record

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Nearly 65¼ million Americans had jobs in October, the highest level of employment ever reached for that month, the government reported today.

However, the report said, a big influx of housewives and other new jobseekers—brought into the labor market by the availability of jobs in the present record-breaking surge of economic activity—held the level of unemployment nearly unchanged, at 2,131,000. This was only 18,000 less than the September total and contrasted with the usual October dip in unemployment of approximately 10 per cent.

The monthly report, by the Commerce and Labor departments, said overtime work at factories went up, and average factory payrolls increased to $78.69 a week. This was a new peak nearly $6.50 more than the average factory pay envelope contained a year earlier.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department, in its monthly report on stocks of unsold goods in the hands of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, said total business inventories climbed to a level of $79,600,000,000—some $2,700,000,000 more than the value of stocks a year earlier.

Consideration Of Kidnap Angle In Till Case Delayed

GREENWOOD, Miss., Nov. 7 (AP)—The Leflore County grand jury, working through a heavy docket, delayed until tomorrow consideration of kidnap charges against two white men in the famous Till case.

Witnesses scheduled to testify today were told to return tomorrow morning.

Dist. Atty. Stanny Sanders said earlier he hoped to finish testimony today in the kidnap charges which grew out of the disappearance of Emmett Louis Till, 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy.

A 20-man, all-white grand jury began work this morning with the Till case its hottest business.

The jury's action on the kidnap charges won't be known until the grand jury makes its report, probably Wednesday, Sanders said.

The jury will decide whether half brothers Roy Bryant and John W. Milam will stand trial on a charge of kidnaping the Negro boy who disappeared while vacationing in Mississippi.

Mose Wright, 54-year-old sharecropper, who said he fled to Chicago for safety, waited in the Leflore County sheriff's office to testify. Till was abducted from Wright's farm shack in nearby Money last Aug. 28.

With Wright was Willie Reed, 18-year-old farm hand, who also left for Chicago after the famous trial in nearby Sumner six weeks ago when a jury found Bryant and Milam innocent of murdering Till.

Wright, Till's uncle, and Reed arrived in Greenwood last night from Chicago.

Ike Will Leave Hospital Friday For Washington

DENVER, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower will leave the hospital for Washington Friday—but two of his doctors said today it will be "late January or February" before he can decide on trying for a second term.

Dr. Paul Dudley White and Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder told a news conference Eisenhower's mending heart must be "exposed to considerably more strain" before the President can decide on his "physical future and whole life."

That did not rule out the possibility that Eisenhower already may have made up his mind on seeking or foregoing another four years in the White House. But White and Snyder said the President had given them no inkling on that.

Ike's Condition Good

White, the eminent Boston heart specialist, Snyder, Eisenhower's personal physician, and other doctors who have been attending the President since his Sept. 24 heart attack appeared at the news conference after thorough, lengthy examinations of the chief executive yesterday and today.

However hazy the political future might be, White said that he had "only good news again" on Eisenhower's physical condition at this point. And he added:

"We have all, myself included, decided that Friday, in the morning, Nov. 11, will be the time for his takeoff here. So he will arrive in Washington in the afternoon."

Plans To Go To Farm

Then, he said, the President plans to go on to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., next Monday to celebrate Mrs. Eisenhower's 59th birthday.

To a question whether he would run again if he "were in the President's shoes," White replied that, "I haven't enough information yet."

"I would want to know how I would face the problems of the next few months," he said. "I might have made up my mind already."

"Do you think he has?" a reporter inquired.

"I don't know," White answered.

Car Exhaust Fumes Kill Four Persons

FRANKFORT, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP)—Four persons—two young men and two young women—were found dead from carbon monoxide poisoning today in a car on a country road north of here.

The dead were identified as Max Boone, 18, of nearby Kirklin; Joseph Keever, 18; Joan McGinnis, 17; and Mrs. Marilyn Smith Boone, 18, all of Frankfort. Mrs. Boone was a sister-in-law of Max Boone.

Sheriff Maynard Lewis said the four were seen together around Frankfort last night. He said Keever, a factory worker and owner of the car, and Mrs. Boone, were in the front seat. Boone and Miss McGinnis were in the back.

The sheriff said the car became stuck in gravel at the side of the road and the four apparently were waiting for help when they were overcome by exhaust fumes. He said the coroner placed the time of death at about 1 a.m.

Prowler, 22, Heard Gunshot From Roof Of Woodward Home

MINEOLA, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—A prowler admitted today he was blundering noisily atop Mrs. Ann Woodward's bedroom roof at the very moment she shot her husband to death. She had blamed a strange noise for her panicky gunfire.

The prowler, Paul W. Wirths, was quoted by police as saying he broke a tree branch, wrestled noisily with a door and dropped a loaded shotgun over Mrs. Woodward's bedroom early on the morning of Oct. 30.

His revised story appeared to support Mrs. Woodward's claim that a noise in the night led to the accidental shooting of 35-year-old William Woodward Jr., multimillionaire owner of the great race horse Nashua.

Detective Inspector Stuyvesant Pinnell quoted Wirths as saying he heard the roar of Mrs. Woodward's shotgun. The 22-year-old German refugee added:

"It sounded like a cannon. I didn't wait. I got the hell out of there."

Mrs. Woodward said her nerves were on edge because of her "fearful dread" that the prowler would return and invade her home. He already had broken into a swimming pool cabana and the six-car garage on the Woodwards' 60-acre Oyster Bay, N. Y., estate.

The beautiful 39-year-old blonde told police she fired blindly into a darkened hallway outside her bedroom when she awakened in the night and heard a noise. She had taken a loaded shotgun to the bedroom with her when she retired.

Woodward was standing nude and unarmed in the door of his own bedroom, directly across the hallway from his wife. One charge from the shotgun caught him in the head and killed him.

Dad Accidentally Takes Suicide's Poison And Dies

BUDA, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP)—A father died after accidentally taking the same poison his son had used to commit suicide.

The son, George F. Sweet, 45, of Des Plaines, Ill., who had been staying at the home of his parents in Buda, died there Thursday. A coroner's jury decided that he had gulped a poison in water with suicidal intent.

Apparently the son left some of the poison in a bottle without a warning label.

The father, Ralph F. Sweet, 77, died yesterday. Coroner A. A. Meyer said he was told by the family that the father went to the bathroom to get some cough medicine and took a drink from a bottle containing the poison.

5 Women Die In Submerged Car

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)— A car skidded across an icy highway into the Minnesota River today and turned into a watery tomb for five Minneapolis women en route home from a dancing party.

The five, friends of long standing, drowned in the frigid waters after their car plunged down a 20-foot embankment.

A sixth occupant, Donna Mae Wills, 24, Minneapolis, fought free from the submerged car and was guided to safety by four St. Paul youths who were first to arrive at the scene.

William Mathias, 24, St. Paul, jumped into the icy water fully clothed, and a friend David Swanson, 24, St. Paul, stripped to his shorts and followed to make rescue attempts.

Another rescuer, John Settergren, 22, a freshman at St. Thomas College, stripped off his clothing and dove four times into the dark waters.

Each time he rose with one of the victims in his arms, but an hour's efforts by volunteers on shore failed to revive them. The fifth victim was brought to the surface when the car was pulled from the water.

Sharpshooter Foils Prisoner

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP)—A prisoner at the Holmesburg jail held a razor blade at the throat of a social worker for more than two hours today in a desperate—but unsuccessful—plan to escape.

When the convict refused to heed the pleas of prison officials to release the hostage, a policeman shot him in the mouth—the bullet flying over the head of the helpless social worker. The shot was fired through an opening in the cell door no more than eight inches square.

The convict, Charles Savage, was taken to Philadelphia General Hospital. Doctors there said the bullet crashed through his mouth and lodged in the back of Savage's head but that he probably would live.

Savage, 54, was in prison for a parole violation. He has a police record dating back to 1926.

Savage had held David Kaplan, 45, supervisor of social work at the prison, in an effort to force his release. He had been in prison since last June.

Couple Robs Bank After Holding Cashier Captive

HEBRON, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP) — A young man and a buxom blonde, armed with snub-nosed revolvers, robbed the Citizens Bank of $3,000 today and fled toward Chicago carrying as hostage a cashier they had held prisoner all night in his home.

The cashier's wife was left tied in the basement of their home.

The couple fled from Hebron in a car belonging to Robert McGinley, 60, the bank cashier, forcing him to accompany them. McGinley escaped from the car near Frankfort, Ill., after the couple had eluded a police net in Indiana.

The car was found this afternoon abandoned in Matteson, Ill., about 25 miles south of Chicago and eight miles east of the point where McGinley leaped from the car near Frankfort as it slowed for a truck.

McGinley said the men and woman, both armed with short-barrelled revolvers, came to his home about 6 p.m. last night and forced him to let them in.

Between 9 and 10 p.m., he said, they took him and his wife, Ruth, in the McGinley car to a country road northeast of Hebron and parked until early morning. Then they drove back to the McGinley home, where McGinley was ordered to dress for work.

The woman bandit took Mrs. McGinley to the basement and tied her up, staying with her in the house while her companion took McGinley to the bank about 7:30 a.m.

The time lock on the bank vault was set for 9 a.m. On learning this the man forced McGinley to open a safe which contained about $3,000. The haul included 70 silver dollars, a number of two-dollar bills and some old and mutilated currency. The bulk of it was in bills of small denomination.

Off-Year Voting Today Watched For 1956 Clues

[By The Associated Press]

Off-year elections Tuesday in 14 states feature contests for governor of Kentucky and mayor of Philadelphia, and an Ohio referendum to make operative a supplemental layoff pay plan for the auto industry.

Unless the Democratic candidates suffer unexpected defeats in the Kentucky and Philadelphia voting, political leaders see little in the scattered state and local elections to provide a weathervane for the 1956 national campaigning. However, they will be looking for clues.

Mississippi also is electing a governor but Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman, winner of the Democratic primary, is unopposed.

Voting Age Referendum

Another referendum of national interest is one in Kentucky to lower the minimum voting age from 21 to 18.

Only one congressional seat is at stake. One Michigan district will hold Democratic and Republican primaries to nominate candidates to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Rep. John D. Dingell (D). The final choice will be made Dec. 13.

City elections, many of them nonpartisan, will be held in Boston, Cleveland, Indianapolis and dozens of smaller cities in Arkansas, Connecticut, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah and Wyoming.

Chandler Vs. Denney

In Kentucky, voters will decide whether Democrat A. B. (Happy) Chandler, governor in 1935-39, will make good his comeback attempt. Chandler, former senator and baseball commissioner, is opposed by Republican Edwin R. Denney, making his first statewide race, and two other candidates.

Although Chandler is favored to win, Denny hopes to pick up many Democratic votes as a result of a heated primary which split Democratic ranks. Chandler won that race against the combined opposition of Gov. Lawrence Wetherby's state organization and Sens. Alben Barkley and Earle Clements, who backed Bert T. Combs.

High Tribunal Backs Lower Court Ruling

Separate But Equal Doctrine Apparently Handed Death Blow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Supreme Court today seemingly sounded the death knell for racial segregation in all places supported by public funds.

In separate, unanimous actions the court affirmed a decision holding racial segregation illegal in public parks and playgrounds, and ordered Negroes admitted to public golf courses.

This, in effect, swept away whatever remained of the historic "separate but equal" doctrine as applied to tax-supported facilities.

The major blow to that doctrine, of course, came in the court's unanimous decision in May 1954 holding segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

Until then, the "separate but equal" doctrine, originally laid down in 1896, had largely governed the legality of segregation in tax-supported facilities. It meant that segregation was permissible when separate but equal facilities, such as schools, were provided for different races.

Court Uses Only 11 Words

Using only 11 words, the high court affirmed a decision by the U. S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., that segregation in public parks and playgrounds is illegal. All the court said was: "The motion to affirm is granted and the judgment is affirmed."

The Richmond tribunal had said the separate but equal doctrine for white and Negroes was dead.

The Supreme Court took only 58 words to reverse decisions by two lower courts upholding segregation in city-operated golf courses in Atlanta, Ga.

The lower courts—U. S. District Court in Atlanta and U. S. Circuit Court in New Orleans—had taken the view that the separate but equal doctrine still could be applied in public recreation.

In reversing the lower courts, the Supreme Court directed that an order be issued granting Negroes admission to Atlanta's public links.

Georgia Official Bitter

In Atlanta, city officials declined to express any opinion about the court's ruling or say what they would do, pending further study.

Georgia's attorney general, Eugene Cook, an ardent segregation advocate said today's decisions amount to another step in what he called a campaign to bring about intermarriage of the races.

The Supreme Court now has before it a case testing the validity of a Virginia law that bans interracial marriage.

The Richmond appellate court ruling affirmed today specifically applied to public beaches and bath houses operated by the city of Baltimore and the state of Maryland. The city and state jointly had asked the highest court to overturn the decision.

Monty Says Ike "Best In World"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery today called President Eisenhower "the best guy in the world."

The British soldier, who served under Eisenhower in World War II and in the North Atlantic Treaty forces, said the President has "made himself the most useful human in the world today." This, Montgomery said, is because the nations of the world "want someone who can be trusted completely and that they know is completely sincere and will not let them down."

The veteran British hero of the last world war, now deputy supreme commander of the Western Allied Powers, made his unsolicited remarks about the President at a Pentagon news conference. He similarly praised Eisenhower after visiting the convalescing chief executive in Denver over the weekend.

Montgomery said he found the President "looking very well indeed, clear-eyed and alert mentally." And he declared:

"You people have got to understand that that guy is a world figure, not just an American president."

The President, he said, has a "quality that can draw the hearts of men toward him, like a magnet."

However, the report said, a big influx of housewives and other new jobseekers—brought into the labor market by the availability of jobs in the present record-breaking surge of economic activity—held the level of unemployment nearly unchanged, at 2,131,000. This was only 18,000 less than the September total and contrasted with the usual October dip in unemployment of approximately 10 per cent.

The monthly report, by the Commerce and Labor departments, said overtime work at factories went up, and average factory payrolls increased to $78.69 a week. This was a new peak nearly $6.50 more than the average factory pay envelope contained a year earlier.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department, in its monthly report on stocks of unsold goods in the hands of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, said total business inventories climbed to a level of $79,600,000,000—some $2,700,000,000 more than the value of stocks a year earlier.

Ike Will Leave Hospital Friday For Washington

DENVER, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower will leave the hospital for Washington Friday—but two of his doctors said today it will be "late January or February" before he can decide on trying for a second term.

Dr. Paul Dudley White and Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder told a news conference Eisenhower's mending heart must be "exposed to considerably more strain" before the President can decide on his "physical future and whole life."

That did not rule out the possibility that Eisenhower already may have made up his mind on seeking or foregoing another four years in the White House. But White and Snyder said the President had given them no inkling on that.

Ike's Condition Good

White, the eminent Boston heart specialist, Snyder, Eisenhower's personal physician, and other doctors who have been attending the President since his Sept. 24 heart attack appeared at the news conference after thorough, lengthy examinations of the chief executive yesterday and today.

However hazy the political future might be, White said that he had "only good news again" on Eisenhower's physical condition at this point. And he added:

"We have all, myself included, decided that Friday, in the morning, Nov. 11, will be the time for his takeoff here. So he will arrive in Washington in the afternoon."

Plans To Go To Farm

Then, he said, the President plans to go on to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., next Monday to celebrate Mrs. Eisenhower's 59th birthday.

To a question whether he would run again if he "were in the President's shoes," White replied that, "I haven't enough information yet."

"I would want to know how I would face the problems of the next few months," he said. "I might have made up my mind already."

"Do you think he has?" a reporter inquired.

"I don't know," White answered.

Prowler, 22, Heard Gunshot From Roof Of Woodward Home

MINEOLA, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—A prowler admitted today he was blundering noisily atop Mrs. Ann Woodward's bedroom roof at the very moment she shot her husband to death. She had blamed a strange noise for her panicky gunfire.

The prowler, Paul W. Wirths, was quoted by police as saying he broke a tree branch, wrestled noisily with a door and dropped a loaded shotgun over Mrs. Woodward's bedroom early on the morning of Oct. 30.

His revised story appeared to support Mrs. Woodward's claim that a noise in the night led to the accidental shooting of 35-year-old William Woodward Jr., multimillionaire owner of the great race horse Nashua.

Detective Inspector Stuyvesant Pinnell quoted Wirths as saying he heard the roar of Mrs. Woodward's shotgun. The 22-year-old German refugee added:

"It sounded like a cannon. I didn't wait. I got the hell out of there."

Mrs. Woodward said her nerves were on edge because of her "fearful dread" that the prowler would return and invade her home. He already had broken into a swimming pool cabana and the six-car garage on the Woodwards' 60-acre Oyster Bay, N. Y., estate.

The beautiful 39-year-old blonde told police she fired blindly into a darkened hallway outside her bedroom when she awakened in the night and heard a noise. She had taken a loaded shotgun to the bedroom with her when she retired.

Woodward was standing nude and unarmed in the door of his own bedroom, directly across the hallway from his wife. One charge from the shotgun caught him in the head and killed him.

Off-Year Voting Today Watched For 1956 Clues

[By The Associated Press]

Off-year elections Tuesday in 14 states feature contests for governor of Kentucky and mayor of Philadelphia, and an Ohio referendum to make operative a supplemental layoff pay plan for the auto industry.

Unless the Democratic candidates suffer unexpected defeats in the Kentucky and Philadelphia voting, political leaders see little in the scattered state and local elections to provide a weathervane for the 1956 national campaigning. However, they will be looking for clues.

Mississippi also is electing a governor but Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman, winner of the Democratic primary, is unopposed.

Voting Age Referendum

Another referendum of national interest is one in Kentucky to lower the minimum voting age from 21 to 18.

Only one congressional seat is at stake. One Michigan district will hold Democratic and Republican primaries to nominate candidates to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Rep. John D. Dingell (D). The final choice will be made Dec. 13.

City elections, many of them nonpartisan, will be held in Boston, Cleveland, Indianapolis and dozens of smaller cities in Arkansas, Connecticut, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah and Wyoming.

Chandler Vs. Denney

In Kentucky, voters will decide whether Democrat A. B. (Happy) Chandler, governor in 1935-39, will make good his comeback attempt. Chandler, former senator and baseball commissioner, is opposed by Republican Edwin R. Denney, making his first statewide race, and two other candidates.

Although Chandler is favored to win, Denny hopes to pick up many Democratic votes as a result of a heated primary which split Democratic ranks. Chandler won that race against the combined opposition of Gov. Lawrence Wetherby's state organization and Sens. Alben Barkley and Earle Clements, who backed Bert T. Combs.

Dad Accidentally Takes Suicide's Poison And Dies

BUDA, Ill., Nov. 7 (AP)—A father died after accidentally taking the same poison his son had used to commit suicide.

The son, George F. Sweet, 45, of Des Plaines, Ill., who had been staying at the home of his parents in Buda, died there Thursday. A coroner's jury decided that he had gulped a poison in water with suicidal intent.

Apparently the son left some of the poison in a bottle without a warning label.

The father, Ralph F. Sweet, 77, died yesterday. Coroner A. A. Meyer said he was told by the family that the father went to the bathroom to get some cough medicine and took a drink from a bottle containing the poison.

Sharpshooter Foils Prisoner

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP)—A prisoner at the Holmesburg jail held a razor blade at the throat of a social worker for more than two hours today in a desperate—but unsuccessful—plan to escape.

When the convict refused to heed the pleas of prison officials to release the hostage, a policeman shot him in the mouth—the bullet flying over the head of the helpless social worker. The shot was fired through an opening in the cell door no more than eight inches square.

The convict, Charles Savage, was taken to Philadelphia General Hospital. Doctors there said the bullet crashed through his mouth and lodged in the back of Savage's head but that he probably would live.

Savage, 54, was in prison for a parole violation. He has a police record dating back to 1926.

Savage had held David Kaplan, 45, supervisor of social work at the prison, in an effort to force his release. He had been in prison since last June.

5 Women Die In Submerged Car

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)— A car skidded across an icy highway into the Minnesota River today and turned into a watery tomb for five Minneapolis women en route home from a dancing party.

The five, friends of long standing, drowned in the frigid waters after their car plunged down a 20-foot embankment.

A sixth occupant, Donna Mae Wills, 24, Minneapolis, fought free from the submerged car and was guided to safety by four St. Paul youths who were first to arrive at the scene.

William Mathias, 24, St. Paul, jumped into the icy water fully clothed, and a friend David Swanson, 24, St. Paul, stripped to his shorts and followed to make rescue attempts.

Another rescuer, John Settergren, 22, a freshman at St. Thomas College, stripped off his clothing and dove four times into the dark waters.

Each time he rose with one of the victims in his arms, but an hour's efforts by volunteers on shore failed to revive them. The fifth victim was brought to the surface when the car was pulled from the water.

Car Exhaust Fumes Kill Four Persons

FRANKFORT, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP)—Four persons—two young men and two young women—were found dead from carbon monoxide poisoning today in a car on a country road north of here.

The dead were identified as Max Boone, 18, of nearby Kirklin; Joseph Keever, 18; Joan McGinnis, 17; and Mrs. Marilyn Smith Boone, 18, all of Frankfort. Mrs. Boone was a sister-in-law of Max Boone.

Sheriff Maynard Lewis said the four were seen together around Frankfort last night. He said Keever, a factory worker and owner of the car, and Mrs. Boone, were in the front seat. Boone and Miss McGinnis were in the back.

The sheriff said the car became stuck in gravel at the side of the road and the four apparently were waiting for help when they were overcome by exhaust fumes. He said the coroner placed the time of death at about 1 a.m.

Eden Launches Antispy Move

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—To guard against another Burgess-Maclean case, Prime Minister Eden asked Parliament today to approve a study of Britain's antispy precautions by a group of elder statesmen.

The Prime Minister made the bid in winding up a House of Commons debate on the 1951 defection to the Communists of diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean—described by Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan as one of the most painful stories in the nation's history.

Admitting the government had been "a bit laggard" in recognizing the danger in the case, Eden said:

"We should examine . . . the security measures now applied in the public service and also consider whether any further precautions can properly be taken to reduce the risk of treachery . . . I therefore . . . propose that we should convene a small informal conference of privy councillors from both sides of the House."

Privy councillors are a select group of statesmen and national leaders who serve primarily as advisers to Queen Elizabeth II.

Consideration Of Kidnap Angle In Till Case Delayed

GREENWOOD, Miss., Nov. 7 (AP)—The Leflore County grand jury, working through a heavy docket, delayed until tomorrow consideration of kidnap charges against two white men in the famous Till case.

Witnesses scheduled to testify today were told to return tomorrow morning.

Dist. Atty. Stanny Sanders said earlier he hoped to finish testimony today in the kidnap charges which grew out of the disappearance of Emmett Louis Till, 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy.

A 20-man, all-white grand jury began work this morning with the Till case its hottest business.

The jury's action on the kidnap charges won't be known until the grand jury makes its report, probably Wednesday, Sanders said.

The jury will decide whether half brothers Roy Bryant and John W. Milam will stand trial on a charge of kidnaping the Negro boy who disappeared while vacationing in Mississippi.

Mose Wright, 64-year-old sharecropper, who said he fled to Chicago for safety, waited in the Leflore County sheriff's office to testify. Till was abducted from Wright's farm shack in nearby Money last Aug. 28.

With Wright was Willie Reed, 18-year-old farm hand, who also left for Chicago after the famous trial in nearby Sumner six weeks ago when a jury found Bryant and Milam innocent of murdering Till.

Wright, Till's uncle, and Reed arrived in Greenwood last night from Chicago.

Couple Robs Bank After Holding Cashier Captive

HEBRON, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP) — A young man and a buxom blonde, armed with snub-nosed revolvers, robbed the Citizens Bank of $3,000 today and fled toward Chicago carrying as hostage a cashier they had held prisoner all night in his home.

The cashier's wife was left tied in the basement of their home.

The couple fled from Hebron in a car belonging to Robert McGinley, 60, the bank cashier, forcing him to accompany them. McGinley escaped from the car near Frankfort, Ill., after the couple had eluded a police net in Indiana.

The car was found this afternoon abandoned in Matteson, Ill., about 25 miles south of Chicago and eight miles east of the point where McGinley leaped from the car near Frankfort as it slowed for a truck.

McGinley said the men and woman, both armed with short-barrelled revolvers, came to his home about 6 p.m. last night and forced him to let them in.

Between 9 and 10 p.m., he said, they took him and his wife, Ruth, in the McGinley car to a country road northeast of Hebron and parked until early morning. Then they drove back to the McGinley home, where McGinley was ordered to dress for work.

The woman bandit took Mrs. McGinley to the basement and tied her up, staying with her in the house while her companion took McGinley to the bank about 7:30 a.m.

The time lock on the bank vault was set for 9 a.m. On learning this the man forced McGinley to open a safe which contained about $3,000. The haul included 70 silver dollars, a number of two-dollar bills and some old and mutilated currency. The bulk of it was in bills of small denomination.

Monty Says Ike "Best In World"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery today called President Eisenhower "the best guy in the world."

The British soldier, who served under Eisenhower in World War II and in the North Atlantic Treaty forces, said the President has "made himself the most useful human in the world today." This, Montgomery said, is because the nations of the world "want someone who can be trusted completely and that they know is completely sincere and will not let them down."

The veteran British hero of the last world war, now deputy supreme commander of the Western Allied Powers, made his unsolicited remarks about the President at a Pentagon news conference. He similarly praised Eisenhower after visiting the convalescing chief executive in Denver over the weekend.

Montgomery said he found the President "looking very well indeed, clear-eyed and alert mentally." And he declared:

"You people have got to understand that that guy is a world figure, not just an American president."

The President, he said, has a "quality that can draw the hearts of men toward him, like a magnet."

McKeldin Declares Maryland Accepts Segregation Ruling

No Plans Made For Carring Out Order

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Maryland's Gov. McKeldin said tonight there was "no reason" why the State should not go along with the Supreme Court ruling removing racial barriers from public parks, playgrounds and golf courses.

The governor's brief statement on the ruling indicated that the State would follow a course of quiet compliance.

"Officials of the State of Maryland have never to my knowledge questioned the supremacy in the law of the United States Constitution or the interpretations of that document by the Supreme Court of the United States. I see no reason to do so now," he said.

C. Ferdinand Sybert, attorney general of Maryland, said the ruling "seems to be the last word."

His comment was typical of that from officials in the State and city which spawned the case on which the Supreme Court ruled.

But the officials weren't ready to go into detailed comment on plans for implementing the order. Most said they would have to study the decision and mull it over in official meetings.

Mrs. Lilly M. Jackson, president of the Baltimore Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said:

"I'm one happy American. I am no longer a colored American. I am just a loyal American.

"Now we hope Mayor (Thomas) D'Alesandro and the governor will stand by the Supreme Court order.

"I hope we won't have to create any more friction. I hope we won't have to go back into court."

The NAACP filed suits in 1952 and 1953 against the State Commissioners of Forests and Parks and the City of Baltimore asking that racial bars be lifted immediately in State and City parks and municipally-operated swimming pools.

On July 27, 1954, Federal Judge Rozel C. Thomsen ruled in Baltimore that "separate but equal" public swimming facilities and recreation areas do not violate the Constitution.

The U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed Thomsen's decision last March 15. Basing its decision squarely on the Supreme Court's historic opinion which labeled segregation in public schools unconstitutional, the Richmond court said segregation also is illegal in public parks and playgrounds.

It said the "separate but equal" theory was swept away by the public school ruling.

It was this ruling the Supreme Court upheld today in just 11 words: "The motion to affirm is granted and the judgment is affirmed."

This had the effect of leaving the question of procedure up to the local governments.

Student Tries Bulldozer, Has Police On Jump

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 7 (AP) — A bulldozer with a University of Miami student at the controls cut a series of capers today and had police literally on the jump.

When it was over, Francis Meldin Osborn, 26, was booked on charges of using the machine without the owner's consent, resisting arrest, destroying property, attempted assault with a deadly weapon (the bulldozer), endangering life, limb and property, and disturbing the peace.

Osborn said he operated a bulldozer for the Seabees from 1946 to 1951 and "just wanted to see if I could still run one."

Patrolman A. E. Raimonde said he was surprised to see a bulldozer at work on a highway-widening job at 1:45 a.m. He approached it, shone his flashlight on the operator, but the big machine went right on with its job.

Since he was in plain clothes in an unmarked police car, Raimonde radioed for uniformed officers. A car soon arrived, but got out of the way fast when the bulldozer headed straight for it.

Three more police cars raced to the scene. Ten officers ringed the bulldozer. Patrolman Robert De Korte walked toward the thundering machine but beat a rapid retreat when it turned toward him, missing by inches.

Raimonde now leaped up on the bulldozer and shouted for Osborn to stop it. The bulldozer shook from side to side like an elephant. Raimonde leaped off.

DeKorte saw the big machine head for him. He pulled his pistol. The machine ground to a halt and police swarmed over it.

"I saw the lights and people but I didn't pay much attention," said Osborn. "I didn't see a pistol—I sure wouldn't want to get shot."

Why did he do it?

"I guess I had five, maybe six, beers."

Uranium Reported

TROMSOE, Norway, Nov 7 (AP)—Huge deposits of uranium and thorium may have been located near Nordreisa, well north of the Arctic Circle and 200 miles from the Soviet border, it was reported today.

Reds Play Down Military Might On Anniversary

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Soviet Union celebrated the 38th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution today with mild words and a mild show of its military might.

Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov set the tone of the giant ceremonial parade with a mild address that made no mention of "capitalist threats" of U.S. aggressors."

The parade itself played down military aspects. There were an estimated million demonstrators, some carrying banners extolling the virtues of communism and calling for friendship between the nations of the world.

Short Exhibition

The arms demonstration took a brisk 20 minutes, the shortest exhibition Western observers have witnessed on this greatest of Soviet holidays. No new guns, armor or aircraft were displayed.

Westerners interpreted the unusually peaceable nature of the proceedings as an attempt to support Russia's friendly "new look," possibly with an eye to the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Geneva.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev headed the list of Soviet leaders who stood atop the Lenin-Stalin mausoleum as the paraders marched across the frosted, shiny cobblestones of historic Red Square below.

Zhukov Takes Salutes

Frost tinted the golden domes of the Kremlin churches. Loudspeakers set in the red Kremlin walls called for "spontaneous" cheers. The marchers responded — but mildly and without the reverberating roar of similar past occasions. Zhukov took the salutes.

He hailed Soviet efforts to lessen international tension, lauded the progress of Soviet agriculture and industry, and ended his 10-minute speech with a declaration that the "Soviet people are marching toward construction of communism."

Husband Shoots Wife, Kills Self

TIMONIUM, Md., Nov. 7 (AP) — Edwin W. Isaacs shot his wife in the back with a rifle today, then killed himself, police reported.

The shooting occurred in the cellar of their home here.

Mrs. Isaacs was in critical condition at Union Memorial Hospital. She told police that after she was shot, she managed to run up the cellar steps, leap from a first-floor bedroom window and stagger and crawl to a neighbor's home.

Isaacs, a 38-year-old electrician, was released last Thursday from a hospital where he was treated for a nervous condition. He was found dead in the cellar, a bullet wound in his chest.

The couple have a 9-year-old son who was staying with relatives at Cockeysville tonight.

The 37-year-old woman told police she was washing clothes when her husband came down in the cellar, walked up behind her, pressed the .22 caliber rifle against her back and fired.

Farmer Is Killed In Freak Accident

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—David Burwell Childs, 35-year-old farmer at nearby Summit Point, died in Charles Town Hospital last night of injuries suffered in a freak accident.

Doctors said he suffered a fractured skull when a guard on a power saw at his home flew off and hit him in the head.

Nine Boys Accused Of Looting Trucks

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Nine boys, ranging in age from 9 to 14 years, were charged today with attempted larceny after police said they caught them trying to take articles from truck trailers.

Police said items recovered, which belonged to the Schreiber Co. of Glen Burnie, included five radios, two tool sets, seven sets of drafting instruments, two TV lamps and a copy of the painting, "The Last Supper."

No Plane Crash

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, Tuesday, Nov. 8 (AP)—A ship's radio report of a plane disaster in the Atlantic touched off a search in the night for possible survivors. But Britain's Royal Air Force said today the report was in error, and called off the hunt.

88-Year-Old Woman Struck, Killed By Car

PETERSVILLE, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—Susie Elizabeth Ebbert, 88-year-old Frederick County woman who lived near Petersville, started across U.S. 340 today to visit a neighbor.

An automobile coming down the highway skidded on the wet pavement and struck Mrs. Ebbert, who died of a broken neck.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Annabel Himes, of Knoxville, told State Police she hit her brakes the moment she saw the aged woman, but the wet pavement threw her auto into a skid.

The accident happened about three miles north of Knoxville and near Petersville. State Trooper Robert Storer investigated. No charges were filed immediately.

Government Suppressing News, Top Editors Charge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Some of the nation's top news specialists told Congress today that information about government activities is being suppressed or "managed" to an extent that seriously impairs the public's right to know what is going on.

This was the unanimous verdict of a dozen editors, publishers, writers and others who gave informal testimony as a House Government Operations subcommittee opened an inquiry into freedom of information.

Chairman Moss (D-Calif) promised "a long, hard look at the amount of information available from the executive agencies for both the public and its elected representatives."

James B. Reston, chief of the Washington bureau of The New York Times, told the committee news suppression is not the only problem—that "a growing tendency" by government officials to slant or "manage" news may in the long run do more harm.

For example, Reston said, a "considerable effort" was made by United States officials at the Big Four conference in Geneva last summer to give "an optimistic flavor" to conference developments—although later the word went out that "it might be a good idea to frown a little."

Columnist Joseph Alsop Jr., declared Washington newsmen are subject to reprisals including federal investigation when they publish, against the wishes of some officials, news they consider of "life or death importance" to the American people.

Alsop said it has become "infinitely more difficult" in recent years to get information from critical agencies even when the information is well known to unfriendly foreign governments.

Basically, all those who gave their views contended too many officials misuse various "secrecy" classifications to prevent publication of news which actually would not endanger national security.

Hutchins Says He'd Hire Red If "Qualified"

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Robert M. Hutchins, president of the Fund for the Republic, said today he would hire a Communist "for a job he was qualified to do—provided I was in a position to see that he did it."

The Fund has been criticized by the American Legion as being left wing. It was particularly criticized for interviewing and paying a fee to Earl Browder, former secretary of the Communist party, in the preparation of a study on communism in the United States.

The Fund was set up with a 15-million-dollar grant from the Ford Foundation, and is independent of the Foundation. Its stated purpose is the fostering and preservation of civil liberties and the Constitution.

Hutchins has said that Browder, who was expelled from the U. S. Communist party but is considered still sympathetic to its aims, did not have any part in formulating or writing the study of communism for the Fund. He was paid for information he provided, Hutchins said.

Hutchins told a news conference the Fund was not thinking of withdrawing a bibliography it had prepared on the subject of communism. The bibliography, or list of books, was sharply criticized by several persons in the field as biased and for omitting important anti-Communist works.

Hall Says Demo Congress Faces 'Repudiation' In '56

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the Democratic-controlled Congress faces "repudiation" at the 1956 polls unless it corrects what he called its "miserable failure" to back President Eisenhower's domestic program.

But Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) replied that "the Democratic Congress will support its own program." He added that "it isn't the Democrats who will be repudiated at the polls."

And Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) predicted in a separate interview that the Democrats will increase their strength in both houses of Congress next year on their record of offering alternative proposals to those made by Eisenhower.

Writing in the Republican National Committee's publication "Straight from the Shoulder," Hall said Eisenhower's 1954 prediction that a Democratic majority in Congress would "cause a legislative stalemate" had proved true.

"Despite wholehearted support from his own party, his legislative program was ditched," Hall declared.

Eisenhower said during the 1954 campaign that election of a Democratic Congress might bring on a "cold war" between the parties. He later acknowledged he might have gone a little too far in this prediction.

Hall's assertion that the Democrats had compiled a record of "road blocking" the President's program indicated the Republicans plan to make an issue of this in next year's election campaigns.

"The 84th (Congress) has been a miserable failure so far," Hall said. "On Capitol Hill they're calling it the 'Road Block Congress.' A between-sessions analysis by the Republican National Committee of legislative actions, shows that it has earned that label, despite pretensions of some Democrats to support the President."

Every day, thousands of box cars just like this one are returned empty to their points of origin.

They might have returned full—and brought merchandise of various kinds to your city more cheaply than it actually arrived there by other means.

But outmoded government regulation frequently bars railroads from bidding competitively against big trucks and barges for specific loads. This is an economic waste that deprives the public of the service of a carrier which could do the job better at lower cost.

To eliminate such waste, a Cabinet Committee set up by President Eisenhower has recommended changing outmoded regulation now hobbling the transportation industry.

Adoption of these recommendations would—by spurring competition—do away with many present regulatory dislocations estimated to be costing the public* billions of dollars.

"I hope we won't have to create any more friction. I hope we won't have to go back into court."

The NAACP filed suits in 1952 and 1953 against the State Commissioners of Forests and Parks and the City of Baltimore asking that racial bars be lifted immediately in State and City parks and municipally-operated swimming pools.

On July 27, 1954, Federal Judge Rozel C. Thomsen ruled in Baltimore that "separate but equal" public swimming facilities and recreation areas do not violate the Constitution.

The U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed Thomsen's decision last March 15. Basing its decision squarely on the Supreme Court's historic opinion which labeled segregation in public schools unconstitutional, the Richmond court said segregation also is illegal in public parks and playgrounds.

It said the "separate but equal" theory was swept away by the public school ruling.

It was this ruling the Supreme Court upheld today in just 11 words: "The motion to affirm is granted and the judgment is affirmed."

This had the effect of leaving the question of procedure up to the local governments.

Student Tries Bulldozer, Has Police On Jump

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 7 (AP) — A bulldozer with a University of Miami student at the controls cut a series of capers today and had police literally on the jump.

When it was over, Francis Meldin Osborn, 26, was booked on charges of using the machine without the owner's consent, resisting arrest, destroying property, attempted assault with a deadly weapon (the bulldozer), endangering life, limb and property, and disturbing the peace.

Osborn said he operated a bulldozer for the Seabees from 1946 to 1951 and "just wanted to see if I could still run one."

Patrolman A. E. Raimonde said he was surprised to see a bulldozer at work on a highway-widening job at 1:45 a.m. He approached it, shone his flashlight on the operator, but the big machine went right on with its job.

Since he was in plain clothes in an unmarked police car, Raimonde radioed for uniformed officers. A car soon arrived, but got out of the way fast when the bulldozer headed straight for it.

Three more police cars raced to the scene. Ten officers ringed the bulldozer. Patrolman Robert De Korte walked toward the thundering machine but beat a rapid retreat when it turned toward him, missing by inches.

Raimonde now leaped up on the bulldozer and shouted for Osborn to stop it. The bulldozer shook from side to side like an elephant. Raimonde leaped off.

DeKorte saw the big machine head for him. He pulled his pistol. The machine ground to a halt and police swarmed over it.

"I saw the lights and people but I didn't pay much attention," said Osborn. "I didn't see a pistol—I sure wouldn't want to get shot."

Why did he do it?

"I guess I had five, maybe six, beers."

88-Year-Old Woman Struck, Killed By Car

PETERSVILLE, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—Susie Elizabeth Ebbert, 88-year-old Frederick County woman who lived near Petersville, started across U.S. 340 today to visit a neighbor.

An automobile coming down the highway skidded on the wet pavement and struck Mrs. Ebbert, who died of a broken neck.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Annabel Himes, of Knoxville, told State Police she hit her brakes the moment she saw the aged woman, but the wet pavement threw her auto into a skid.

The accident happened about three miles north of Knoxville and near Petersville. State Trooper Robert Storer investigated. No charges were filed immediately.

Reds Play Down Military Might On Anniversary

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Soviet Union celebrated the 38th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution today with mild words and a mild show of its military might.

Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov set the tone of the giant ceremonial parade with a mild address that made no mention of "capitalist threats" of U.S. aggressors."

The parade itself played down military aspects. There were an estimated million demonstrators, some carrying banners extolling the virtues of communism and calling for friendship between the nations of the world.

Short Exhibition

The arms demonstration took a brisk 20 minutes, the shortest exhibition Western observers have witnessed on this greatest of Soviet holidays. No new guns, armor or aircraft were displayed.

Westerners interpreted the unusually peaceable nature of the proceedings as an attempt to support Russia's friendly "new look," possibly with an eye to the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Geneva.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev headed the list of Soviet leaders who stood atop the Lenin-Stalin mausoleum as the paraders marched across the frosted, shiny cobblestones of historic Red Square below.

Zhukov Takes Salutes

Frost tinted the golden domes of the Kremlin churches. Loudspeakers set in the red Kremlin walls called for "spontaneous" cheers. The marchers responded — but mildly and without the reverberating roar of similar past occasions. Zhukov took the salutes.

He hailed Soviet efforts to lessen international tension, lauded the progress of Soviet agriculture and industry, and ended his 10-minute speech with a declaration that the "Soviet people are marching toward construction of communism."

Husband Shoots Wife, Kills Self

TIMONIUM, Md., Nov. 7 (AP) — Edwin W. Isaacs shot his wife in the back with a rifle today, then killed himself, police reported.

The shooting occurred in the cellar of their home here.

Mrs. Isaacs was in critical condition at Union Memorial Hospital. She told police that after she was shot, she managed to run up the cellar steps, leap from a first-floor bedroom window and stagger and crawl to a neighbor's home.

Isaacs, a 38-year-old electrician, was released last Thursday from a hospital where he was treated for a nervous condition. He was found dead in the cellar, a bullet wound in his chest.

The couple have a 9-year-old son who was staying with relatives at Cockeysville tonight.

The 37-year-old woman told police she was washing clothes when her husband came down in the cellar, walked up behind her, pressed the .22 caliber rifle against her back and fired.

Farmer Is Killed In Freak Accident

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—David Burwell Childs, 35-year-old farmer at nearby Summit Point, died in Charles Town Hospital last night of injuries suffered in a freak accident.

Doctors said he suffered a fractured skull when a guard on a power saw at his home flew off and hit him in the head.

Nine Boys Accused Of Looting Trucks

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Nine boys, ranging in age from 9 to 14 years, were charged today with attempted larceny after police said they caught them trying to take articles from truck trailers.

Police said items recovered, which belonged to the Schreiber Co. of Glen Burnie, included five radios, two tool sets, seven sets of drafting instruments, two TV lamps and a copy of the painting, "The Last Supper."

No Plane Crash

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, Tuesday, Nov. 8 (AP)—A ship's radio report of a plane disaster in the Atlantic touched off a search in the night for possible survivors. But Britain's Royal Air Force said today the report was in error, and called off the hunt.

TROMSOE, Norway, Nov 7 (AP)—Huge deposits of uranium and thorium may have been located near Nordreisa, well north of the Arctic Circle and 200 miles from the Soviet border, it was reported today.

Government Suppressing News, Top Editors Charge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Some of the nation's top news specialists told Congress today that information about government activities is being suppressed or "managed" to an extent that seriously impairs the public's right to know what is going on.

This was the unanimous verdict of a dozen editors, publishers, writers and others who gave informal testimony as a House Government Operations subcommittee opened an inquiry into freedom of information.

Chairman Moss (D-Calif) promised "a long, hard look at the amount of information available from the executive agencies for both the public and its elected representatives."

James B. Reston, chief of the Washington bureau of The New York Times, told the committee news suppression is not the only problem—that "a growing tendency" by government officials to slant or "manage" news may in the long run do more harm.

For example, Reston said, a "considerable effort" was made by United States officials at the Big Four conference in Geneva last summer to give "an optimistic flavor" to conference developments—although later the word went out that "it might be a good idea to frown a little."

Columnist Joseph Alsop Jr., declared Washington newsmen are subject to reprisals including federal investigation when they publish, against the wishes of some officials, news they consider of "life or death importance" to the American people.

Alsop said it has become "infinitely more difficult" in recent years to get information from critical agencies even when the information is well known to unfriendly foreign governments.

Basically, all those who gave their views contended too many officials misuse various "secrecy" classifications to prevent publication of news which actually would not endanger national security.

Hutchins Says He'd Hire Red If "Qualified"

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Robert M. Hutchins, president of the Fund for the Republic, said today he would hire a Communist "for a job he was qualified to do—provided I was in a position to see that he did it."

The Fund has been criticized by the American Legion as being left wing. It was particularly criticized for interviewing and paying a fee to Earl Browder, former secretary of the Communist party, in the preparation of a study on communism in the United States.

The Fund was set up with a 15-million-dollar grant from the Ford Foundation, and is independent of the Foundation. Its stated purpose is the fostering and preservation of civil liberties and the Constitution.

Hutchins has said that Browder, who was expelled from the U. S. Communist party but is considered still sympathetic to its aims, did not have any part in formulating or writing the study of communism for the Fund. He was paid for information he provided, Hutchins said.

Hutchins told a news conference the Fund was not thinking of withdrawing a bibliography it had prepared on the subject of communism. The bibliography, or list of books, was sharply criticized by several persons in the field as biased and for omitting important anti-Communist works.

Appeal Turned Down

Hall Says Demo Congress Faces 'Repudiation' In '56

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the Democratic-controlled Congress faces "repudiation" at the 1956 polls unless it corrects what he called its "miserable failure" to back President Eisenhower's domestic program.

But Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) replied that "the Democratic Congress will support its own program." He added that "it isn't the Democrats who will be repudiated at the polls."

And Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) predicted in a separate interview that the Democrats will increase their strength in both houses of Congress next year on their record of offering alternative proposals to those made by Eisenhower.

Writing in the Republican National Committee's publication "Straight from the Shoulder," Hall said Eisenhower's 1954 prediction that a Democratic majority in Congress would "cause a legislative stalemate" had proved true.

"Despite wholehearted support from his own party, his legislative program was ditched," Hall declared.

Eisenhower said during the 1954 campaign that election of a Democratic Congress might bring on a "cold war" between the parties. He later acknowledged he might have gone a little too far in this prediction.

Hall's assertion that the Democrats had compiled a record of "road blocking" the President's program indicated the Republicans plan to make an issue of this in next year's election campaigns.

"The 84th (Congress) has been a miserable failure so far," Hall said. "On Capitol Hill they're calling it the 'Road Block Congress.' A between-sessions analysis by the Republican National Committee of legislative actions, shows that it has earned that label, despite pretensions of some Democrats to support the President."

THIS BOX CAR COULD BE SAVING YOU MONEY!

Every day, thousands of box cars just like this one are returned empty to their points of origin.

They might have returned full – and brought merchandise of various kinds to your city more cheaply than it actually arrived there by other means.

But outmoded government regulation frequently bars railroads from bidding competitively against big trucks and barges for specific loads. This is an economic waste that deprives the public of the service of a carrier which could do the job better at lower cost.

To eliminate such waste, a Cabinet Committee set up by President Eisenhower has recommended changing outmoded regulation now hobbling the transportation industry.

Adoption of these recommendations would – by spurring competition – do away with many present regulatory dislocations estimated to be costing the public* billions of dollars.

'Happy Balance' Necessary For Continued Prosperity

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—Walter Williams, undersecretary of commerce said today continued American prosperity is greatly dependent upon maintenance of the present "happy balance between excessive optimism and overconfidence . . . and uncertaintly, timidity and underconfidence."

Williams spoke at the opening session of the 81st annual meeting of the National Wholesale Druggists Assn.

"Sustained prosperity, short range," he said, "depends on the maintenance of the economic climate presently existing as the result of sound government programs and responsible action by the American people."

He called long range prospects "enormously bright" and pointed to a possible 1956 economy boasting an estimated 540 billion dollar gross national project, a productivity increase of 40 per cent in the next 10 years.

He said the National Planning Assn. predicts a gross national product of 700 billion dollars by 1975 for a population estimated by the U.S. Census Bureau at 221,550,000.

More than 1,100 persons are attending the four-day convention.

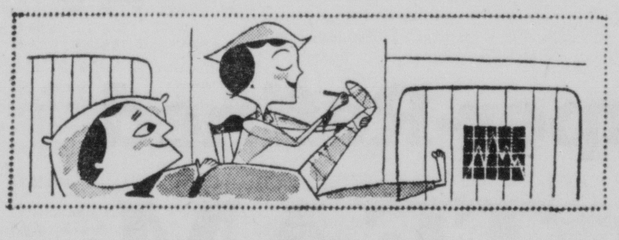
What you should know about insuring your health



There are all kinds of plans and packages available, but be sure you buy what you actually need...

KNOWING THE FACTS PAYS OFF

Buying health insurance? Thinking of adding to your present coverage? Then be sure you know what your policy should provide... what coverages you need... what to look for and what to avoid in health insurance.

PROTECT YOUR INCOME FIRST

In any complete program of health insurance, income protection against disability should be your first step. Savings may pay for hospital care, but it takes considerably more to replace the income you would lose if you are seriously disabled.

For example, let's say you earn $100 a week... and you're laid up because of a sickness or accident for 5 months. This would mean a loss of about $2,100. Everything depends on your income. It's worth protecting.

There are several names for this kind of insurance – income replacement, loss of time, income protection. But whatever you call it, be sure your policy lets you choose the income you need. Be sure it covers accidents and illness. Be sure the maximum benefit periods are at least 12 months for sickness, 4 years for accidents.

HOSPITALIZATION IS NEXT

Hospital Expense insurance should cover you and your entire family for hospital room and board . . . for all the extras such as X-rays, ambulance, anesthesia, etc. . . . for maternity expenses . . . and for surgery.

Flexible policies are best . . . policies that let you choose specific coverages and benefit amounts. Be sure you're covered for sickness and accidents... and be sure the waiting periods before coverage begins are reasonable.

WHAT ABOUT SURGERY?

While it's best to include surgical coverage with your hospitalization, many people own split protection — with surgery as a separate policy. This usually means double records and a higher total premium. One policy for both is therefore to your advantage. And even more important:

Check the surgical schedule to see that it covers at least 200 operations ... choose a plan that lets you select a practical benefit ceiling – $100, $200 or $300 – whichever is best for you . . . and find out how many operations pay the maximum benefit.

DON'T FORGET MAJOR ILLNESS

A major illness or accident might damage your entire financial security. For this reason a few insurance companies have made available a new kind of health policy – Major Medical.

Major Medical takes over when your regular hospitalization ends . . . with possible benefits up to thousands of dollars per case. Until recently, this plan was available only to certain employee groups, but can now be purchased by individuals and families.

NATIONWIDE SURVEYED THE FIELD

Some time ago, Nationwide Insurance surveyed all existing health and accident plans, including its own — and decided that something should be done to give the public more realistic protection . . . at less cost.

The result? Four new plans that can cover all your health needs with flexible benefits, realistic protection and lower premiums.

1. THE "INVINCIBLE" PLAN

A new Income Protection plan... offers you a selection of monthly income benefits ranging from $100 to $400 for sickness and accident disabilities.

There are 8 coverages, including hospitalization, with varying amounts of benefits for 7 of these coverages. Select what you need and how much of it you need. You pay for no unwanted extras . . . and you keep your premium down to the cost of your exact insurance needs.

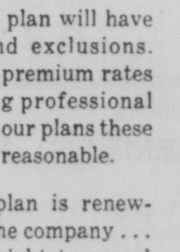
(AH-247A)

2. THE BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL PLAN

This is an Income Protection plan to provide the longer benefit periods necessary for the business and professional man who usually has no sick leave when disabled — while overhead expenses remain high. This plan offers lifetime benefits for total disability, with as long as five years coverage for sickness. It includes a full line of hospitalization benefits ... and the cost is surprisingly low.

(AH-248)

3. THE FAMILY HOSPITALIZATION PLAN



Three coverages make up this low cost plan: room and board ... all hospital extras ... and liberal maternity benefits (with double benefits for twins, triple for triplets).

Benefits vary for each of these 3 coverages . . . and you can choose from 3 additional coverages to round out your protection. Surgery is one of the optionals; if you have surgical coverage, omit it from this plan . . . if you don't, you can include it.

Maximum surgical benefits, depending on the schedule you select, range from $100 to $300. Out of 238 listed operations, 20 pay the maximum.

(AH-249A)

4. THE MAJOR MEDICAL PLAN

Nationwide is one of the few insurance companies that offers you this unusual plan. It's designed to pick up where your individual or group policy ends . . . or above the amount you feel you yourself can afford.

When covered hospital expenses go over the deductible amount selected, we pay 80% of the balance, up to $5,000 each case . . . while your regular hospitalization plan covers the initial expenses you are asked to pay.

(AH-234)

HOW ABOUT THE "FINE PRINT"?

Any health insurance plan will have some limitations and exclusions. These help keep your premium rates down by discouraging professional "benefit shoppers". In our plans these restrictions are quite reasonable.

Our hospitalization plan is renewable at the option of the company . . . while we retain the right to cancel income protection plans. We do, however, provide non-cancellable plans for those who prefer them.

Income benefits due to sickness are subject to a 30 or 15-day waiting period after the policy is effective, depending on the plan. Sickness benefits in the hospital plan are subject to a 15-day waiting period. Some surgical benefits in all our policies require a 6-month waiting period from the policy date.

"IN SERVICE WITH PEOPLE"

That's our slogan. It means we're a "different" kind of company — because we believe that people can achieve anything they want to by working together with other people ... people should have a voice in the affairs of the company they own ... and people's money should be invested in activities serving their interests.

Because we believe these things we assist voluntary self-help groups; give policyholders a chance to speak up through their Advisory Committees of Policyholders; and invest in businesses which directly help policyholders and the general public.

Because we believe that people working together can achieve any common goal, we give our policyholders a chance to tell us what they like or don't like about Nationwide and what they think should be changed. Annually our company-wide Policyholder Advisory Committee meets in Columbus with top management. These policyholders know that this is a "different" kind of insurance company, truly "in service with people".

If you'd like to participate in one of these meetings – or, if you're not a policyholder and think this is the kind of company for you, just . . .

CALL YOUR NATIONWIDE REPRESENTATIVE

He'll be glad to tell you about us, about our Policyholder Advisory Committee... and he'll be glad to review with you any health insurance coverages you now have–so that you can be sure you have what you actually need. Contact the Nationwide office nearest you, listed below.

HOSPITALIZATION IS NEXT

Hospital Expense insurance should cover you and your entire family for hospital room and board . . . for all the extras such as X-rays, ambulance, anesthesia, etc. . . . for maternity expenses . . . and for surgery.

Flexible policies are best . . . policies that let you choose specific coverages and benefit amounts. Be sure you're covered for sickness and accidents . . . and be sure the waiting periods before coverage begins are reasonable.

WHAT ABOUT SURGERY?

While it's best to include surgical coverage with your hospitalization, many people own split protection — with surgery as a separate policy. This usually means double records and a higher total premium. One policy for both is therefore to your advantage. And even more important:

Check the surgical schedule to see that it covers at least 200 operations . . . choose a plan that lets you select a practical benefit ceiling – $100, $200 or $300 – whichever is best for you . . . and find out how many operations pay the maximum benefit.

DON'T FORGET MAJOR ILLNESS

A major illness or accident might damage your entire financial security. For this reason a few insurance companies have made available a new kind of health policy – Major Medical.

Major Medical takes over when your regular hospitalization ends . . . with possible benefits up to thousands of dollars per case. Until recently, this plan was available only to certain employee groups, but can now be purchased by individuals and families.

NATIONWIDE SURVEYED THE FIELD

Some time ago, Nationwide Insurance surveyed all existing health and accident plans, including its own — and decided that something should be done to give the public more realistic protection . . . at less cost.

The result? Four new plans that can cover all your health needs with flexible benefits, realistic protection and lower premiums.

1. THE "INVINCIBLE" PLAN

A new Income Protection plan . . . offers you a selection of monthly income benefits ranging from $100 to $400 for sickness and accident disabilities.

There are 8 coverages, including hospitalization, with varying amounts of benefits for 7 of these coverages. Select what you need and how much of it you need. You pay for no unwanted extras . . . and you keep your premium down to the cost of your exact insurance needs.

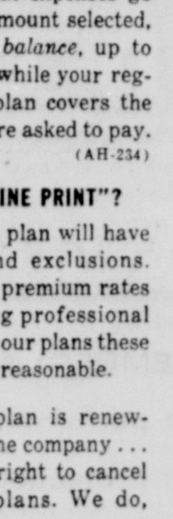
(AH-247A)

2. THE BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL PLAN

This is an Income Protection plan to provide the longer benefit periods necessary for the business and professional man who usually has no sick leave when disabled — while overhead expenses remain high. This plan offers lifetime benefits for total disability, with as long as five years coverage for sickness. It includes a full line of hospitalization benefits . . . and the cost is surprisingly low.

(AH-248)

3. THE FAMILY HOSPITALIZATION PLAN



Three coverages make up this low cost plan: room and board . . . all hospital extras . . . and liberal maternity benefits (with double benefits for twins, triple for triplets).

Benefits vary for each of these 3 coverages . . . and you can choose from 3 additional coverages to round out your protection. Surgery is one of the optionals; if you have surgical coverage, omit it from this plan . . . if you don't, you can include it.

Maximum surgical benefits, depending on the schedule you select, range from $100 to $300. Out of 238 listed operations, 20 pay the maximum.

(AH-249A)

4. THE MAJOR MEDICAL PLAN

Nationwide is one of the few insurance companies that offers you this unusual plan. It's designed to pick up where your individual or group policy ends . . . or above the amount you feel you yourself can afford.

When covered hospital expenses go over the deductible amount selected, we pay 80% of the balance, up to $5,000 each case . . . while your regular hospitalization plan covers the initial expenses you are asked to pay.

(AH-234)

HOW ABOUT THE "FINE PRINT"?

Any health insurance plan will have some limitations and exclusions. These help keep your premium rates down by discouraging professional "benefit shoppers". In our plans these restrictions are quite reasonable.

Our hospitalization plan is renewable at the option of the company . . . while we retain the right to cancel income protection plans. We do, however, provide non-cancellable plans for those who prefer them.

Income benefits due to sickness are subject to a 30 or 15-day waiting period after the policy is effective, depending on the plan. Sickness benefits in the hospital plan are subject to a 15-day waiting period. Some surgical benefits in all our policies require a 6-month waiting period from the policy date.

"IN SERVICE WITH PEOPLE"

That's our slogan. It means we're a "different" kind of company — because we believe that people can achieve anything they want to by working together with other people . . . people should have a voice in the affairs of the company they own . . . and people's money should be invested in activities serving their interests.

Because we believe these things we assist voluntary self-help groups; give policyholders a chance to speak up through their Advisory Committees of Policyholders; and invest in businesses which directly help policyholders and the general public.

Because we believe that people working together can achieve any common goal, we give our policyholders a chance to tell us what they like or don't like about Nationwide and what they think should be changed. Annually our company-wide Policyholder Advisory Committee meets in Columbus with top management. These policyholders know that this is a "different" kind of insurance company, truly "in service with people".

If you'd like to participate in one of these meetings – or, if you're not a policyholder and think this is the kind of company for you, just . . .

CALL YOUR NATIONWIDE REPRESENTATIVE

He'll be glad to tell you about us, about our Policyholder Advisory Committee . . . and he'll be glad to review with you any health insurance coverages you now have–so that you can be sure you have what you actually need. Contact the Nationwide office nearest you, listed below.

Education Week Being Observed Here

Schools of Cumberland and Allegany County are observing American Education Week with visitation days, assembly programs and panel discussions.

The purpose of the programs is to direct attention to the citizens to work accomplished and to obtain the cooperation and support of the public in meeting these needs, according to Jack Snyder, chairman of the public relations committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association.

Snyder, who teaches at Mt. Savage School, has arranged for a poster display in the windows of the Liberty Trust Company here.

Posters emphasizing the general theme, "Schools, Your Investment in America" as well as the daily themes, were submitted by Miss Lola Burrall, art instructor at Fort Hill High School; Wayne Hill, principal of Beall High School; Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools; Miss Lula Blonsky, principal of Pennsylvania Avenue School; Miss Ruth McColly, supervisor of home economics; Dr. Lillian C. Compton, former president of Frostburg State Teachers College; Theodore Foote, supervisor of art education; the faculty of State Teachers College of Frostburg, and Miss Mary Walsh, librarian at Cumberland Public Library.

WHY THEY SAY:

"We'd Never be Without Father John's Medicine"

In many homes Father John's Medicine is always on hand — because its use has become a habit from one generation to another. Today mothers are giving it to their children because their mothers gave it to them when they were young.

This unusual family confidence is the result of proven merit. Try it for yourself. It has been used by millions for over 99 years.

Civil Service Group Asks City To Adopt Wage Scale

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission in its annual report to the Mayor and Council yesterday again recommended establishment of a wage scale in conjunction with the job classification report.

The commission said a scale would provide opportunity for recognition of seniority on the job and an employe would have merit increases at various stages of his employment.

The report, covering 15 months ending June 30, said the major task centered around a study of and a report on job classification of all city employes. The report became effective July 1, it said, adding there may be differences of opinion as to classification of a position or title for a job and the commission invites recommendations or suggestions which may make the report more effective. The wage scale recommendation was made by the commission with the classification report. The classification report has not been made public by city officials although it was received last June.

Noting that the last annual report had called for appointment of a committee to study existing Civil Service laws and to present a new unified law, it added "We are still of the opinion that a unified law would be advantageous."

The major task for the current year is to revise the handbook on rules and to make a copy available to each employe.

It noted more information is being received by its City Hall office relative to change of status of employes and adding of new employes. It said this information helps keep personnel records up to date and tends to be more useful than in the past.

The commission met regularly the fourth Monday of each month and held seven special meetings. One formal hearing was held and seven examination programs.

Appreciation for cooperation was expressed by the commission members, Ralph R. Webster, chairman, Fred Ryan and Francis Kenney, members.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long asked council if there is any reason why the city couldn't have a unified wage scale. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said the job is a difficult one but he is working on classifications in his department. Up to now, he said, there have been only two — skilled and unskilled. He added when he moved to have the report accepted and filed he did not intend to have it "buried."

Mayor Roy W. Eves pointed out that under the plan the wage trend "would be up" and should be considered at the time council talks about wage increases.

City To Proclaim Dec. 1 As SD Day

The Mayor and Council has agreed to issue a proclamation designating Thursday, December 1, as "SD (safe driving) Day" and to allow stringing of a banner across Baltimore Street near Henderson Avenue from November 10 to January 2.

The request was made by the Western Maryland Women's Traffic Safety group of which Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder is director and Mrs. Lois Baer, associate director. It was pointed out the banner will be displayed through the holidays because of usually heavy traffic at those times.

The group pointed out the second annual campaign will have as its challenge not a single traffic accident in the 24-hour period. A 30-day education program will proceed the observance.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan in commenting on the observance said it should be continuous and not just for 24 hours.

Council approved a request to issue a proclamation designating the week of November 13-20 as "National Retarded Children's Week." The request was made by the local Association of Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

Payment of $107,149.01 to Moyer Brothers was approved. The money represents the eighth partial payment for work on the sewage treatment plant during the period Oct. 1-31.

George Washington is credited as being the first to breed a mule in the United States.

Motorist Jailed In Default Of $200 Fines

A local motorist was committed to Allegany County Jail yesterday in default of fines totaling more than $200 on two motor vehicle violations.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason fined Dewey B. Lytle, 316 North Waverly Terrace, $150 and costs on one charge and $50 and costs on another.

He was committed to the county jail for 60 days in default of the $150 fine, and 30 days in default of the $50 fine.

Lytle was arrested at 1 a.m. Sunday after he remained stopped on Baltimore Street through several changes of the traffic light, and then drove his automobile at a high rate of speed up North Centre Street.

According to testimony yesterday morning, five city policemen were called to apprehend Lytle and two passengers, Miss Violet Dolly and Melvin Dolly, both of 318 North Waverly Terrace. Miss Dolly and Lytle were apprehended on North Centre Street, but Dolly was not taken into custody until an hour later at his home.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday morning in Police Court fined Dolly $20 on a charge of resisting arrest, and $10 on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was committed to the City Jail in default of the fines.

Magistrate Dick also fined the Dolly girl a total of $40 on the same charges, but suspended the fines. Lytle was also fined $40 on the two charges by Magistrate Dick.

Police who helped arrest the trio and also testified at Police Court yesterday were Officers Frank Bohn, George Furstenburg, Joseph Harvey, Royce Clayton and Elmer Shank.

Motorist Is Fined Following Crash

Chester LeRoy Collins Jr., 20, of RD 3, this city, who narrowly escaped serious injury in a two-car crash last Thursday on the Valley Road, was fined $25 and costs in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason fined Collins after hearing testimony by Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey, who arrested Collins following the accident.

Collins was arrested after his car, traveling on the wrong side of the highway, smashed into another auto driven by Richard E. Huff, 18, also of RD 3, this city. After striking Huff's auto, Collins traveled down the left side of the road, and went over a 12-foot embankment before coming to a stop.

Eye-Opener

Eyes turn the trick from a face that's vague — to one that's strikingly alive.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

You never know what possibilities your face has — until you start making eyes at yourself. Turn about for a face that's vaguely pretty to one that's vivid and distinctive comes from a knowing way of emphasizing the size and depth and expression of the eyes.

Past experiment may have stopped you using eye cosmetics because they made you look too made up. You never will be encouraged in anything that has that effect by a Powers advisor — remember, we're enthusiasts for make-down. Eye shadow should create subtle shadows, mascara must darken but never coat or bead the lashes. But this is enough to perform small miracles for the best feature you have. Decide to try your hand with eye shadow and mascara again, according to the proper methods following—and you're in for quite a discovery.

1. With the fourth finger, take up a sparing amount of shadow and apply it close to the lashes from the center of the lid to the corner. Wipe off excess and blend the color outward past the corner of the eye. Blend and reblend until there's a mere suggestion of a tantalizing shadow.

2. With a clean eyelash brush, a tiny, stiff one, brush your lashes to separate them and remove powder. Then dampen the brush slightly with warm water and pick up a very little mascara on the bristles. Touch the brush to the tips of your upper lashes, encouraging them to curl upward and outward toward the temples. For the lower lashes, no mascara at all.

Now, with an eyebrow pencil, try these special effects to see which does that wonderful something extra for you. Elongate your eyes with a soft pencil line along the roots of the upper lashes to a quarter-inch beyond the last lash, and you might tilt this line slightly upward at the end. Or use a pencil line to make spare lower lashes look thicker, this time along the lower lid. Blend, but be careful not to smudge.

Average Resident Spends $10.50 A Year On Medicine

Cumberland residents are now spending $10.50 each per year in neighborhood drug stores for doctors' prescriptions, medicines and other health aids.

That's the estimate of statisticians in the retail drug trade who set the city's collective spending on medical items at $403,200. For the U. S. the total is $1,700,000,000.

Expenditures for doctor's prescriptions alone were six times more in the past year than they were 15 years ago. This is largely accounted for by the advent of the so-called "wonder drugs" — the antihistamines, the sulfas, the antibiotics, and the cortisone derivatives — in liquids and powders, pills, capsules, ointments and creams.

Today's prescriptions, accounting for almost one-fourth of drug store receipts, average $2.19 each compared with 91 cents in 1940. They would be much higher if compounded individually.

"The 'wonder drugs' are playing a major role in successfully combating diseases that once took a shocking toll of lives," Lester B. Platt, executive secretary of the Collapsible Tube Manufacturers Council, reports. "Mass production brought them within pocketbook reach and packaging made them available in many different forms. The air-tight, non-breakable, fold-up metal tube, for example, made it possible for these drugs to be dispensed as ointments and salves and to be kept uncontaminated until ready for use."

Effective treatment of many eye and skin diseases in humans, according to medical authorities, would be greatly impaired without the tube's facility in applying the antibiotic ointments.

Civil Service Group Asks City To Adopt Wage Scale

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission in its annual report to the Mayor and Council yesterday again recommended establishment of a wage scale in conjunction with the job classification report.

The commission said a scale would provide opportunity for recognition of seniority on the job and an employe would have merit increases at various stages of his employment.

The report, covering 15 months ending June 30, said the major task centered around a study of and a report on job classification of all city employes. The report became effective July 1, it said, adding there may be differences of opinion as to classification of a position or title for a job and the commission invites recommendations or suggestions which may make the report more effective. The wage scale recommendation was made by the commission with the classification report. The classification report has not been made public by city officials although it was received last June.

Noting that the last annual report had called for appointment of a committee to study existing Civil Service laws and to present a new unified law, it added "We are still of the opinion that a unified law would be advantageous."

The major task for the current year is to revise the handbook on rules and to make a copy available to each employe.

It noted more information is being received by its City Hall office relative to change of status of employes and adding of new employes. It said this information helps keep personnel records up to date and tends to be more useful than in the past.

The commission met regularly the fourth Monday of each month and held seven special meetings. One formal hearing was held and seven examination programs.

Appreciation for cooperation was expressed by the commission members, Ralph R. Webster, chairman, Fred Ryan and Francis Kenney, members.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long asked council if there is any reason why the city couldn't have a unified wage scale. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said the job is a difficult one but he is working on classifications in his department. Up to now, he said, there have been only two — skilled and unskilled. He added when he moved to have the report accepted and filed he did not intend to have it "buried."

Mayor Roy W. Eves pointed out that under the plan the wage trend "would be up" and should be considered at the time council talks about wage increases.

City To Proclaim Dec. 1 As SD Day

The Mayor and Council has agreed to issue a proclamation designating Thursday, December 1, as "SD (safe driving) Day" and to allow stringing of a banner across Baltimore Street near Henderson Avenue from November 10 to January 2.

The request was made by the Western Maryland Women's Traffic Safety group of which Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder is director and Mrs. Lois Baer, associate director. It was pointed out the banner will be displayed through the holidays because of usually heavy traffic at those times.

The group pointed out the second annual campaign will have as its challenge not a single traffic accident in the 24-hour period. A 30-day education program will proceed the observance.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan in commenting on the observance said it should be continuous and not just for 24 hours.

Council approved a request to issue a proclamation designating the week of November 13-20 as "National Retarded Children's Week." The request was made by the local Association of Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

Payment of $107,149.01 to Moyer Brothers was approved. The money represents the eighth partial payment for work on the sewage treatment plant during the period Oct. 1-31.

Motorist Jailed In Default Of $200 Fines

A local motorist was committed to Allegany County Jail yesterday in default of fines totaling more than $200 on two motor vehicle violations.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason fined Dewey B. Lytle, 316 North Waverly Terrace, $150 and costs on one charge and $50 and costs on another.

He was committed to the county jail for 60 days in default of the $150 fine, and 30 days in default of the $50 fine.

Lytle was arrested at 1 a.m. Sunday after he remained stopped on Baltimore Street through several changes of the traffic light, and then drove his automobile at a high rate of speed up North Centre Street.

According to testimony yesterday morning, five city policemen were called to apprehend Lytle and two passengers, Miss Violet Dolly and Melvin Dolly, both of 318 North Waverly Terrace. Miss Dolly and Lytle were apprehended on North Centre Street, but Dolly was not taken into custody until an hour later at his home.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday morning in Police Court fined Dolly $20 on a charge of resisting arrest, and $10 on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was committed to the City Jail in default of the fines.

Magistrate Dick also fined the Dolly girl a total of $40 on the same charges, but suspended the fines. Lytle was also fined $40 on the two charges by Magistrate Dick.

Police who helped arrest the trio and also testified at Police Court yesterday were Officers Frank Bohn, George Furstenburg, Joseph Harvey, Royce Clayton and Elmer Shank.

Motorist Is Fined Following Crash

Chester LeRoy Collins Jr., 20, of RD 3, this city, who narrowly escaped serious injury in a two-car crash last Thursday on the Valley Road, was fined $25 and costs in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason fined Collins after hearing testimony by Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey, who arrested Collins following the accident.

Collins was arrested after his car, traveling on the wrong side of the highway, smashed into another auto driven by Richard E. Huff, 18, also of RD 3, this city. After striking Huff's auto, Collins traveled down the left side of the road, and went over a 12-foot embankment before coming to a stop.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(INS)—The passing show . . .

Last week the Big Four foreign ministers knocked off for 24 hours to commemorate All Saints Day, a day given over to the honor and further glorification of the likes of Peter, Paul, John, Matthew, Mark, Luke, Jude, James, Mary, Elizabeth, Joan and all the others who lived honorably and helped bring a new faith and code of ethics to the world.

The Russians countered with a holiday of their own, the 38th anniversary of the November 7 Communist overthrow of the Russian government — an event that has brought untold death, destruction and deprivation to hundreds and hundreds of millions.

It seems fitting to remind ourselves on this rim of the phony sunshine of their smiles that the Reds did not put aside the wicked czar when they took over. Nicholas II, Alexandra Feodorovna, Rasputin and the others were pushed out the previous March 15 of 1917, after the czar got tough with his Duma, or congress.

The Duma set up a provisional government headed by Prince Lvov and including Milyukov and Kerensky.

Everybody seemed happy for a time but a malignant force was growing within the country. It sold the Russian people on something they wanted: Peace. The mob's descendants are still selling the same ersatz merchandise today at Geneva. The provisional government, certainly not strong, struggled to keep the Russian armies on the front against Germany. The Reds yelled to get the boys home by Christmas.

The Kerensky group freed all political and military prisoners of the czar, declared the press free, came out for the right of free assembly, banned social, religious and racial discrimination, restored local self-government. It was this administration, not that of the czar, which the Communists whipped and replaced before it could really get its program started. It is this historic treachery and miscarriage of justice which we and the British and French at Geneva toasted today in vodka and song.

At the time of his recent death Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People" had reached a sale of more than 4,000,000 in 70 editions printed in 30 languages. If the book had been sold at the rate of one copy per day the sale would have had to start 8,000 years before the birth of Christ to achieve its present total.

Carnegie's courses in human relations and effective speaking are now being taught in 28 countries. His widow will continued to operate them.

My mother and a million others of her generation recognized the effectiveness of mouldy bread as a poultice for cuts, infections and the like. She and they didn't know but they were discovering penicillin. The chief medicine she wielded in her long-forgotten war against Spanish influenza was hot lemonade. We drank it until it ran out of our ears.

Now the Grover Laboratories people, who make most of the cold tablets, infer that she discovered citrus bioflavonoid, the new drugless wonder drug concealed in the meaty sections of citrus fruits.

Grove is adding the stuff to its cold pills and they say it's the greatest thing since the invention of bottled beer. But not a word of gratitude to my mother, who also got left out in the cold when the Nobel prize people gave Sir Alexander Fleming credit for penicillin.

The kid needs a better publicity man.

"Chico Carrasquel's been in this country seven years and has learned only two words of English, 'filet mignon,'" a friend of the Venezuelan shortstop said the other day.

Runways were repaired and an 80-foot concrete block wall and gutter built for storm drainage at Cumberland Municipal Airport, according to Warren R. Mullenax, operator.

Parking meter inspector Harry Whisner said receipts the week of October 30 were $697.45 compared to $686.01 the previous week, an increase of $11.44.

Four Officers Are Confirmed

Four men were confirmed by the Mayor and Council yesterday as regular members of the Police Department.

The four, who have completed their probationary period and been confirmed by Civil Service, are Karl F. Muller, James A. Swann, James J. Mason and James E. Morris.

Council moved to introduce an ordinance November 21 for the curbing, guttering and otherwise improving Michigan Avenue from an unnamed street one block east of its intersection with Laing Lane to its intersection with Edgevale Avenue. The distance would be 2,000 feet. Residents of the street will be heard at the November 21 meeting.

John J. Idoni, 9 South Allegany Street, was granted a license for Idoni Auto Sales (used cars) at 248 North Mechanic Street.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 81,190,000 gallons compared to 96,580,000 the same period a year ago, council was told by C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company. The water level at Lake Gordon is 1 foot 5 inches below the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon 5 feet 8 inches below.

Injured In Fall

Mrs. Anna Brotemarkle, 41, of 208 Laing Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday after sustaining injuries in a fall at her home. She was admitted for X-rays and observation.

Hospital attaches said Miss Mary Martina McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. McKenzie, Star Route, Frostburg, underwent surgery after being admitted to the hospital. Her left eye was badly injured, attaches said.

A student at Grantsville Elementary School, the youngster was taken to the hospital by Rev. Regis Larkin, assistant pastor of St. Michael's Catholic Church in Frostburg. Father Larkin was called by the family because they had no way of getting the child to the hospital.

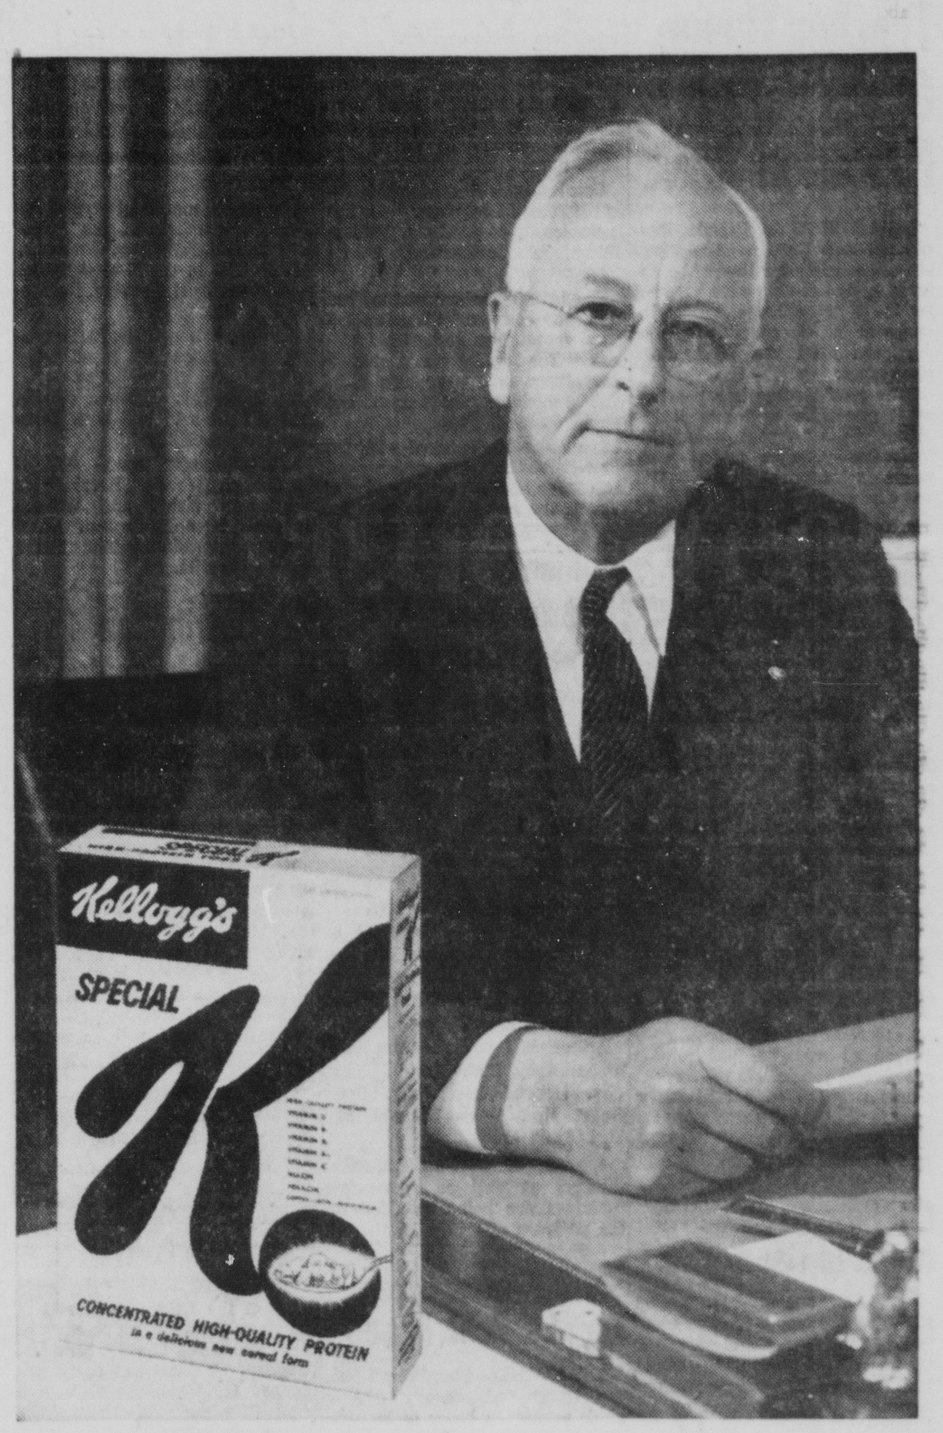
An important announcement from Kellogg's of Battle Creek

By W. H. Vanderploeg
President, Kellogg Company



BEFORE our founder, W. K. Kellogg, died in 1951, he had a great concept about a new cereal. He believed that valuable properties of other foods could be combined with those of the grains in such a way as to produce a concentrated high-quality protein food in a delicious new cereal form.

It has been my privilege to carry this idea forward.

For the past four years, we at Kellogg's have been working hand in hand with two of our great universities on this project.

Out of it has come an achievement that is perhaps the greatest in our history.

This new cereal food is an unusual combination of nourishing grains and other natural foods including milk and yeast.

It's a ready-to-eat cereal remarkably rich in high-quality protein—about twice as much as the average, and more protein than in any other well-known cereal, hot or cold.

It has a combination of vitamins specified for us by the nutrition departments of the universities who worked with us as being most needed by most people.

Yet the surprising thing is that with all its health-giving properties—this is probably the most enjoyable cereal anyone has ever put into his mouth. It's not quite a puff, not quite a flake, but I can assure you, it's unusually tempting to eat.

You may be interested in knowing what happened when we sent this new high-protein cereal out in a plain package to several thousand people whose opinions are rather important to us—people just like you.

To begin with, 4 out of 5 started off by saying how much they liked its taste.

One physician said: "This is not just a new cereal—it's a new protein food."

A food editor told us: "It's amazing that a cereal with so much solid nourishment could be so light and tasty."

We're calling the new cereal our Special K because we feel the big red "K" in our trade mark is more or less our coat of arms.

Special K is on hand now at most grocer's. We want you to try it for its unusual flavor and excellent health benefits. We particularly address this invitation to people who haven't been eating cereals too frequently.

We feel sure you'll enjoy Special K, for breakfast and any time of day you want something wholesome and good tasting.

Kellogg's OF BATTLE CREEK

Here's the Nutrition Story of Special K

WHAT 1 OUNCE OF SPECIAL K HAS (Share of National Research Council Recommended Daily Allowance for adult male.)	WHY YOU NEED IT	WHERE TO GET THE REST OF WHAT YOU NEED
PROTEIN More than any other leading cereal—hot or cold—twice as much as their average: high-quality protein—from grain, milk, yeast. Special K is the only leading cereal containing added costly, protein-rich wheat gluten and wheat germ. One serving, with milk, produces 15% of a grown man's daily recommended allowance.	To grow on when you're young—to repair and maintain body tissues every day of your adult life.	From foods of animal origin like meat, milk, eggs and fish, and from mixtures of vegetable proteins such as provided by beans, peas, grains.
VITAMIN D A full day's recommended allowance. (Recommended daily allowance for children and expectant and nursing mothers. Recommended allowances of other adults not specified.)	Essential to children for calcium utilization and normal bone and tooth development. A protective supplement particularly in winter months.	Irradiated milk and milk products, fish oils, liver, eggs, sunlight.
VITAMIN B_1 (thiamine)—One-fourth of a day's recommended allowance.	Essential to nerve function, utilization of carbohydrate foods; stimulates good appetite.	Meats (especially pork), grains, milk, vegetables, and fruits, all contribute.
VITAMIN B_2 (riboflavin)—More than 30% of a day's recommended allowance.	Essential to growth, normal digestion, normal vision, healthy skin.	Liver, milk products, eggs, some leafy vegetables.
VITAMIN C One-eighth of a day's recommended allowance.	Helps maintain healthy teeth and gums, aids tissue repair. The anti-scorbutic vitamin.	Citrus fruits, tomatoes, green and leafy vegetables, baked potato.
NIACINAMIDE More than 30% of a day's recommended allowance.	Important to condition of skin and nerves—the anti-pellagra vitamin.	Liver, peanuts, poultry, peas, beans.
VITAMIN B_{12} Scientists have not fully determined human recommended allowances. Special K contains an amount judged by authorities to equal a day's recommended allowance.	Essential to formation (with iron) of red blood cells. Possibly important to other body functions.	Meats, especially liver and kidney.
COPPER-IRON More than one-third of a day's recommended allowance of each.	These two minerals are both essential to red blood cell formation.	Meats, green vegetables, peas, beans.

SPECIAL K also contains FOLACIN, a nutritionally significant vitamin on which exact recommended allowances have not been determined, CALCIUM, PHOSPHORUS, IODINE.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(INS)—The passing show . . .

Last week the Big Four foreign ministers knocked off for 24 hours to commemorate All Saints Day, a day given over to the honor and further glorification of the likes of Peter, Paul, John, Matthew, Mark, Luke, Jude, James, Mary, Elizabeth, Joan and all the others who lived honorably and helped bring a new faith and code of ethics to the world.

The Russians countered with a holiday of their own, the 38th anniversary of the November 7 Communist overthrow of the Russian government — an event that has brought untold death, destruction and deprivation to hundreds and hundreds of millions.

It seems fitting to remind ourselves on this rim of the phony sunshine of their smiles that the Reds did not put aside the wicked czar when they took over. Nicholas II, Alexandra Feodorovna, Rasputin and the others were pushed out the previous March 15 of 1917, after the czar got tough with his Duma, or congress.

The Duma set up a provisional government headed by Prince Lvov and including Milyukov and Kerensky.

Everybody seemed happy for a time but a malignant force was growing within the country. It sold the Russian people on something they wanted: Peace. The mob's descendants are still selling the same ersatz merchandise today at Geneva. The provisional government, certainly not strong, struggled to keep the Russian armies on the front against Germany. The Reds yelled to get the boys home by Christmas.

The Kerensky group freed all political and military prisoners of the czar, declared the press free, came out for the right of free assembly, banned social, religious and racial discrimination, restored local self-government. It was this administration, not that of the czar, which the Communists whipped and replaced before it could really get its program started. It is this historic treachery and miscarriage of justice which we and the British and French at Geneva toasted today in vodka and song.

At the time of his recent death Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People" had reached a sale of more than 4,000,000 in 70 editions printed in 30 languages. If the book had been sold at the rate of one copy per day the sale would have had to start 8,000 years before the birth of Christ to achieve its present total.

Carnegie's courses in human relations and effective speaking are now being taught in 28 countries. His widow will continued to operate them.

My mother and a million others of her generation recognized the effectiveness of mouldy bread as a poultice for cuts, infections and the like. She and they didn't know but they were discovering penicillin. The chief medicine she wielded in her long-forgotten war against Spanish influenza was hot lemonade. We drank it until it ran out of our ears.

Now the Grover Laboratories people, who make most of the cold tablets, infer that she discovered citrus bioflavonoid, the new drugless wonder drug concealed in the meaty sections of citrus fruits.

Grove is adding the stuff to its cold pills and they say it's the greatest thing since the invention of bottled beer. But not a word of gratitude to my mother, who also got left out in the cold when the Nobel prize people gave Sir Alexander Fleming credit for penicillin.

The kid needs a better publicity man.

"Chico Carrasquel's been in this country seven years and has learned only two words of English, 'filet mignon.'" a friend of the Venezuelan shortstop said the other day.

Teacher Theme Opens Valley Education Week

LONACONING — Brenda Ravenscroft and Barbara Ann Mowbray broadcast over the public address system at Valley High School for the Monday theme, "Your Investment in Teachers", for the Amreican Education Week daily observance.

"The good teacher is a pearl of great price. No matter what his salary, he is always underpaid. It is impossible to set a dollar value on his work, for he builds and shapes tomorrow's world," the students observed.

"Thru all the centuries much fine teaching has been done in makeshift quarters and with few instructional materials. However, there are no good schools without competent and artistic teachers. In all our communities, we must begin to invest for teaching service," they stated.

"We pay for schools so that the United States will continue to be free and strong. We provide schools for all children and youth because we want our nation to be prosperous and great. We invest in schools so that our citizens will be industrious, creative and efficient — so that they will be healthful in find and spirit, straight-thinking, peace-loving, law abiding. We invest in schools so that Americans will remain a free self-governing people who cannot be subjected to any form of tyranny. No other investment is so important or so valuable. The returns are clearly predictable in terms of future security. In a real sense, your investment in schools is your investment in America," the students concluded.

Teacher Theme Opens Valley Education Week

LONACONING — Brenda Ravenscroft and Barbara Ann Mowbray broadcast over the public address system at Valley High School for the Monday theme, "Your Investment in Teachers", for the Amreican Education Week daily observance.

"The good teacher is a pearl of great price. No matter what his salary, he is always underpaid. It is impossible to set a dollar value on his work, for he builds and shapes tomorrow's world," the students observed.

"Thru all the centuries much fine teaching has been done in makeshift quarters and with few instructional materials. However, there are no good schools without competent and artistic teachers. In all our communities, we must begin to invest for teaching service," they stated.

"We pay for schools so that the United States will continue to be free and strong. We provide schools for all children and youth because we want our nation to be prosperous and great. We invest in schools so that our citizens will be industrious, creative and efficient — so that they will be healthful in find and spirit, straight-thinking, peace-loving, law abiding. We invest in schools so that Americans will remain a free self-governing people who cannot be subjected to any form of tyranny. No other investment is so important or so valuable. The returns are clearly predictable in terms of future security. In a real sense, your investment in schools is your investment in America," the students concluded.

Ukraine Capital Cradle Of Three Soviet Republics

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

KIEV, Ukraine (AP) — The citizens of ancient Kiev like to boast that their city is the cradle of three Soviet republics — the Ukraine, White Russia and the big Russian Federation, whose mass is dominated by Moscow.

And the Ukrainians never let the Russians forget their civilization is the older. Historians here are still in dispute whether Kiev was founded in the sixth or seventh Century, but it was at least 100 years before Moscow.

Kiev appears prosperous this fall. The agriculturally rich Ukraine has a rich harvest, much better than last year. Apparently the chief shortfall was in sugar beets, where a persistent weevil caused damage.

Visitors to this green capital find the pace much more leisurely than in Moscow—in the streets, stores and even in some factories. There seems to be plenty of meat, bread and poultry. Watermelons are everywhere., being sold from huge crates piled even along the city's main street.

Another thing Kiev has plenty of is bookstores and street bookstands. They are well stocked with Russian books but the most recent Western writings on hand appear to be a copy of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court" and some volumes of Jack London and Thackeray.

One of the most popular spots for foreign tourists is the Lavra Monastery and the adjoining caves of St. Anthony. It is a place of pilgrimage for devout Russians.

In the monastery complex is the ruins of ancient Uspensky Cathedral, blasted beyond restoration by the Germans who looted its treasures. But even more famous are the caves, containing three underground chapels and the mummified bodies of saints.

Prizes Awarded

Costume prizes were awarded at the annual Halloween party of the Sunday School department of Fairview Avenue Methodist Church, with Rev. B. F. Hartman as judge. Robert Groves received the award for the ugliest; Allen Rice, the funniest and Toni Snow and Joy Herboldsheimer, the prettiest. An additional prize was given Allen Rice for being the smallest masquerader present.

Seasonal decorations were by Vincent Thompson, who also directed the games for the Junior department. Games for the Primary and Beginners were under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webster, with George Uhl, Jean Rice, John Light, Richard Linthicum and Eileen Rice the winners.

Photos of the costumes and various activities were taken by John Zimmerman, Jr. Refreshments were served by a committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Catherine Groves and Mrs. Gladys Baker.

The ancient Romans started the custom of docking a dog's tail. They believed that all the evil of the animal was located in his tail.

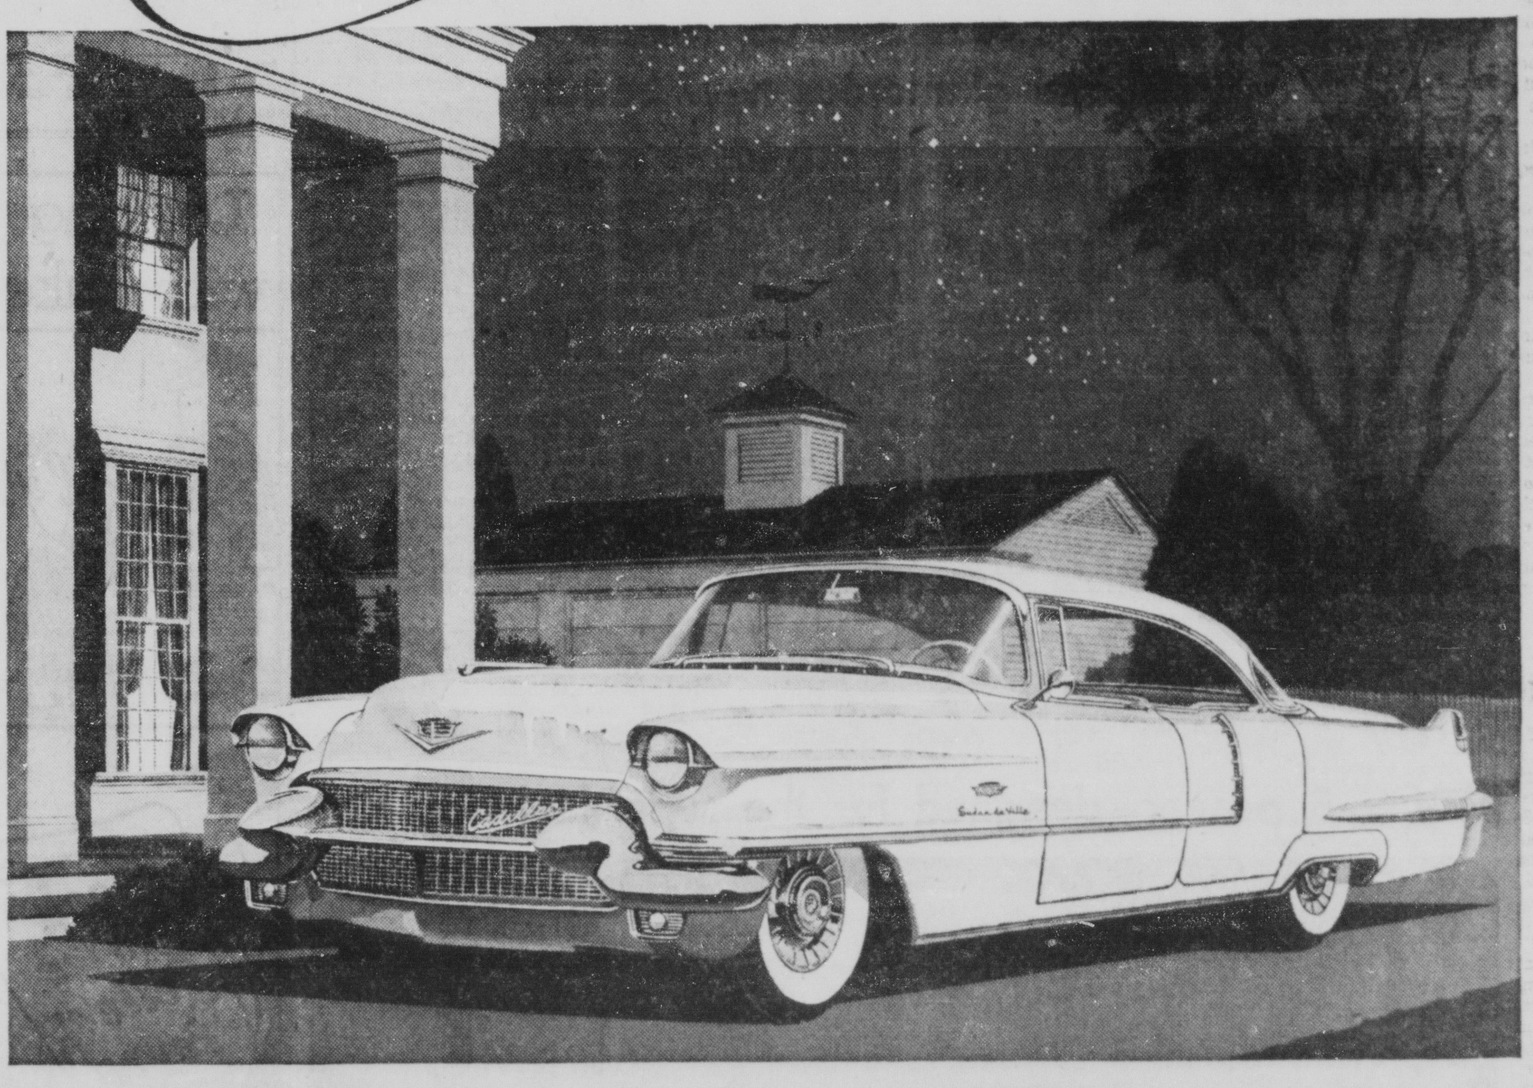
Cadillac



Beyond the Realm of Argument!

This is the season when conversations turn easily and often to motor cars.

And, in almost any gathering, you're likely to find a wide difference of opinion about the relative merits of the year's automotive offerings.

Until the talk turns to Cadillac!

Here is one car concerning which most motorists have a meeting of minds. And never before has Cadillac left so little room for argument as in 1956!

Certainly no one could behold the new Cadillac without recognizing it as the "car of cars". Its beautiful, graceful lines and its regal bearing on the highway are simply too significant to misunderstand.

Surely no one could ride in a new Cadillac and not agree that it is the Standard of the World. Its new fabrics and leathers are luxurious almost beyond belief . . . and its new interior appointments have been crafted with a jeweler's skill.

And we doubt if anyone could drive a new Cadillac and not understand that it is the finest-performing motor car of all time. Its great new engine is a revelation in power and performance . . . its new Hydra-Matic Drive is incredibly smooth and responsive . . . and the car rides and handles and moves with unbelievable ease.

Truly, the evidence on the side of Cadillac has never been more abundant—or more apparent—than it is today.

Why not pay us a visit soon—and see for yourself?

We'll be delighted to introduce you to Cadillac's great new styling . . . and to arrange a demonstration at the wheel . . . and to acquaint you with Cadillac's two new models, the Sedan de Ville and the Eldorado Seville.

You'll agree, we're certain, that Cadillac for 1956 is beyond the realm of argument!

Cadillac

Beyond the Realm of Argument!

This is the season when conversations turn easily and often to motor cars.

And, in almost any gathering, you're likely to find a wide difference of opinion about the relative merits of the year's automotive offerings.

Until the talk turns to Cadillac!

Here is one car concerning which most motorists have a meeting of minds. And never before has Cadillac left so little room for argument as in 1956!

Certainly no one could behold the new Cadillac without recognizing it as the "car of cars". Its beautiful, graceful lines and its regal bearing on the highway are simply too significant to misunderstand.

Surely no one could ride in a new Cadillac and not agree that it is the Standard of the World. Its new fabrics and leathers are luxurious almost beyond belief . . . and its new interior appointments have been crafted with a jeweler's skill.

And we doubt if anyone could drive a new Cadillac and not understand that it is the finest-performing motor car of all time. Its great new engine is a revelation in power and performance . . . its new Hydra-Matic Drive is incredibly smooth and responsive . . . and the car rides and handles and moves with unbelievable ease.

Truly, the evidence on the side of Cadillac has never been more abundant—or more apparent—than it is today.

Why not pay us a visit soon—and see for yourself?

We'll be delighted to introduce you to Cadillac's great new styling . . . and to arrange a demonstration at the wheel . . . and to acquaint you with Cadillac's two new models, the Sedan de Ville and the Eldorado Seville.

You'll agree, we're certain, that Cadillac for 1956 is beyond the realm of argument!

Agreement Sought On Land Needed For Flood Control

The Mayor and Council conferred yesterday with Virgil Ruppenthal and his attorney, William R. Carscaden, concerning a flood control easement on property he owns on the south side of North Mechanic Street.

The Corps of Engineers has offered Ruppenthal $11,420 for the use of the property and an order to that effect was approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

During the post-council session, a telephone conference was held with officials of the Corps of Engineers, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

They explained, he said, that the offer was as high as they could go, under rules which allow full value of the land but do not take into account loss of business.

He said the city has made the offer to give Ruppenthal a chance to protest.

The mayor said further conferences are planned in an attempt to reach an agreement without resorting to condemnation.

He said Ruppenthal has already lost one tenant, due to the upcoming flood work, and that other tenants will be denied the use of the warehouse by the flood protection work.

In another property transaction, council approved purchase of 1.4 acres of land adjacent to the city dump on Limestone Road. The land was obtained from Edgar H. Grove for $600.

It was explained that the city has been using some of the land for garbage dumping.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan advised council that S. Russ Minter has offered to rent part of the ground for $60 a year so that a compost plant could be located there.

Action on a request by Shades Lane residents concerning a speed limit for trucks on light-surfaced streets, was tabled for another week. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said he wanted additional information from the State Roads Commission before making a decision in the matter.

Four-Point Plan Outlined To State Workers

Davis Addresses Dinner Meeting

The four-point program of the Maryland Classified Employes Association, was outlined at a recent dinner meeting of state workers here.

The legislative program was outlined by D. W. Pearre, executive director, Friday night as:

Social security for all state employes, general wage increases for all state workers, a 40 hour week and pay for overtime and unemployment compensation for all state workers.

A survey of state workers indicates the majority favor Social Security, Walter T. Gough, president of the association, reported.

He explained the legislative procedure which will have to be followed to secure the additional benefits.

Russell S. Dayis, state commissioner of personnel, speaking on "What we can do to make better employes of you," outlined the growth of the merit system in Maryland and emphasized the importance of workers' attitudes toward their jobs.

David Kauffman, assistant attorney general of Maryland, was toastmaster for the meeting attended by some 150 state employes from Allegany and Garrett Counties.

The meeting was arranged by a committee including Mrs. Jennie Grahame, general chairman; Walter Capel, Rose Jackson, George Jenkins, George Geary, Joseph Carter and James McKenzie.

It was also announced that the club will again sponsor a Christmas tree sale on December 16, 17, and 18, and that the Kiddie Christmas Party will be given on December 19. A report showed that 18 eye examinations and 14 pairs of glasses were afforded needy school children during October.

Dimes Drive Planned In January

The theme for the 1956 March of Dimes campaign will be "Polio Isn't Licked Yet," according to C. N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, county chairman.

"Thousands of children and adults are being stricken," Wilkinson said, "and until the vaccine becomes widely available and used, millions of March of Dimes dollars must be marshalled on behalf of polio patients the nation over, and for the expensive equipment many of them need when polio does strike."

He also stated that "3,200 iron lungs must be kept going, no matter what the cost, for we cannot let polio respiratory patients become the forgotten people of tomorrow.

"In addition, polio research is still in full swing," Wilkinson said. "The Salk vaccine, developed with March of Dimes funds, is a medical milestone, but it is still not 100 per cent effective nor can we tell yet how long its protection lasts.

"March of Dimes research, aimed at improving techniques, is now in progress at many laboratories and universities throughout the land. We must provide funds to keep the research program moving along at the present pace.

"Also hospitals and laboratories are in need of trained manpower," Wilkinson explained. "March of Dimes fellowships and scholarships provided training for the urgently needed supply of well qualified personnel — and March of Dimes contributions make possible these grants."

Antarctic Region Gains Importance

Washington's announcement of a long range program for dealing with the increasingly strategic Antarctic region, to be administered by a separate governmental unit, leaves no doubt that the government considers this area of great importance.

There is speculation in the capital that the United States may stake claims to south polar territory. Not only has such action been avoided in the past, it has never been seriously proposed.

In charge of all U. S. Antarctic activities, with the responsibility of drafting a permanent program, is the veteran polar explorer, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd. Admiral Byrd will leave in a few days for the Antarctic in charge of an expedition preparing for the international geophysical year in 1957-58.

When Admiral Byrd declared several weeks ago that the Antarctic "is becoming more and more important where world strategy is concerned," his words were generally interpreted as implying that his new expedition to the bottom of the world involved more than setting up a camp for scientists. He will command a formidable task force of naval vessels and aircraft.

Antarctic claims asserted by other governments in the past were never recognized by Washington. U. S. explorations in the area, especially those of Admiral Byrd, have been more extensive than those of all other nations combined.

Whether important minerals, such as uranium, exist under the Antarctic ice is not known. Presumably no all-out attempts to probe the tundra, if that is what it is, have ever been made. But there is no doubt that the new Byrd expedition will do more "prospecting" than was ever attempted in the past.

Professionals At Bay

The professionals of both parties are rapidly reaching the conclusion that President Eisenhower will run for a second term. This forces them to revise their earlier plans, because professional politicians cannot afford to wait until the doctors and the Eisenhower family and the President have reached decisions. Professionals have deals to make.

From the Republican standpoint, it means that the long pre-convention fight for the first place is practically over. There is bound to be something of a struggle for the second place, but the President will name the Vice-Presidential candidate and it is likely to be Richard Nixon. The Republican campaign probably will be led by Nixon, with members of the Cabinet participating. It is not believed that President Eisenhower will go through the grind of the canvass.

The Democrats exhibit unexpected confidence that they might win despite the renomination of President Eisenhower. Their most serious problem will be to keep the Solid South together. In 1952, Eisenhower carried four Southern states, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida and Texas. This is the leading argument which the anti-Stevenson Democrats use against him. They make the point that to win, they have to keep the Solid South solid. Some of the Northern professional Democrats are puzzled by what appears to be Stevenson strength in the South, but they took courage from Senator Richard B. Russell's proclamation for Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio.

Lausche refuses to take any steps to assist his candidacy and it has thus far not been possible to get a declaration from him. Prior to his attendance at the Ohio Society Dinner in New York on October 24, 1955, there were speculative reports that he was coming to this city to confer with Carmine DeSapio, the New York Democratic leader. I have checked most carefully and can say, without the slightest fear of error, that they have not met by arrangement or casually to this date. I have also checked Republican sentiment and estimate that some important Republican leaders, particularly in New York, would favor Lausche over any candidate in either party; others would favor him over all except Eisenhower.

The Democratic professionals believe that if they can hold the Solid South, they can win because of New York and Michigan which they feel are sure. The New York situation is particularly dangerous for the Republicans. Thomas E. Dewey, while Governor, ruled the organization with an iron hand. But after he ceased to be Governor, the organization fell apart. A new leadership needs to arise. The interim power is the Attorney-General, Jacob Javits, who cannot bring the contending factions together.

For instance, Queens County, which is the only effective Republican county in New York City, is dominated by McCarthyites who are more loyal to the Wisconsin Senator today than ever before. They will not follow Javits's lead.

Despite all protestations to the contrary, the State Department brush-off for arms for Israel is a paramount factor in New York State in which race, religion, color and prior nationality are politically significant. While many who believe that such divisions should not exist prefer to say that they do not exist, the professionals know that such factors are paramount not only here but in several other states and they reach their decisions accordingly. A pre-Egypt policy will make no votes for Republicans in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut or Massachusetts and when one talks to professional politicians, he hears much on the subject.

The weakness of the Democrats is their internal fight over A.D.A. and Stevenson. In the end, Governor Averell Harriman will have the New York Democratic delegation. Neither he nor Carmine DeSapio, the Democratic leader, will be for Stevenson unless he is inevitable.

California is far away and few understand its politics which to other Americans seem less partisan than is usual. Within the Republican Party, among professionals, Senator William Knowland stands out as a leader. The Taft element in the Party would prefer Knowland to any other candidate. If Eisenhower runs, there will be no other candidate. It is doubtful if Eisenhower will take anyone but Nixon for Vice President. The Democratic Party in California seems to be in a turmoil over A.D.A. Democrats outside of California do not now count on that state, which has the second largest electoral vote in the country.

Secretary Dulles Suddenly Urges Press To Predict Geneva Success

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It's a long way between Geneva, Switzerland and Denver, Colorado, but certain events in these two cities had direct relation last week. Here's a report on them in reverse order:

EVENT NO. 1 was a backstage press conference called by Secretary of State Dulles in Geneva on Wednesday, Nov. 2. Mr. Dulles had been as grim as some of his pictures regarding success at the foreign ministers' meeting, but suddenly he exuded optimism.

He told newsmen, for background, that he had been studying the Russia and Western proposals on Germany and had found many points of agreement, that he saw no reason for arguing over details now, they could be referred to a committee of experts later. The Secretary of State glowed with pleasure.

Newsmen were flabbergasted. Up until that very moment, Dulles had been telling them just the opposite. They knew the position of Russia and the United States had not changed. They knew what Moscow was doing in the Near East. They knew also that these sudden discoveries of agreement by the Secretary of State have been as a result of a cue from Washington.

They went away branding this the most deceitful press conference they had ever attended, and their stories, front-paged in Eastern newspapers next day, reflected that viewpoint.

The New York Times, for instance, carried the following headline over the by-line of astute Alie Abel: "U.S. Reporters are advised to Indicate Geneva Success," while The Washington Star, over the by-line of Crosby Noyes, proclaimed. "Dulles' Sudden Optimism at Geneva is Surprise."

Russians And Egypt

International relations, of course, do not usually improve that suddenly, especially when the Russians at that very moment were sending jet planes and submarines to Egypt, pushing a Czech arms deal for Egypt, offering to finance the Aswan Dam for Egypt, inviting the King of Saudi Arabia to Moscow, building roads for Afghanistan, and infiltrating the government of Syria.

Newsmen had to dig therefore for the backstage instruction that Secretary Dulles obviously got from Washington. Here enters:

EVENT NO. 2—A small group close to the President, led by Sherman Adams and Jim Hagerty, has decided that he can and should run again. So far they have not broached the subject to him. They won't even want to do so until they have demonstrated to him how the work load of the Presidency can be eased.

But with no other winning Republican candidate in sight, they believe they can persuade Eisenhower to run on the plea that he must preserve the spirit of Geneva and peace.

Others in high Republican ranks don't entirely agree. GOP Chairman Len Hall, for instance, is just as anxious as any of the Palace Guard to have Eisenhower run again, but he takes a realistic view, believes Ike will not consent, figures Ike will announce to the contrary early in January.

The White House staff, however, believes otherwise. Like the Roosevelt and Truman staffs that wanted to see their bosses run again, the Eisenhower staff is equally determined. Already they have begun careful studies to delegate such presidential chores as signing pardons, death penalties, court martials.

They have also prepared press headquarters behind the Gettysburg Hotel so newsmen can regularly report the activity which they plan for the Gettysburg "White House" from which the affairs of government will be conducted for the next three months.

These preparations are designed as much to convince Eisenhower that he can run as to convince the public that he is able to run. But part of this, in fact the most important part, is the argument that Ike must run to save the spirit of Geneva.

Already Democrats have begun arguing that Ike was hoodwinked at the Big Four Conference last July. They have been pointing to the manner in which Russia was undercutting us all through the Near East, have said Republican exultation over the new spirit Eisenhower inaugurated at Geneva is premature.

Naturally any failure of the present conference at Geneva would play right into Democratic claims.

Hence the call to John Foster Dulles and his sudden press conference in Geneva telling newsmen that the foreign ministers meeting would be a great success.

Why Margaret Said No

U.S. diplomats usually don't deal with affairs of the heart but they've been keeping Washington fairly up to date about wh went on behind the scenes between Princess Margaret and the royal family.

What changed Margaret's mind, they report, was primarily the plea of the Archbishop of Canterbury, plus some stern words from her brother-in-law, the Duke of Edinburgh. The final clincher was Margaret's love of her sister.

Prime Minister Eden had OK'd the Princess's marriage early in October and actually had prepared a state announcement. At a weekend visit with the Queen and the Duke he had persuaded the Queen to raise no objection. Eden, of course, had been divorced himself and remarried.

Later he encountered great opposition to Margaret's marriage from within his Cabinet. Lord Salisbury and two other Conservative Cabinet members threatened to resign.

This, however, was not the main obstacle. It was the persuasive arguments of the Archbishop of Canterbury made direct to Margaret. He convinced her that to marry the divorced Townsend would be a disastrous blow to the Church, coming after the marriage of the Duke of Windsor to a divorced woman, and after the divorce of Anthony Eden.

U. S. Appeals Court Security Decision Criticized

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Is the security of the United States during wartime of greater importance than the so-called right of the individual to employment on a ship carrying troops or war munitions when the government has its own reasons for believing such an individual's presence might be dangerous to the safety of the ship?

The Ninth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals says, in effect, that the individual is more important.

Must the doubt as to the risk taken in hiring such a man be resolved in favor of the individual unless the government through a long tortuous process of hearings can prove that the information it has gathered is as conclusive as a court requires in a criminal case?

Would Hamstring FBI

These two vital questions as decided by Judges Pope and McAllister over the dissent of Judge Healy would, if upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States, make the right of the individual superior to that of the government and superior to the rights of the many individuals aboard the ship whose lives would be endangered. It could frustrate and hamstring the operations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in weeding out subversives who infiltrate our shipping in wartime. A substantial part of the Seaman's Union setup has for many years been controlled by the Communists.

Judges Pope and McAllister in their written opinion went out of their way to question the credibility of the FBI's claim that its operations would be hampered if it had to reveal its sources of information. It is a sad commentary on the alleged objectivity of the two judges in this case that they are so willing to say a seaman suspected of subversive connections is entitled to the benefit of the doubt and a hearing as to all the information against him in the government's files but the FBI's considered statement that it must protect sources of information is not accepted in good faith by the judges involved. They set themselves up apparently as having superior knowledge of the problems and techniques involved in detecting subversives than has the FBI which caught Klaus Kuchs, the Rosenbergs and a long list of Communist spies and agents in recent years.

The case under consideration arose in 1950 during the Korean War when Congress passed a law stating:

"Whenever the President finds that the security of the United States is in danger by reason of actual or threatened war, or invasion, or insurrection or subversive activity, or of disturbances or threatened disturbances of the international relations of the United States, the President is authorized to institute such measures and issue such rules and regulations... to safeguard against destruction, loss, or injury from sabotage or other subversive acts, accidents or other causes of similar nature, vessels, harbors, ports, and waterfront facilities in the United States..."

Action Termed Unconstitutional

The President hereupon issued an executive order delegating to the U. S. Coast Guard the task of policing the waterfront where vessels of war as well as commerce were being used during the Korean conflict to carry supplies to the war zone.

Now the Ninth Circuit says the action taken under this law by the Coast Guard commandant was unconstitutional because the commandant didn't make available to the suspects all the sources of information possessed by the Coast Guard and the names of the informants. It didn't matter whether the FBI had checked up and corroborated the information from different sources—unknown to one another—the whole file had to be opened up to the suspects. This means, of course, that many persons hereafter will not give the FBI information if they are to be taken away from their daily work to be involved in protracted litigation. It could mean that only after an act of sabotage had occurred and the damage had been done to the ship could a trial with the proper evidence be held to eliminate the seaman from his job.

Most Americans will not think this is giving enough weight to the requirements of the armed services in wartime or to the security of the United States or to the fate of the soldiers and sailors aboard the ships or to the American troops already at the battlefront whose success might depend upon cargoes or war supplies being delivered promptly instead of being subject to delays and sabotage.

The two judges appear to have swallowed hook, line and sinker the "left wing" philosophy today on security risks and the propaganda line of "The Fund for the Republic" which is using millions of dollars to propagandize the country in behalf of the same peculiar concept of so-called "constitutional rights."

Implication Faulty

The two judges quote approvingly from references to a few cases in which some early rulings on security risks were reconsidered by government boards. The implication is that these cases—a few out of thousands—make it desirable to overhaul the whole system. It's like saying that because acquittals occur in some criminal cases the grand jury system should be abolished.

The court's opinion accepts moreover the current distortion of the words "due process." This term usually refers to proceedings in court trials and has not until recently been invoked to interfere with the right of the executive agencies of the government to decide who shall be hired or who shall be permitted to enter government property or sail on ships operating for the government.

If the "left wing" concept of "due process" should be accepted, the government's hands would be tied and it would become necessary to hold trials of indefinite length before the government could keep a seaman off a ship even though the government is convinced he has Communist connections.

This is not the view which the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld in the past when it proclaimed the doctrine of a "clear and present danger" — namely, that it isn't necessary for the Government of the United States to wait till the Communist conspiracy has been consummated and subversion has been successful before taking steps to protect the national security.

Middle East Alarms

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

In his discussions at Geneva with the Israeli leader, Moshe Sharett, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles frankly characterized the Soviet sales of arms to Egypt and other Arab states as perhaps "more serious" than the Soviet aggression in Korea in 1950.

Secretary Dulles admitted to Sharett that he regarded the latest Soviet move as the beginning of a grandiose but well conceived Kremlin power play that would eventually involve not only the strategically vital Middle East, but probably North and Central Africa as well.

No important public comment on the Middle Eastern crisis has as yet been drawn from Secretary Dulles, who has also gone to the remarkable length of pleading with the American newspapermen at Geneva to sound an optimistic note about the obvious fiasco of the foreign ministers meeting.

Hence the foregoing report of Dulles' real views about the Middle Eastern crisis may well produce one of the usual official denials. Yet it is based on undoubted information. There is no doubt at all that these are the real views, not of Dulles only, but of the vast majority of the American policy-makers. In London, the British policy-makers are every bit as alarmed.

The main reason why the Western leaders have not sounded the tocsin in public is that they have not as yet made up their minds what ought to be done. Dulles further told Sharett that the Soviet intrusion into the explosive Middle Eastern situation urgently called for a major Western response, but he gave no indication of what form the response might take.

Thus far, moreover, the official State Department line has been to pretend that the policies which have never born fruit before may somehow be made to bear fruit now.

By some miracle or other, the often rejected Jordan water agreement is at last to be approved by the Arabs and Israelis. By some miracle or other, the increasingly disturbed Arab-Egyptian border is at last to be pacified. By some miracle or other, an agreement to live and let live is at last to be reached between the Israelis and Egypt and the other Arab states; and this agreement will then be guaranteed and rewarded with economic aid by this country.

All these have been the worthy objectives of Western policy in the Middle East for the last several years. They have always been unattainable, and they are too less likely to be attained now, when the situation has frighteningly deteriorated.

There is clear proof, in fact, that the more sober and realistic American policy-makers do not really expect great results from calling the Israeli and Egyptian ambassadors to the State Department, as was done last Saturday, and pleading with them to be terribly calm and terribly good and terribly forebearing. The proof is provided by the character of the new project for a Middle Eastern settlement that is now being solemnly discussed on the highest level of the U. S. government.

In effect, it is a project to bribe the Egyptians to abandon the link with the Soviet Union that they are now forming, and to return to alliance with the West. Part of the bribe is to take the usual form of offers of more generous economic aid. For example, the gigantic new dam at Aswan, which the Soviets are offering to help the Egyptians to build, is instead to be built by the United States. Since the Aswan Dam alone is estimated to cost $1.2 billion when finished, it can be seen that it will be necessary to reverse the Eisenhower administration's present policy of cutting foreign aid expenditures in the next budget.

The rest of the bribe, however, will be still more difficult. The bitterest of all Egyptian complaints is that the Israeli holdings in the Negev divide them from Trans-Jordan, and therefore cut off Egypt from the rest of the Arab world. By solemn warnings and anxious exhortations, the Israelis are to be persuaded to yield a corridor across the southern Negev between Egypt and Trans-Jordan. On this basis, an American-guaranteed Egyptian-Israeli agreement is to be negotiated.

This project, which is gaining ground in Washington, also has the strongest backing in Britain. Unfortunately, however, the Israelis seem to be even more determined not to yield an inch of the Negev than they were five years ago, when a similar plan for settlement was first put to them.

A week before the attack at El Auja, the Israeli government quietly ordered a partial mobilization. Prime Minister Ben Gurion has grimly declared that the Western great powers may wish to treat Israel like Czechoslovakia, but that he, thank God, is no Benes. Altogether, the outlook may be described as bleak.

Waiting for Parliament to act on Meg's one-sided romance with cobwebbed tradition.

We thought Eddie Windsor had kicked that ermine-and-strawberry business for a point after touchdown. Remember when he buzzed Churchill, "I may not show up for your old coronation" and didn't?

Enough pressure was brought on Meg to stamp out a handsome Mexican saddle. Never before had so many interfered with so few.

Strangely enough, the fellow who started Gretna Green in 1760 lived on Meg's Hill, Dumfries. All Pete had to do was live in Scotland 21 days and the marriage would have been as legal as six per cent.

The original Gretna Green parson was a blacksmith. He'd either marry your gal or shoe her. His name was John Paisley and he also ran a tobacco shop.

Parliament must have been tipped off on Meg and Pete when it ruled Gretna Green out-of-bounds in 1856, and put in the 21-day clause. In case they still want to go we'll hold the ladder.

Peptic Ulcers Can Become Serious If Neglected

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Beginning peptic ulcer is not difficult to treat. Distress is mild and almost any food or simple alkali brings relief. A person who wants to go into the business of selling an ulcer remedy should make tests on these individuals because 100 per cent get relief.

These people are lucky so long as complications do not occur. Anyone who suffers from indigestion or gnawing pains before eating should be X-rayed to find the cause. This precaution is stressed because a neglected ulcer often becomes chronic and simple treatments are not too effective. As a result, the victim has more bad days than good.

The formation of peptic ulcer is the signal of too much stress and strain. Some are doing too much and not getting enough rest. Others are smoking too much or drinking more coffee and alcohol than the stomach can take. Those who heed the warning will be ahead of the game because there is a limit to the abuse the body can take.

The complications of peptic ulcer are serious and require emergency care. The ulcer may erode through the wall of the stomach or duodenum and leave a hole through which the gastric contents—including undigested food, hydrochloric acid ferments, and digestants—escape into the peritoneal cavity. This is a painful experience like being kicked in the abdomen by a mule or an elephant.

Immediate surgery is needed to close the perforation. The man who knowingly neglects an ulcer must be prepared to take the consequences should it perforate while he is vacationing in the north woods or on a mountain peak. Pain is so severe he cannot move and must be carried to the nearest hospital.

The second complication is hemorrhage. Unless bleeding is severe, it usually stops with rest and the proper diet. Transfusions may be necessary along with vitamin K or other substances that encourage the clotting of blood.

Obstruction is a third complication of chronic duodenal ulcer. The usual history is the occurrence of several bouts of pain; with healing of the lesion, scar tissue forms which in time contracts, to obstruct the narrow passageway. Food cannot leave the stomach and everything eaten is vomited.

Surgery is necessary to provent starvation. Several operations have been devised to short circuit the passage of food around the obstructed area.

TOMORROW: Lip and mouth malignancies.

EMOTIONS, HEART ATTACK

H. J. writes: Can shock or fear bring on a coronary attack?

REPLY

The cause of coronary thrombosis is thickening of the coronary arteries due to arteriosclerosis. When this basic condition exists, shock and fear could cause further decrease in circulation and precipitate a heart attack. On the other hand, most cases of coronary thrombosis occur at night during sleep, demonstrating that neither emotional factors nor overwork are necessarily the immediate cause.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

They won't even want to do so until they have demonstrated to him how the work load of the Presidency can be eased.

But with no other winning Republican candidate in sight, they believe they can persuade Eisenhower to run on the plea that he must preserve the spirit of Geneva and peace.

Others in high Republican ranks don't entirely agree. GOP Chairman Len Hall, for instance, is just as anxious as any of the Palace Guard to have Eisenhower run again, but he takes a realistic view, believes Ike will not consent, figures Ike will announce to the contrary early in January.

The White House staff, however, believes otherwise. Like the Roosevelt and Truman staffs that wanted to see their bosses run again, the Eisenhower staff is equally determined. Already they have begun careful studies to delegate such presidential chores as signing pardons, death penalties, court martials.

They have also prepared press headquarters behind the Gettysburg Hotel so newsmen can regularly report the activity which they plan for the Gettysburg "White House" from which the affairs of government will be conducted for the next three months.

These preparations are designed as much to convince Eisenhower that he can run as to convince the public that he is able to run. But part of this, in fact the most important part, is the argument that Ike must run to save the spirit of Geneva.

Already Democrats have begun arguing that Ike was hoodwinked at the Big Four Conference last July. They have been pointing to the manner in which Russia was undercutting us all through the Near East, have said Republican exultation over the new spirit Eisenhower inaugurated at Geneva is premature.

Naturally any failure of the present conference at Geneva would play right into Democratic claims.

Hence the call to John Foster Dulles and his sudden press conference in Geneva telling newsmen that the foreign ministers meeting would be a great success.

Why Margaret Said No

U.S. diplomats usually don't deal with affairs of the heart but they've been keeping Washington fairly up to date about wh went on behind the scenes between Princess Margaret and the royal family.

What changed Margaret's mind, they report, was primarily the plea of the Archbishop of Canterbury, plus some stern words from her brother-in-law, the Duke of Edinburgh. The final clincher was Margaret's love of her sister.

Prime Minister Eden had OK'd the Princess's marriage early in October and actually had prepared a state announcement. At a weekend visit with the Queen and the Duke he had persuaded the Queen to raise no objection. Eden, of course, had been divorced himself and remarried.

Later he encountered great opposition to Margaret's marriage from within his Cabinet. Lord Salisbury and two other Conservative Cabinet members threatened to resign.

This, however, was not the main obstacle. It was the persuasive arguments of the Archbishop of Canterbury made direct to Margaret. He convinced her that to marry the divorced Townsend would be a disastrous blow to the Church, coming after the marriage of the Duke of Windsor to a divorced woman, and after the divorce of Anthony Eden.

U. S. Appeals Court Security Decision Criticized

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Is the security of the United States during wartime of greater importance than the so-called right of the individual to employment on a ship carrying troops or war munitions when the government has its own reasons for believing such an individual's presence might be dangerous to the safety of the ship?

The Ninth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals says, in effect, that the individual is more important.

Must the doubt as to the risk taken in hiring such a man be resolved in favor of the individual unless the government through a long tortuous process of hearings can prove that the information it has gathered is as conclusive as a court requires in a criminal case?

Would Hamstring FBI

These two vital questions as decided by Judges Pope and McAllister over the dissent of Judge Healy would, if upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States, make the right of the individual superior to that of the government and superior to the rights of the many individuals aboard the ship whose lives would be endangered. It could frustrate and hamstring the operations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in weeding out subversives who infiltrate our shipping in wartime. A substantial part of the Seaman's Union setup has for many years been controlled by the Communists.

Judges Pope and McAllister in their written opinion went out of their way to question the credibility of the FBI's claim that its operations would be hampered if it had to reveal its sources of information. It is a sad commentary on the alleged objectivity of the two judges in this case that they are so willing to say a seaman suspected of subversive connections is entitled to the benefit of the doubt and a hearing as to all the information against him in the government's files but the FBI's considered statement that it must protect sources of information is not accepted in good faith by the judges involved. They set themselves up apparently as having superior knowledge of the problems and techniques involved in detecting subversives than has the FBI which caught Klaus Kuchs, the Rosenbergs and a long list of Communist spies and agents in recent years.

The case under consideration arose in 1950 during the Korean War when Congress passed a law stating:

"Whenever the President finds that the security of the United States is in danger by reason of actual or threatened war, or invasion, or insurrection or subversive activity, or of disturbances or threatened disturbances of the international relations of the United States, the President is authorized to institute such measures and issue such rules and regulations . . . to safeguard against destruction, loss, or injury from sabotage or other subversive acts, accidents or other causes of similar nature, vessels, harbors, ports, and waterfront facilities in the United States . . ."

Action Termed Unconstitutional

The President hereupon issued an execuive order delegating to the U. S. Coast Guard the task of policing the waterfront where vessels of war as well as commerce were being used during the Korean conflict to carry supplies to the war zone.

Now the Ninth Circuit says the action taken under this law by the Coast Guard commandant was unconstitutional because the commandant didn't make available to the suspects all the sources of information possessed by the Coast Guard and the names of the informants. It didn't matter whether the FBI had checked up and corroborated the information from different sources—unknown to one another—the whole file had to be opened up to the suspects. This means, of course, that many persons hereafter will not give the FBI information if they are to be taken away from their daily work to be involved in protracted litigation. It could mean that only after an act of sabotage had occurred and the damage had been done to the ship could a trial with the proper evidence be held to eliminate the seaman from his job.

Most Americans will not think this is giving enough weight to the requirements of the armed services in wartime or to the security of the United States or to the fate of the soldiers and sailors aboard the ships or to the American troops already at the battlefront whose success might depend upon cargoes or war supplies being delivered promptly instead of being subject to delays and sabotage.

The two judges appear to have swallowed hook, line and sinker the "left wing" philosophy today on security risks and the propaganda line of "The Fund for the Republic" which is using millions of dollars to propagandize the country in behalf of the same peculiar concept of so-called "constitutional rights."

Implication Faulty

The two judges quote approvingly from references to a few cases in which some early rulings on security risks were reconsidered by government boards. The implication is that these cases—a few out of thousands—make it desirable to overhaul the whole system. It's like saying that because acquittals occur in some criminal cases the grand jury system should be abolished.

The court's opinion accepts moreover the current distortion of the words "due process." This term usually refers to proceedings in court trials and has not until recently been invoked to interfere with the right of the executive agencies of the government to decide who shall be hired or who shall be permitted to enter government property or sail on ships operating for the government.

If the "left wing" concept of "due process" should be accepted, the government's hands would be tied and it would become necessary to hold trials of indefinite length before the government could keep a seaman off a ship even though the government is convinced he has Communist connections.

This is not the view which the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld in the past when it proclaimed the doctrine of a "clear and present danger" — namely, that it isn't necessary for the Government of the United States to wait till the Communist conspiracy has been consummated and subversion has been successful before taking steps to protect the national security.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Waiting for Parliament to act on Meg's one-sided romance with cobwebbed tradition.

We thought Eddie Windsor had kicked that ermine-and-strawberry business for a point after touchdown. Remember when he buzzed Churchill, "I may not show up for your old coronation" and didn't?

Enough pressure was brought on Meg to stamp out a handsome Mexican saddle. Never before had so many interfered with so few.

Strangely enough, the fellow who started Gretna Green in 1760 lived on Meg's Hill, Dumfries. All Pete had to do was live in Scotland 21 days and the marriage would have been as legal as six per cent.

The original Gretna Green parson was a blacksmith. He'd either marry your gal or shoe her. His name was John Paisley and he also ran a tobacco shop.

Parliament must have been tipped off on Meg and Pete when it ruled Gretna Green out-of-bounds in 1856, and put in the 21-day clause. In case they still want to go we'll hold the ladder.

Middle East Alarms

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

In his discussions at Geneva with the Israeli leader, Moshe Sharett, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles frankly characterized the Soviet sales of arms to Egypt and other Arab states as perhaps "more serious" than the Soviet aggression in Korea in 1950.

Secretary Dulles admitted to Sharett that he regarded the latest Soviet move as the beginning of a grandiose but well conceived Kremlin power play that would eventually involve not only the strategically vital Middle East, but probably North and Central Africa as well.

No important public comment on the Middle Eastern crisis has as yet been drawn from Secretary Dulles, who has also gone to the remarkable length of pleading with the American newspapermen at Geneva to sound an optimistic note about the obvious fiasco of the foreign ministers meeting.

Hence the foregoing report of Dulles' real views about the Middle Eastern crisis may well produce one of the usual official denials. Yet it is based on undoubted information. There is no doubt at all that these are the real views, not of Dulles only, but of the vast majority of the American policy-makers. In London, the British policy-makers are every bit as alarmed.

The main reason why the Western leaders have not sounded the tocsin in public is that they have not as yet made up their minds what ought to be done. Dulles further told Sharett that the Soviet intrusion into the explosive Middle Eastern situation urgently called for a major Western response, but he gave no indication of what form the response might take.

Thus far, moreover, the official State Department line has been to pretend that the policies which have never born fruit before may somehow be made to bear fruit now.

By some miracle or other, the often rejected Jordan water agreement is at last to be approved by the Arabs and Israelis. By some miracle or other, the increasingly disturbed Arab-Egyptian border is at last to be pacified. By some miracle or other, an agreement to live and let live is at last to be reached between the Israelis and Egypt and the other Arab states; and this agreement will then be guaranteed and rewarded with economic aid by this country.

All these have been the worthy objectives of Western policy in the Middle East for the last several years. They have always been unattainable, and they are too less likely to be attained now, when the situation has frighteningly deteriorated.

There is clear proof, in fact, that the more sober and realistic American policy-makers do not really expect great results from calling the Israeli and Egyptian ambassadors to the State Department, as was done last Saturday, and pleading with them to be terribly calm and terribly good and terribly forebearing. The proof is provided by the character of the new project for a Middle Eastern settlement that is now being solemnly discussed on the highest level of the U. S. government.

In effect, it is a project to bribe the Egyptians to abandon the link with the Soviet Union that they are now forming, and to return to alliance with the West. Part of the bribe is to take the usual form of offers of more generous economic aid. For example, the gigantic new dam at Aswan, which the Soviets are offering to help the Egyptians to build, is instead to be built by the United States. Since the Aswan Dam alone is estimated to cost $1.2 billion when finished, it can be seen that it will be necessary to reverse the Eisenhower administration's present policy of cutting foreign aid expenditures in the next budget.

The rest of the bribe, however, will be still more difficult. The bitterest of all Egyptian complaints is that the Israeli holdings in the Negev divide them from Trans-Jordan, and therefore cut off Egypt from the rest of the Arab world. By solemn warnings and anxious exhortations, the Israelis are to be persuaded to yield a corridor across the southern Negev between Egypt and Trans-Jordan. On this basis, an American-guaranteed Egyptian-Israeli agreement is to be negotiated.

This project, which is gaining ground in Washington, also has the strongest backing in Britain. Unfortunately, however, the Israelis seem to be even more determined not to yield an inch of the Negev than they were five years ago, when a similar plan for settlement was first put to them.

A week before the attack at El Auja, the Israeli government quietly ordered a partial mobilization. Prime Minister Ben Gurion has grimly declared that the Western great powers may wish to treat Israel like Czechoslovakia, but that he, thank God, is no Benes. Altogether, the outlook may be described as bleak.

Peptic Ulcers Can Become Serious If Neglected

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Beginning peptic ulcer is not difficult to treat. Distress is mild and almost any food or simple alkali brings relief. A person who wants to go into the business of selling an ulcer remedy should make tests on these individuals because 100 per cent get relief.

These people are lucky so long as complications do not occur. Anyone who suffers from indigestion or gnawing pains before eating should be X-rayed to find the cause. This precaution is stressed because a neglected ulcer often becomes chronic and simple treatments are not too effective. As a result, the victim has more bad days than good.

The formation of peptic ulcer is the signal of too much stress and strain. Some are doing too much and not getting enough rest. Others are smoking too much or drinking more coffee and alcohol than the stomach can take. Those who heed the warning will be ahead of the game because there is a limit to the abuse the body can take.

The complications of peptic ulcer are serious and require emergency care. The ulcer may erode through the wall of the stomach or duodenum and leave a hole through which the gastric contents—including undigested food, hydrochloric acid ferments, and digestants—escape into the peritoneal cavity. This is a painful experience like being kicked in the abdomen by a mule or an elephant.

Immediate surgery is needed to close the performation. The man who knowingly neglects an ulcer must be prepared to take the consequences should it perforate while he is vacationing in the north woods or on a mountain peak. Pain is so severe he cannot move and must be carried to the nearest hospital.

The second complication is hemorrhage. Unless bleeding is severe, it usually stops with rest and the proper diet. Transfusions may be necessary along with vitamin K or other substances that encourage the clotting of blood.

Obstruction is a third complication of chronic duodenal ulcer. The usual history is the occurrence of several bouts of pain; with healing of the lesion, scar tissue forms which in time contracts, to obstruct the narrow passageway. Food cannot leave the stomach and everything eaten is vomited.

Surgery is necessary to provent starvation. Several operations have been devised to short circuit the passage of food around the obstructed area.

TOMORROW: Lip and mouth malignancies.

EMOTIONS, HEART ATTACK

H. J. writes: Can shock or fear bring on a coronary attack?

REPLY

The cause of coronary thrombosis is thickening of the coronary arteries due to arteriosclerosis. When this basic condition exists, shock and fear could cause further decrease in circulation and precipitate a heart attack. On the other hand, most cases of coronary thrombosis occur at night during sleep, demonstrating that neither emotional factors nor overwork are necessarily the immediate cause.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

When Mama made up her mind that Nathan was destined to become a great violinist, Papa's complaints about the racket and the expense fell on deaf ears. Finally, on the music teacher's recommendation, he bought Nathan one of those "half violins" specially designed for the kiddies.

To the surprise of everyone but Mama, Nathan turned out to be a fair fiddler. First thing you know, the teacher demanded that he have a full-sized violin.

Complaining at every step, Papa hied himself to the music store where his eye fell on a big violincello. "There's the one I'll take," he announced happily. "Let my little menace learn to outgrow that!"

Henry Ford II may buy control of the Detroit American league club, according to the sports pages. Hank could be just the boy to rev up the team's motor and get it out of that second division traffic jam.

Who knows but what the American league slogan may become "Watch the Tigers Go By!"

At that, the Detroits might really go places if equipped with a brand new Tigermatic drive.

Social Outcast Is Latest Entry In Laurel International

12 May Start In Maryland Race Friday

Vanderbilt Horse Scored Impressive Victory Saturday

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—In a surprise move late today, Alfred G. Vanderbilt entered Social Outcast in Friday's International at Laurel.

Social Outcast's acceptance boosted the total of American horses competing to four, but the foreign field of nine is expected to be cut to eight. El Chama, a Venezuelan horse whose owner wanted to compete at his own expense, is now listed as a very doubtful entry.

The other three American horses in the grass classic with the world-wide flavor are Traffic Judge, Mister Gus and Aeschylus.

Vanderbilt told the American Selection Committee when Social Outcast was invited that his horse should be considered only as an alternate.

Won Saturday Race

The Maryland bred handicap horse won impressively at Garden State last Saturday, and this may have influenced the decision to ship him to Laurel tomorrow or Wednesday.

Vanderbilt had indicated earlier he didn't think Social Outcast could run against Traffic Judge. But while Outcast was winning at Garden State last Saturday, Traffic Judge was running fifth in the Roamer Handicap at Jamaica.

Social Outcast is the seventh leading money winner among thoroughbreds of the world with all-time earnings totaling $616,800.

International purses total $65,000 with Laurel footing the bill for the shipment of all foreign entries. The race is a mile and a half over the infield grass course.

French Rider Arrives

Meanwhile, French jockey Freddie Palmer arrived at Laurel and gave Mahan his first workout.

The chestnut colt jogged a mile, then went seven furlongs at an open gallop in tuning up for the $65,000 race.

Count Roland de Chambure also was present to watch his Picounda, the other French entrant, take a long jog around the Laurel track. W. Rae Johnstone who arrived here with Palmer and will ride Picounda, needed no familiarizing trip as he rode Northern Glean for Ireland in the 1954 International. He will get up on Picounda tomorrow and indicated the filly trained light and would receive very little work prior to the mile and a half grass classic Friday.

Ataturk Given Drill

Germany's Ataturk was given a mile and a quarter drill under the supervision of trainer Adrian von Borcke with Walter Held aboard. Von Borcke, satisfied with the preparation, said he would send Ataturk out for a snappy "blowout" Thursday.

Clifford Mooer's Traffic Judge and Doug Small's Aeschylus were walked under their sheds while Llangollen Farm's Mister Gus was taken to the track for a loosening up job.

Knights And Guards Win In Dux Circuit

The front-running Grand Knights won two games from the last place Recorders last night on the Club Recreation alleys and retained their three-game lead in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League.

In the other match the Guards took a pair from the Chancellors.

Tom McGeady of the Chancellors was high man for the evening with 177-496. Other high scorers were Gene Zembower, Guards, 165-427; Charley Sachs, Grand Knights, 427, and Barney Tasker, Recorders, 395. Standings:

Grand Knights	18	9	Chancellors	11	16
Guards	15	12	Recorders	10	17

Frostburg Knights Defeat Fort Ashby

The Frostburg K. of C. won two out of three games from the Fort Ashby V.F.W. last night in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League.

Ed Jackson headed the Frostburg scorers with 28 points while Whetzel and Haines paced Fort Ashby with 18 tallies each.

The result of last night's match tied the Frostburg K. of C. with Fisher & Robinette for first place in the league's National Division. Each team has won 17 and lost 7.

By C. V. BURNS

GEORGE O. BUTTS, proprietor of Central Lunch, severed his connection with horse racing last week when he sold Miss Comedy, 8-year-old mare, and Nell Keegan, 3-year-old filly, to Leroy Smith, of Hall, Md.

Smith is in the wholesale lumber business (Smith and Frisco), owns 26 thoroughbreds and maintains a breeding farm at Jarrettsville, Md.

Butts obtained Miss Comedy and Nell Keegan about a year ago and Charles D. Buzzard, of this city, served as trainer of the thoroughbreds which raced at Wheeling, Charles Town, Waterford, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Bel Air, Timonium, Marlboro and Randall and Cranwood in Ohio.

The first time Miss Comedy ran for Butts she won and returned the amazing price of $102.80 for $2. On three other occasions the mare returned nice prices—$24, $18 and $12.

ALLEGANY and Fort Hill will meet on the gridiron for the twenty-third time on Thanksgiving Day with the Sentinels holding a 10-9 edge in wins since the series was inaugurated in 1936. Three games ended in ties.

It will be their 20th meeting in a Turkey Day tilt. Allegany leads 9-8 in the holiday contests with two games ending in ties.

The Campers haven't beaten Fort Hill since 1945 when Coach Walter Bowers' eleven eked out a 13-12 decision. Since that game Fort Hill has won eight times. The 1948 and 1953 contests ended in ties—6-6 and 7-7. Last year's score was 14-7.

Allegany will be participating in its 28th Turkey Day game and the Campers' record since 1923 is 12-12-3. Against LaSalle they are 2-3-1, against Penn Avenue 1-1-0 and against Fort Hill 9-8-2.

IT WAS A COINCIDENCE that the two top scorers in the area suffered injuries on the same day.

Jimmy Webb, Keyser High School's backfield ace, who heads all scorers in the area with 78 points, suffered a leg injury after scoring a touchdown against the Vikings at Petersburg on Friday afternoon. According to Coach "Tack" Clark, Webb has been getting around with the aid of crutches.

Bob Fletcher, of Allegany High, runner-up in the area with 67 points and also city leader, got banged up in the Elkins game here Friday night. X-rays showed that Bob suffered bruised ribs but there were no fractures.

BOLLING FIELD Air Base team, co-captained by End John Alderton, of Cumberland, and Halfback Billy Reynolds, former University of Pittsburgh star, stands high on the list as the No. 1 choice to represent the East in the military classic, the Poinsettia Bowl game, to be staged at San Diego, California.

The Generals have beaten Fort Eustis, 27-7, Fort Lee 12-6, Fort Jackson 28-21, Fort Monmouth 46-7, Quantico 20-14 and Shaw AFB 26-0.

There are three more games on the Generals' schedule, Camp Lejeune Marines, Little Creek and Fort Belvoir in that order.

Fort Sill whipped Bolling Field in the Poinsettia Bowl last year and is again in the running.

MRS. Virginia McGuire Dunleavy, 604 North Lincoln Street, Arlington, Va., writes:

"I want to thank you for your wonderful assistance during my father's recent bereavement.

"I sincerely regret it has taken so long to write and thank you. Please accept my apologies.

"Due to your kindness there was a real nice article in The Washington Evening Star and many people told us they heard Dad's death announced on the various radio stations in and around Washington.

"Also Morrie Siegel, the local sportscaster on WTOP-TV, discussed Dad's career on his Saturday night television show.

"We presume all of this was due to your story on the AP wire service and we are exceedingly grateful to you.

"Of course, to us he was the greatest, and we were happy to know that he had so many friends in the sporting world."

SEVERAL HOURS after James F. "Jimmy" McGuire, former local baseball organizer and manager died, his daughter called from Arlington and requested that I prepare a story for the Associated Press because I had known him so well.

Much of the credit for the excellent wire story belongs to Bill Harwood, of the Baltimore Bureau of the Associated Press, to whom I gave the facts.

We are glad Mrs. Dunleavy is pleased and we are indebted to Bill Harwood for the fine manner in which he handled and circulated the story.

BOB WASHABAUGH said we goofed the other day when we stated that Ridgeley High could set a new school record of 8-1 if it defeated LaSalle last Saturday—and he was correct.

We straightened this out in yesterday's paper by calling attention to the fact that Ridgeley was unbeaten and untied in eight games 16 years ago and five of the wins were via the shutout route.

Members of the 1939 squad were Zimmerman, "Bud" Lookabaugh, Bob Thompson, Mulligan, DeRosa, Bennett, Spriggs, Murrell, Thomas, Carter, A. Bean, Carr, Tichnell, Wratchford, Ashenfelter, Day, Washabaugh, J. Bean and Lindsay.

Thanks for steering us right, Bob.

GRAFTON High School football fans are singing the praises of Bob Maloney, 165-pound senior fullback, who has been averaging 9.8 yards per carry and has gained better than 100 yards in each of his team's eight games this season.

Maloney has piled up a total of 1,055 yards rushing this season.

Giovanelli Gets Nod Over Perez

Brooklynite Scores Second Win In Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn racked up his second victory in a week tonight by scoring a unanimous decision over Danny Jo Perez of New York in a savagely fought telecast 10-round bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Giovanelli weighed 150½, Perez 151.

Last Monday night, in the same ring, the handsome, 23-year-old Brooklynite whipped Paola Melis. Tonight he subbed for the injured Chico Vejar and won impressively.

Referee Mark Conn and Judge Joe Agnello scored it 7-3 each. Judge Al Singer made his ballot 6-3-1.

The Associated Press scored it for Giovanelli 5-4-1.

It was Giovanelli's second straight victory over the frail-looking Perez. Two and a half years ago, Giovanelli won on a sixth round technical knockout because of a nasty gash over Perez's left eye.

For a while it appeared the same thing would happen in the return bout.

Perez was cut over the left eye as early as the second round and blood trickled from the wound thereafter.

It was a free-swinging battle that had the crowd of 1,700 hollering all the way. The gross gate was $2,486.

Byers Condemns Incentive Pay For Athletes

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7 (AP)—Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., said today the incentive pay plan initiated by some professional football and baseball teams could destroy the nation's love of sports.

Byers, addressing the Oklahoma City Quarterbacks Club, said the Chicago Cardinals in the National Professional Football League and the Pacific Coast Baseball League had offered bonuses for outstanding hustle performance.

"I shudder to think of incentive pay, even in professional ranks, instead of play for the love of the game," Byers said.

"It may be all right for great industries or unions to have incentive pay but in American athletics it is the will to win and let's not destroy that."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (INS) — Edward B. Eynon, Jr., secretary of the Washington Senator baseball club since 1919, died tonight following an illness of 11 months.

The 75-year-old Eynon had been right-hand man to Clark Griffith, president of the club who died only 11 days ago.

Miles Resigns As Baltimore Orioles' Head

Suggests Experienced Baseball Man For Job

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Clarence W. Miles who recently said he would rather be president of the Baltimore Orioles than be U.S. Senator—a post to which he is believed to aspire—resigned today as Oriole president.

Miles denied his political future had anything to do with his resignation and said the "impelling reason" in his decision to quit "is my deep rooted conviction that the services of an experienced baseball executive brought to Baltimore at this time would greatly improve the chances of the Orioles for rapid advancement."

Announcement Is Surprise

The surprise announcement by the 58-year-old lawyer who played the major role in bringing major league baseball back to Baltimore in 1953 after a 50-year absence, said his resignation would be effective Nov. 18.

That's the date of the annual meeting of Oriole stockholders and Miles' resignation, which apparently took fellow board members by surprise, was believed to be only the first of several changes scheduled for the Orioles top brass.

Miles, a prominent Maryland Democrat, has long been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Senate.

However, on Sept. 22, he stated he would rather be president of the Orioles "as winners of the American League pennant than have any office within the gift of the people of Maryland," which would include a Senate seat.

And only a few weeks ago at an Oriole goodwill dinner, Miles told newsmen he would remain as president of the Orioles until they get on top of the American League or until he feels he no longer can help the club.

Apparently he couldn't wait for the seventh-place Birds to climb the league ladder. He did say his political future had nothing to do with his decision to resign.

Pointing to the expenditure of some $700,000 for players, Miles said he is satisfied "the Orioles and its farm clubs are today a far stronger aggregation than when the St. Louis Browns were acquired in 1953."

Miles organized a group of Baltimore financiers who put up 2½ million dollars to buy out Bill Veech's interest in the old St. Louis Browns. He then led the fight in New York on the eve of the 1953 World Series to get American League club owners to reverse an earlier decision not to transfer the franchise to Baltimore.

Boxers Are Signed

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Matchmaker Tex Sullivan today signed Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., and Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico for a featured featherweight 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena, Nov. 14. The bout will be telecast by the Dumont network.

RESIGNS — Clarence W. Miles yesterday announced his resignation as president of the Baltimore Orioles and strongly recommended his successor be an "experienced baseball executive." Miles, a prominent Maryland Democrat, has long mentioned as a possible candidate for the Senate. William C. Walsh, of Cumberland, is a law partner of Miles in the firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge with offices in the Liberty Trust Building. (AP Photofax)

Social Outcast Is Latest Entry In Laurel International

Vanderbilt Horse Scored Impressive Victory Saturday

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—In a surprise move late today, Alfred G. Vanderbilt entered Social Outcast in Friday's International at Laurel.

Social Outcast's acceptance boosted the total of American horses competing to four, but the foreign field of nine is expected to be cut to eight. El Chama, a Venezuelan horse whose owner wanted to compete at his own expense, is now listed as a very doubtful entry.

The other three American horses in the grass classic with the world-wide flavor are Traffic Judge, Mister Gus and Aeschylus.

Vanderbilt told the American Selection Committee when Social Outcast was invited that his horse should be considered only as an alternate.

Won Saturday Race

The Maryland bred handicap horse won impressively at Garden State last Saturday, and this may have influenced the decision to ship him to Laurel tomorrow or Wednesday.

Vanderbilt had indicated earlier he didn't think Social Outcast could run against Traffic Judge. But while Outcast was winning at Garden State last Saturday, Traffic Judge was running fifth in the Roamer Handicap at Jamaica.

Social Outcast is the seventh leading money winner among thoroughbreds of the world with all-time earnings totaling $616,800.

International purses total $65,000 with Laurel footing the bill for the shipment of all foreign entries. The race is a mile and a half over the infield grass course.

French Rider Arrives

Meanwhile, French jockey Freddie Palmer arrived at Laurel and gave Mahan his first workout.

The chestnut colt jogged a mile, then went seven furlongs at an open gallop in tuning up for the $65,000 race.

Count Roland de Chambure also was present to watch his Picounda, the other French entrant, take a long jog around the Laurel track. W. Rae Johnstone who arrived here with Palmer and will ride Picounda, needed no familiarizing trip as he rode Northern Glean for Ireland in the 1954 International. He will get up on Picounda tomorrow and indicated the filly trained light and would receive very little work prior to the mile and a half grass classic Friday.

Ataturk Given Drill

Germany's Ataturk was given a mile and a quarter drill under the supervision of trainer Adrian von Borcke with Walter Held aboard. Von Borcke, satisfied with the preparation, said he would send Ataturk out for a snappy "blowout" Thursday.

Clifford Mooer's Traffic Judge and Doug Small's Aeschylus were walked under their sheds while Llangollen Farm's Mister Gus was taken to the track for a loosening up job.

Knights And Guards Win In Dux Circuit

The front-running Grand Knights won two games from the last place Recorders last night on the Club Recreation alleys and retained their three-game lead in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League.

In the other match the Guards took a pair from the Chancellors.

Tom McGeady of the Chancellors was high man for the evening with 177-496. Other high scorers were Gene Zembower, Guards, 165-427; Charley Sachs, Grand Knights, 427, and Barney Tasker, Recorders, 395. Standings:

Frostburg Knights Defeat Fort Ashby

The Frostburg K. of C. won two out of three games from the Fort Ashby V.F.W. last night in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League.

Ed Jackson headed the Frostburg scorers with 28 points while Whetzel and Haines paced Fort Ashby with 18 tallies each.

The result of last night's match tied the Frostburg K. of C. with Fisher & Robinette for first place in the league's National Division. Each team has won 17 and lost 7.

Butts Quits Racing • • • Sentinels Lead 10-9 Aces Hurt Same Day • • • Credit To Harwood

By C. V. BURNS

GEORGE O. BUTTS, proprietor of Central Lunch, severed his connection with horse racing last week when he sold Miss Comedy, 8-year-old mare, and Nell Keegan, 3-year-old filly, to Leroy Smith, of Hall, Md.

Smith is in the wholesale lumber business (Smith and Frisco), owns 26 thoroughbreds and maintains a breeding farm at Jarrettsville, Md.

Butts obtained Miss Comedy and Nell Keegan about a year ago and Charles D. Buzzard, of this city, served as trainer of the thoroughbreds which raced at Wheeling, Charles Town, Waterford, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Bel Air, Timonium, Marlboro and Randall and Cranwood in Ohio.

The first time Miss Comedy ran for Butts she won and returned the amazing price of $102.80 for $2. On three other occasions the mare returned nice prices—$24, $18 and $12.

ALLEGANY and Fort Hill will meet on the gridiron for the twenty-third time on Thanksgiving Day with the Sentinels holding a 10-9 edge in wins since the series was inaugurated in 1936. Three games ended in ties.

It will be their 20th meeting in a Turkey Day tilt. Allegany leads 9-8 in the holiday contests with two games ending in ties.

The Campers haven't beaten Fort Hill since 1945 when Coach Walter Bowers' eleven eked out a 13-12 decision. Since that game Fort Hill has won eight times. The 1948 and 1953 contests ended in ties—6-6 and 7-7. Last year's score was 14-7.

Allegany will be participating in its 28th Turkey Day game and the Campers' record since 1928 is 12-12-3. Against LaSalle they are 2-3-1, against Penn Avenue 1-1-0 and against Fort Hill 9-8-2.

IT WAS A COINCIDENCE that the two top scorers in the area suffered injuries on the same day.

Jimmy Webb, Keyser High School's backfield ace, who heads all scorers in the area with 78 points, suffered a leg injury after scoring a touchdown against the Vikings at Petersburg on Friday afternoon. According to Coach "Tack" Clark, Webb has been getting around with the aid of crutches.

Bob Fletcher, of Allegany High, runner-up in the area with 67 points and also city leader, got banged up in the Elkins game here Friday night. X-rays showed that Bob suffered bruised ribs but there were no fractures.

BOLLING FIELD Air Base team, co-captained by End John Alderton, of Cumberland, and Halfback Billy Reynolds, former University of Pittsburgh star, stands high on the list as the No. 1 choice to represent the East in the military classic, the Poinsettia Bowl game, to be staged at San Diego, California.

The Generals have beaten Fort Eustis, 27-7, Fort Lee 12-6, Fort Jackson 28-21, Fort Monmouth 46-7, Quantico 20-14 and Shaw AFB 26-0.

There are three more games on the Generals' schedule, Camp Lejeune Marines, Little Creek and Fort Belvoir in that order.

Fort Sill whipped Bolling Field in the Poinsettia Bowl last year and is again in the running.

MRS. Virginia McGuire Dunleavy, 604 North Lincoln Street, Arlington, Va., writes:

"I want to thank you for your wonderful assistance during my father's recent bereavement.

"I sincerely regret it has taken so long to write and thank you. Please accept my apologies.

"Due to your kindness there was a real nice article in The Washington Evening Star and many people told us they heard Dad's death announced on the various radio stations in and around Washington.

"Also Morrie Siegel, the local sportscaster on WTOP-TV, discussed Dad's career on his Saturday night television show.

"We presume all of this was due to your story on the AP wire service and we are exceedingly grateful to you.

"Of course, to us he was the greatest, and we were happy to know that he had so many friends in the sporting world."

SEVERAL HOURS after James F. "Jimmy" McGuire, former local baseball organizer and manager died, his daughter called from Arlington and requested that I prepare a story for the Associated Press because I had known him so well.

Much of the credit for the excellent wire story belongs to Bill Harwood, of the Baltimore Bureau of the Associated Press, to whom I gave the facts.

We are glad Mrs. Dunleavy is pleased and we are indebted to Bill Harwood for the fine manner in which he handled and circulated the story.

BOB WASHABAUGH said we goofed the other day when we stated that Ridgeley High could set a new school record of 8-1 if it defeated LaSalle last Saturday—and he was correct.

We straightened this out in yesterday's paper by calling attention to the fact that Ridgeley was unbeaten and untied in eight games 16 years ago and five of the wins were via the shutout route.

Members of the 1939 squad were Zimmerman, "Bud" Lookabaugh, Bob Thompson, Mulligan, DeRosa, Bennett, Spriggs, Murrell, Thomas, Carter, A. Bean, Carr, Tichnell, Wratchford, Ashenfelter, Day, Washabaugh, J. Bean and Lindsay.

Thanks for steering us right, Bob.

GRAFTON High School football fans are singing the praises of Bob Maloney, 165-pound senior fullback, who has been averaging 9.8 yards per carry and has gained better than 100 yards in each of his team's eight games this season.

Maloney has piled up a total of 1,055 yards rushing this season.

Giovanelli Gets Nod Over Perez

Brooklynite Scores Second Win In Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn racked up his second victory in a week tonight by scoring a unanimous decision over Danny Jo Perez of New York in a savagely fought telecast 10-round bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Giovanelli weighed 150½, Perez 151.

Last Monday night, in the same ring, the handsome, 23-year-old Brooklynite whipped Paola Melis. Tonight he subbed for the injured Chico Vejar and won impressively.

Referee Mark Conn and Judge Joe Agnello scored it 7-3 each. Judge Al Singer made his ballot 6-3-1.

The Associated Press scored it for Giovanelli 5-4-1.

It was Giovanelli's second straight victory over the frail-looking Perez. Two and a half years ago, Giovanelli won on a sixth round technical knockout because of a nasty gash over Perez's left eye.

For a while it appeared the same thing would happen in the return bout.

Perez was cut over the left eye as early as the second round and blood trickled from the wound thereafter.

It was a free-swinging battle that had the crowd of 1,700 hollering all the way. The gross gate was $2,486.

Byers Condemns Incentive Pay For Athletes

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7 (AP)—Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., said today the incentive pay plan initiated by some professional football and baseball teams could destroy the nation's love of sports.

Byers, addressing the Oklahoma City Quarterbacks Club, said the Chicago Cardinals in the National Professional Football League and the Pacific Coast Baseball League had offered bonuses for outstanding hustle performance.

"I shudder to think of incentive pay, even in professional ranks, instead of play for the love of the game," Byers said.

"It may be all right for great industries or unions to have incentive pay but in American athletics it is the will to win and let's not destroy that."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (INS) — Edward B. Eynon, Jr., secretary of the Washington Senator baseball club since 1919, died tonight following an illness of 11 months.

The 75-year-old Eynon had been right-hand man to Clark Griffith, president of the club who died only 11 days ago.

Miles Resigns As Baltimore Orioles' Head

Oklahoma Replaces Maryland As No. 1 Team In AP Poll

Spartans Go To 3rd Place, Michigan 7th

West Virginia 6th; Two Texas Colleges Are Among Top Ten

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
[By The Associated Press]

Mark down the upsets—the season's first defeat for Michigan and ties for Georgia Tech and Navy—and that leaves Oklahoma and Maryland in splendid isolation at the top of the college football pack.

But the results of the season's heaviest balloting in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters reversed the previous order and put Coach Bud Wilkinson's speedy Oklahoma Sooners a shade ahead of Jim Tatum's Maryland Terrapins in the national rankings.

Michigan Drops To 7th

Michigan, which had been third behind these two a week ago, tumbled to seventh place after absorbing a sound 25-6 thumping from Illinois, allowing the other winners to move up.

Oklahoma's 20-0 victory over Missouri, a team that had scored its first victory of the season only a week before, apparently impressed the experts more than Maryland's 13-0 decision over Louisiana State, another non-winning team. Out of 283 ballots, 115 put the Sooners on top and 89 had Maryland first. Last week Maryland drew 74 firsts and Oklahoma 54 out of about 220 votes.

On the basis of points, the ballots were closer both weeks and the swing was only 83 points to put the Sooners ahead. Scoring is on the basis of 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for tenth. Oklahoma, with ten fewer second-place votes than Maryland, came out with 2,466 points to Maryland's 2,415. In last week's poll Maryland had a 32-point edge.

Spartans Move Up

Michigan State, loser to Michigan by 14-7 in its second game of the season but an impressive winner each week since then, took over Michigan's vacated third spot. Following were UCLA, Notre Dame and West Virginia, each of which moved up one place in the rankings.

West Virginia is the third major unbeaten and untied major college team, along with Oklahoma and Maryland. But the Mountaineers' 13-7 score against George Washington wasn't enough to earn them a higher rating.

The new 3, 4 and 5 teams in the rankings won last Saturday's games handily. Michigan State thumped Purdue 27-0, UCLA rolled over College of the Pacific 34-0, and Notre Dame, surprisingly held to an even score in the first half, sank Pennsylvania 46-14.

Big Games This Week

Of the first ten teams, Maryland and West Virginia appear to have the stiffest assignments this week. The Terrapins play Clemson, tied with them for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead, and West Virginia tackles rugged but erratic Pittsburgh. Oklahoma goes after its 27th consecutive victory against Iowa State.

The top ten teams with first place votes in parentheses and won-lost records (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

1. Oklahoma (115)	7-0	2466
2. Maryland (89)	8-0	2415
3. Michigan State (44)	6-1	2051
4. UCLA (9)	7-1	1762
5. Notre Dame (2)	6-1	1726
6. West Virginia (18)	7-0	1069
7. Michigan	6-1	970
8. Texas Christian (3)	6-1	551
9. Texas A. and M.	6-1-1	448
10. Ohio State (1)	5-2	430
Second ten:
11. Georgia Tech	6-1-1	292
12. Auburn (2)	5-1-1	263
13. Navy	5-1-1	207
14. Mississippi	7-1	180
15. Miami (Ohio)	7-0	121
16. Illinois	4-3	35
17. Pittsburgh	5-3	31
18. Duke	4-2-1	28
tie Mississippi State	6-2	28
20. Iowa	3-3-1	25

Bill Hartack Continues His Great Riding

Cops Four At Laurel, Boots Total To 373

LAUREL, Nov. 7 — (AP) — William Hartack, who rode six winners here at the Laurel racecourse on Saturday, continued his remarkable saddlework today when he rode four of the first six winners to make his score for the meeting 19 victories out of 34 appearances.

Topping off today's work, the 22-year-old Pennsylvanian won the featured Virginia Breeders' Purse with Mrs. Augustus Riggs' Best Contract, who returned a $5.60 win mutuel.

Having outdistanced rivals in the race for saddle honors of the nation for the year, Hartack has set a new goal of 400 victories and his splendid saddle showings at Laurel have increased his score to 373 wins. The only other rider to ever ride 400 or more winners in one year was Willie Shoemaker in 1953.

Weather for the program witnessed by 10,300 fans was quite miserable with a chill drizzle falling most of the afternoon.

Astride Mrs. George A. Saportas' Mr. Weeper ($6.20) in the first, Hartack got the 2-year-old home a length winner. Ellis Farm's Adage ($12.60) completed the $63.80 daily double of Nos. 4 and 12.

Cy Young Is Laid To Rest In Peoli

PEOLI, Ohio, Nov. 7 (AP) — Eulogized as "sturdy as the oaks he walked under," Denton T. (Cy) Young, one of baseball's all-time pitching greats, was buried today beside his wife on a hilltop in the Peoli Cemetery.

Several noted baseball figures were among the 300 persons who attended last rites at the Methodist Church for the baseball Hall of Fame member who died of a heart attack at nearby Newcomerstown last Friday at the age of 88.

Rev. George Shurtz of Newcomerstown, who officiated at the rites, described Young as "staunch as the hills that surround him and sturdy as the oaks he walked under."

Young pitched 511 victories in his 22 years in the major leagues, starting in 1890, including three no-hit, no run games.

Sunday School Loop Will Meet Tonight

Final plans for the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League season will be formulated at a meeting to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Central YMCA.

Twenty-nine churches are expected to be represented in the league during the 1955-56 season.

A decision on whether the league will operate in two divisions will be made at tonight's session.

Representatives of all teams are urged to attend.

West Virginia To Play Pitt In 48th Game

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—West Virginia's football game with Pitt Saturday, a make-or-break contest for the seventh ranked Mountaineers, will be the 48th time that the two teams have played each other.

Pitt holds a commanding lead in the series, with 35 victories against 11 defeats. There was one tie.

West Virginia won the first three games, in 1895, 1898 and 1900, by scores of 8-0, 6-0 and 6-5. In those days, touchdowns counted only five points and Pitt was known as Western University of Pittsburgh.

Pitt took its first game in 1901 and the Mountaineers bounced back in the next two seasons to grab a 5-1 record in the series.

Pitt then won 11 of the next 12 games. The best West Virginia could do in this period was a 0-0 tie in 1909.

Another long victory string for Pitt, 15 in all, was interrupted in 1947 when the Mountaineers prevailed 17-2. Pitt won the next four.

Under Coach Art Lewis, West Virginia blanked Pittsburgh 16-0 in 1952 and won 17-7 in 1953. All of West Virginia's victories came in Pittsburgh.

Lewis' team tried hard to break the old jinx on home ground last year, but lost the contest 13-10. That loss cost the Mountaineers an undefeated season.

Takes Out Two Men, One Was Teammate

AP Newsfeatures

CARBONDALE, Ill—Here is a now-it-can-be-told football story.

After Southern Illinois upset Central Michigan 14-13, the winner's coach, Al Kawal, was showing the movies of the game to his team.

"Note," praised Kawal, "how Marion Rushing takes out two men with one block."

"Yeah," said Capt. Wayne Williams, "One of them's me!"

Sure enough, the startled Kawal re-ran the film and there was Rushing toppling his own captain.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(INS)—The blatant laundryman who owns the Washington Redskins of the National Football League created quite a furor recently when he unloaded a verbal blast at the New York press and radio for not giving the pro game enough free publicity to please him.

No one should have been surprised at this because sports promoters in general always think they are entitled to special rights.

Some of them actually consider themselves civic benefactors and seem to think their home towns would be in a bad way if they were to move their franchise elsewhere.

Baseball and football clubs threaten to move elsewhere and fight promoters say they will take a title fight elsewhere if their demands are not met.

No sports promoter could afford to pay regular advertising rates for the publicity he gets gratis. And how a promoter will squawk if anything derogatory be written about him or his promotion, no matter how just and valid the criticisms may be.

We have known theatrical producers to bar certain drama critics from their theatres and we've known even more sports promoters who barred—or at least tried to bar — sports writers from their parks.

More than 40 years ago the Giants barred Charley Dryden, a great Chicago sports writer from the Polo Grounds. Fight, tennis, hockey, racing are football promoters all are prone to squawk at the slightest provocation.

We don't suppose there ever was a contented fight promoter or one who thought he got enough free publicity. We got our own ears chewed up a little by the International Boxing Club and Al Weill, Rocky Marciano's manager, for daring to suggest that Don Cockell was something less than a suitable opponent for Marciano.

They accused us of "hurting the gate." Strange to say, a great many sports promoters seem to believe that a newspaper's first allegiance should be to them rather than to the public.

The Washington laundryman was bitter because his club's game with the Giants' football club drew only 17,000 on a bad day. He seemed to think that any sports promotion in New York should be a sell-out regardless of weather or the class of attraction.

The fact is New York has had few sell-outs for any sports event. But how many sports events rate a sell-out in New York or anywhere else?

Certain events are "naturals" no matter when or where held. An Army-Navy football game, a world series, a Dempsey-Tunney fight or any other that figures to be close and sensational, a national tennis championship final or a famous race on the turf.

Strangely, the promoter be he amateur or pro, who has a real attraction to sell, is the one who never squawks either about the gate or the publicity.

Missouri Votes Oklahoma Best

Pick Michigan 2nd And Maryland 3rd

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7 (INS) — Oklahoma is the nation's top football team in the eyes of the University of Missouri club which has met the Sooners, Michigan and Maryland, top-ranked in various order by most national polls.

Asked by John Cronley, sports editor of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman, to rank the three teams on a 1-2-3 basis, with one point for first place, two for second and three for third, the 16 Missourians who saw the most action against the Sooners, Terrapins and Wolverines gave Oklahoma top spot with 25 points and nine firsts. Michigan was second with 29 points and six firsts while Maryland trailed with 42 points and only one first.

The voting took place after Oklahoma thumped Missouri, 20-0, Saturday. The Tigers lost to Maryland in the first game of the season, 13-12, and to Michigan, 42-7, on Sept. 25.

Missouri is the only club to have met all three top-ranked teams.

Wizard Of Ice

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—If Willmott (Willie) Marshall keeps up his scoring pace for the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League he may find himself back in the big leagues.

Marshall, 23, scored six goals and nine assists for 15 points in Pittsburgh's first four games. He tied a 10-year league record against Springfield, Mass., with eight points in one game.

Marshall has been in the National Hockey League twice with Toronto, early in 1952 and again last season.

Approximately 12 million bicycles are in use in the United States.

Wolves After Trojan Coach

Jess Hill's "Crime" Was 28-20 Setback

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7 (AP)—The wolves were reported howling on the heels of Southern California football Coach Jess Hill today and the question of the moment is: Was he hanged in effigy yesterday?

Hill's "crime" was the 28-20 loss of his favored Trojans to an aroused Stanford team last Saturday, third loss of the year for USC.

Individual alumni are reported boiling over the loss. And yesterday at a campus fraternity house a dummy was found propped against a tree from which hung a rope.

Newspapers promptly dubbed it an effigy hanging, although there was no identifying mark on the dummy.

Hill said, "It doesn't bother me at all. I don't see any evidence it was me, anyway."

Hill has another year to go on his current three-year contract, believed to call for about $15,000 a year. He is in his fifth season as head coach and the 1955 team record now stands at five victories and three defeats.

Prior to this season, Hill's USC teams won 31, lost 12 and tied 1.

Art Doering Scores As A Teaching Pro

AP Newsfeatures

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. — Art Doering, 36-year-old pro, has made his presence felt in eastern golf circles.

The Chicago native, a Stanford University graduate, has added New York's Metropolitan Open to his Long Island Open title since leaving his pro post at the Cincinnati Country Club for a similar job at the Inwood Country Club last spring.

Doering won the Met Open by beating Al Brosch of Garden City, N. Y., 74-75, in an 18-hole playoff after both had finished 72 holes tied at 285. Brosch two years ago set a PGA record by scoring a 60 in Texas.

Oklahoma Replaces Maryland As No. 1 Team In AP Poll

Spartans Go To 3rd Place, Michigan 7th

West Virginia 6th; Two Texas Colleges Are Among Top Ten

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
[By The Associated Press]

Mark down the upsets—the season's first defeat for Michigan and ties for Georgia Tech and Navy—and that leaves Oklahoma and Maryland in splendid isolation at the top of the college football pack.

But the results of the season's heaviest balloting in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters reversed the previous order and put Coach Bud Wilkinson's speedy Oklahoma Sooners a shade ahead of Jim Tatum's Maryland Terrapins in the national rankings.

Michigan Drops To 7th

Michigan, which had been third behind these two a week ago, tumbled to seventh place after absorbing a sound 25-6 thumping from Illinois, allowing the other winners to move up.

Oklahoma's 20-0 victory over Missouri, a team that had scored its first victory of the season only a week before, apparently impressed the experts more than Maryland's 13-0 decision over Louisiana State, another non-winning team. Out of 283 ballots, 115 put the Sooners on top and 89 had Maryland first. Last week Maryland drew 74 firsts and Oklahoma 54 out of about 220 votes.

On the basis of points, the ballots were closer both weeks and the swing was only 83 points to put the Sooners ahead. Scoring is on the basis of 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., down to one for tenth. Oklahoma, with ten fewer second-place votes than Maryland, came out with 2,466 points to Maryland's 2,415. In last week's poll Maryland had a 32-point edge.

Spartans Move Up

Michigan State, loser to Michigan by 14-7 in its second game of the season but an impressive winner each week since then, took over Michigan's vacated third spot. Following were UCLA, Notre Dame and West Virginia, each of which moved up one place in the rankings.

West Virginia is the third major unbeaten and untied major college team, along with Oklahoma and Maryland. But the Mountaineers' 13-7 score against George Washington wasn't enough to earn them a higher rating.

The new 3, 4 and 5 teams in the rankings won last Saturday's games handily. Michigan State thumped Purdue 27-0, UCLA rolled over College of the Pacific 34-0, and Notre Dame, surprisingly held to an even score in the first half, sank Pennsylvania 46-14.

Big Games This Week

Of the first ten teams, Maryland and West Virginia appear to have the stiffest assignments this week. The Terrapins play Clemson, tied with them for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead, and West Virginia tackles rugged but erratic Pittsburgh. Oklahoma goes after its 27th consecutive victory against Iowa State.

The top ten teams with first place votes in parentheses and won-lost records (points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis):

1. Oklahoma (115)	7-0	2466
2. Maryland (89)	8-0	2415
3. Michigan State (44)	6-1	2051
4. UCLA (9)	7-1	1762
5. Notre Dame (2)	6-1	1726
6. West Virginia (18)	7-0	1069
7. Michigan	6-1	970
8. Texas Christian (3)	6-1	551
9. Texas A. and M.	6-1-1	448
10. Ohio State (1)	5-2	430
Second ten:
11. Georgia Tech	6-1-1	292
12. Auburn (2)	5-1-1	263
13. Navy	5-1-1	207
14. Mississippi	7-1	180
15. Miami (Ohio)	7-0	121
16. Illinois	4-3	35
17. Pittsburgh	5-3	31
18. Duke	4-2-1	28
tie Mississippi State	6-2	28
20. Iowa	3-3-1	25
tie Miami (Fla)	3-3	25

Bill Hartack Continues His Great Riding

Cops Four At Laurel, Boots Total To 373

LAUREL, Nov. 7 — (AP) — William Hartack, who rode six winners here at the Laurel racecourse on Saturday, continued his remarkable saddlework today when he rode four of the first six winners to make his score for the meeting 19 victories out of 34 appearances.

Topping off today's work, the 22-year-old Pennsylvanian won the featured Virginia Breeders' Purse with Mrs. Augustus Riggs' Best Contract, who returned a $5.60 win mutuel.

Having outdistanced rivals in the race for saddle honors of the nation for the year, Hartack has set a new goal of 400 victories and his splendid saddle showings at Laurel have increased his score to 373 wins. The only other rider to ever ride 400 or more winners in one year was Willie Shoemaker in 1953.

Weather for the program witnessed by 10,300 fans was quite miserable with a chill drizzle falling most of the afternoon.

Astride Mrs. George A. Saportas' Mr. Weeper ($6.20) in the first, Hartack got the 2-year-old home a length winner. Ellis Farm's Adage ($12.60) completed the $63.80 daily double of Nos. 4 and 12.

Cy Young Is Laid To Rest In Peoli

PEOLI, Ohio, Nov. 7 (AP) — Eulogized as "sturdy as the oaks he walked under," Denton T. (Cy) Young, one of baseball's all-time pitching greats, was buried today beside his wife on a hilltop in the Peoli Cemetery.

Several noted baseball figures were among the 300 persons who attended last rites at the Methodist Church for the baseball Hall of Fame member who died of a heart attack at nearby Newcomerstown last Friday at the age of 88.

Rev. George Shurtz of Newcomerstown, who officiated at the rites, described Young as "staunch as the hills that surround him and sturdy as the oaks he walked under."

Young pitched 511 victories in his 22 years in the major leagues, starting in 1890, including three no-hit, no run games.

A decision on whether the league will operate in two divisions will be made at tonight's session.

West Virginia To Play Pitt In 48th Game

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP)—West Virginia's football game with Pitt Saturday, a make-or-break contest for the seventh ranked Mountaineers, will be the 48th time that the two teams have played each other.

Pitt holds a commanding lead in the series, with 35 victories against 11 defeats. There was one tie.

West Virginia won the first three games, in 1895, 1898 and 1900, by scores of 8-0, 6-0 and 6-5. In those days, touchdowns counted only five points and Pitt was known as Western University of Pittsburgh.

Pitt took its first game in 1901 and the Mountaineers bounced back in the next two seasons to grab a 5-1 record in the series.

Pitt then won 11 of the next 12 games. The best West Virginia could do in this period was a 0-0 tie in 1909.

Another long victory string for Pitt, 15 in all, was interrupted in 1947 when the Mountaineers prevailed 17-2. Pitt won the next four.

Under Coach Art Lewis, West Virginia blanked Pittsburgh 16-0 in 1952 and won 17-7 in 1953. All of West Virginia's victories came in Pittsburgh.

Lewis' team tried hard to break the old jinx on home ground last year, but lost the contest 13-10. That loss cost the Mountaineers an undefeated season.

Takes Out Two Men, One Was Teammate

AP Newsfeatures

CARBONDALE, Ill—Here is a now-it-can-be-told football story.

After Southern Illinois upset Central Michigan 14-13, the winner's coach, Al Kawal, was showing the movies of the game to his team.

"Note," praised Kawal, "how Marion Rushing takes out two men with one block."

"Yeah," said Capt. Wayne Williams, "One of them's me!"

Sure enough, the startled Kawal re-ran the film and there was Rushing toppling his own captain.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(INS)—The blatant laundryman who owns the Washington Redskins of the National Football League created quite a furor recently when he unloaded a verbal blast at the New York press and radio for not giving the pro game enough free publicity to please him.

No one should have been surprised at this because sports promoters in general always think they are entitled to special rights.

Some of them actually consider themselves civic benefactors and seem to think their home towns would be in a bad way if they were to move their franchise elsewhere.

Baseball and football clubs threaten to move elsewhere and fight promoters say they will take a title fight elsewhere if their demands are not met.

No sports promoter could afford to pay regular advertising rates for the publicity he gets gratis. And how a promoter will squawk if anything derogatory be written about him or his promotion, no matter how just and valid the criticisms may be.

We have known theatrical producers to bar certain drama critics from their theatres and we've known even more sports promoters who barred—or at least tried to bar — sports writers from their parks.

More than 40 years ago the Giants barred Charley Dryden, a great Chicago sports writer from the Polo Grounds. Fight, tennis, hockey, racing are football promoters all are prone to squawk at the slightest provocation.

We don't suppose there ever was a contented fight promoter or one who thought he got enough free publicity. We got our own ears chewed up a little by the International Boxing Club and Al Weill, Rocky Marciano's manager, for daring to suggest that Don Cockell was something less than a suitable opponent for Marciano.

They accused us of "hurting the gate." Strange to say, a great many sports promoters seem to believe that a newspaper's first allegiance should be to them rather than to the public.

The Washington laundryman was bitter because his club's game with the Giants' football club drew only 17,000 on a bad day. He seemed to think that any sports promotion in New York should be a sell-out regardless of weather or the class of attraction.

The fact is New York has had few sell-outs for any sports event. But how many sports events rate a sell-out in New York or anywhere else?

Certain events are "naturals" no matter when or where held. An Army-Navy football game, a world series, a Dempsey-Tunney fight or any other that figures to be close and sensational, a national tennis championship final or a famous race on the turf.

Strangely, the promoter be he amateur or pro, who has a real attraction to sell, is the one who never squawks either about the gate or the publicity.

Missouri Votes Oklahoma Best

Pick Michigan 2nd And Maryland 3rd

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7 (INS) — Oklahoma is the nation's top football team in the eyes of the University of Missouri club which has met the Sooners, Michigan and Maryland, top-ranked in various order by most national polls.

Asked by John Cronley, sports editor of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman, to rank the three teams on a 1-2-3 basis, with one point for first place, two for second and three for third, the 16 Missourians who saw the most action against the Sooners, Terrapins and Wolverines gave Oklahoma top spot with 25 points and nine firsts. Michigan was second with 29 points and six firsts while Maryland trailed with 42 points and only one first.

The voting took place after Oklahoma thumped Missouri, 20-0, Saturday. The Tigers lost to Maryland in the first game of the season, 13-12, and to Michigan, 42-7, on Sept. 25.

Missouri is the only club to have met all three top-ranked teams.

Wizard Of Ice

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—If Willmott (Willie) Marshall keeps up his scoring pace for the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League he may find himself back in the big leagues.

Marshall, 23, scored six goals and nine assists for 15 points in Pittsburgh's first four games. He tied a 10-year league record against Springfield, Mass., with eight points in one game.

Marshall has been in the National Hockey League twice with Toronto, early in 1952 and again last season.

Wolves After Trojan Coach

Jess Hill's "Crime" Was 28-20 Setback

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7 (AP)—The wolves were reported howling on the heels of Southern California football Coach Jess Hill today and the question of the moment is: Was he hanged in effigy yesterday?

Hill's "crime" was the 28-20 loss of his favored Trojans to an aroused Stanford team last Saturday, third loss of the year for USC.

Individual alumni are reported boiling over the loss. And yesterday at a campus fraternity house a dummy was found propped against a tree from which hung a rope.

Newspapers promptly dubbed it an effigy hanging, although there was no identifying mark on the dummy.

Hill said, "It doesn't bother me at all. I don't see any evidence it was me, anyway."

Hill has another year to go on his current three-year contract, believed to call for about $15,000 a year. He is in his fifth season as head coach and the 1955 team record now stands at five victories and three defeats.

Prior to this season, Hill's USC teams won 31, lost 12 and tied 1.

Art Doering Scores As A Teaching Pro

AP Newsfeatures

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. — Art Doering, 36-year-old pro, has made his presence felt in eastern golf circles.

The Chicago native, a Stanford University graduate, has added New York's Metropolitan Open to his Long Island Open title since leaving his pro post at the Cincinnati Country Club for a similar job at the Inwood Country Club last spring.

Doering won the Met Open by beating Al Brosch of Garden City, N. Y., 74-75, in an 18-hole playoff after both had finished 72 holes tied at 285. Brosch two years ago set a PGA record by scoring a 60 in Texas.

Stock Market Hits New High In Recovery Drive

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — The stock market today advanced to a new high in its current recovery drive.

It was the market's third consecutive strong rise, but lacked both the vigor and extent of the previous two.

Prices were up 1 to around 4 points, with a few stocks up a bit more, at the outside.

Steels and motors were mixed and the rise of the oils wasn't unanimous, but most of the rest of the market was higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 industrial component gained .6 of a point. The industrial component gained $1.40, rails were up $1. and utilities were up 20 cents.

The list was composed of 1,172 individual issues of which 565 were higher and 369 lower with 26 new highs and 8 new lows for the year.

Benguet Consolidated Mining was the day's most active issue unchanged at 1⅜ on 55,500 shares. That included a block of 11,000 shares at 1⅜.

Standard Oil (NJ) was second up 2½ at 147. The stock opened unchanged. Fruehauf Trailer was third most active up 1¼ at 52¼. It had a block of 15,000 shares at 52¾.

Panhandle Oil, Friday's most active issue up 1, was fourth today off ⅜ at 1⅜.

Chrysler was fifth off 1⅞ at 94. The stock was third most active Friday off ⅝, and after the close directors took dividend action but said nothing about a split.

One Way Plan Proposed For Seymour Street

A Seymour Street resident asked the Mayor and Council yesterday to make the street one-way west and restrict parking to one side.

Harold C. Legeer, 416 Seymour, said parking on both sides, particularly by trucks, makes passage almost impossible, poses a hazard because vision is blocked and is dangerous for pedestrians, particularly children, crossing the street.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said the truck matter had been looked into previously but will be checked again.

On another matter, James Bonner, operator of Maryland Avenue service station, protested a city ruling it is not responsible for loss of business incurred during the repair to the roadway in front of his business after a gas line had been laid.

Bonner claimed the city left work undone for 11 days after the gas line was completed. A spokesman for the gas company said the station driveways were not blocked at the same time and there was always one open.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said the city has always taken the position it is not responsible in cases where it is not working directly on the property and pointed out the city must maintain its streets. He said a number of businesses had been affected similarly during flood control work and for a much longer time.

Delegates Named By Rubber Employes

Four delegates of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), have been selected to attend the 17th annual convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council in Washington next week.

They are James W. Stein, president; Ralph C. Beard, William Sheetz and David D. Miller. The session will open November 17 and continue through November 19. All business sessions will be at the Willard Hotel.

CONCERNING FALSE-CARDING

MOST PLAYERS indulge in false-carding so indiscriminately (and often so senselessly) that any potential advantage is lost—the opponents simply ignore the card that was played. There is, however, a very genuine need of logical false-carding—as, for example, in this case:

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 5 4 ♥ 7 2 ♦ K J 9 2 ♣ K 4 3
♠ 10 7 ♥ A J 9 ♦ 5 3 ♣ 6 5 ♣ J 9 8 6	N W E S	♠ K 8 6 ♥ 3 2 ♦ Q 10 6 4 ♣ — ♣ Q 7 5 2
	♠ J 9 ♥ K 8 ♦ A Q 10 8 7 4 3 ♣ A 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's double raise of the minor suit was indefensible. The right response, very obviously, was one spade, and South then would have reached a foolproof game contract at notrump instead of the diamond contract that could have been beaten.

West's opening lead was the ten of spades, and when South saw the dummy he realized that the contract rested on thin ice. An opening lead of a ten is not often made from a suit headed by K-10, with or without lower cards, and thus the spade king was clearly marked offside. If East got in he would surely shift to hearts, and if the heart ace was wrong (as South strongly suspected) the contract would be lost.

South did what every truly fine player would do in his position: he put up dummy's spade ace and unhesitatingly dropped his own jack on the trick. Then he led a low spade from dummy.

East might well have sensed what was going on, but he didn't. There was no way of his knowing positively whether declarer's play of the spade jack had been honest or not; whether West had led the ten from a holding of 10-9-7. So East ducked—and South won the trick with the nine. After that, of course, the contract was ironclad.

Observe that if South had played the spade nine on the first trick he would have marked himself with the jack, and then East couldn't have been in doubt when the second spade was led from dummy.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7 (INS)—Despite her present troubles and really bad headlines, Susan Hayward returns to work next month. 20th Century-Fox feels that work is the best thing for her.

Next on her agenda is "Hilda," Herbert Bayard Swope's initial film. She gets a beautiful wardrobe as Hilda, a girl who marries a respectable man whom she does not love to change the course of her life.

Philip Dunne, who directs "Hilda," joined with producer Swope in asking that Susie, who gives a great performance in "I'll Cry Tomorrow," play in Swope's first.

Much as we would like to keep Alec Guinness in Hollywood it won't be possible because he says after he completes "The Swan" at MGM he has to hurry to London for George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Woman," which he is making for Alexander Korda.

Then Alec has a little project of his own up his sleeve. He is personally adapting an English novel, "The Horses Mouth," in which he'll also co-star.

If he doesn't finish "The Swan" by Christmas he'll bring his wife and son to Hollywood to be with him for the holidays. We will be sorry to lose Alec; he's one of the most popular actors ever to visit our town.

That script Tony Martin is pouring over between stops at the Cocoanut Grove is "Speakeasy," a thriller of the prohibition days by Mortimer Braus and my information is that he'll sign for it by the time this hits the newsstands.

Getting the tall, dark and handsome Tony isn't the only plan afoot by Producers Aubrey Schenck and Howard Koch, who also made Tony's non-singing western "Frontier Scout" for U-A.

Peggy Lee is being sought for the gal—and our pal from the gangster movie days, George Raft, for the other top part. The tunes Tony and Peggy would sing are many of those old nostalgic melodies of the roarin' (but dry 20s when those in quest of libation peeked through a peekhole and whispered, "Joe sent me."

You can say that Charlton Heston does absolutely nothing on impulse, including his Christmas holidays. He has bundled up Lydia, himself and their son and has taken off for their Michigan farm where they'll spend not only Thanksgiving but Christmas.

Reason for all this is that the farm was pioneered by Charlton's grandfather and Heston wants his baby to celebrate his first Christmas there.

This Heston guy is a pretty solid customer. He knows just where he's going and why, and movie acting never will go to his head, although he takes his career very seriously.

At least six months ago Walter Wanger told me that he bought "Mother, Sir" for Joan Bennett, and he sent me the book to read. Now he's getting it ready for the screen.

Shirley Yamaguchi, the Japanese star, reached here yesterday from a vacation in Mexico City to report to Walter at Allied Artists Studio. She will play a geisha girl, which should not be too difficult for her. She was in "House of Bamboo," and is as beautiful a Japanese girl as you'll see.

Snaps:

Tony Curtis has gone in for art in a big way and bought 12 pictures in Paris with Janet Leigh's approval, ever. though one cost $13,000.

If it's true Otto Preminger will again go after the Johnston office for a seal for "The Moon Is Blue," I don't believe Preminger has a chance. He was turned down once.

It cost Norman Krasna $20,000 when a real wedding was staged in St. Genevieve's Church in Paris where he had planned to have Olivia De Havilland and John Forsythe marry for "The Ambassador's Daughter." He offered $10,000 to the real bride, but she said it was bad luck to postpone a wedding.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

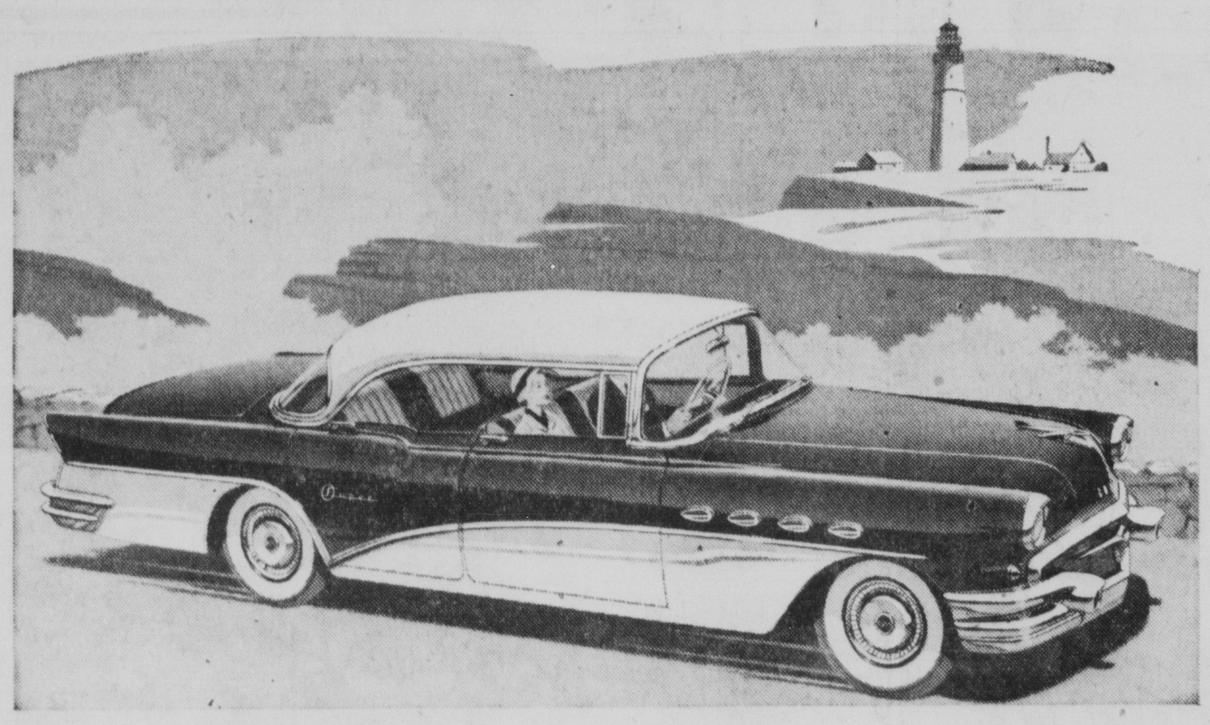
For '56
New Sweep-ahead styling
New Sizzle to match



WHAT YOU SEE pictured here is Buick for 1956—and from the gleam of that "V" grille to the sassy slant of the tail fins, you can see it has no equal for gorgeous good looks.

But what you see from the curb is fully matched by what you feel at the wheel—and that's gospel.

For this Buick gets its zoom from a mighty 322-cubic-inch V8 engine lofted to a new record high in power and compression—and from a spectacular new advance in Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

What's new in the '56 Dynaflow is this: in the first inch of pedal travel—and not with wide-open throttle—your Buick moves from standstill to cruise with silk-smooth, instant and certain getaway.

But comes a sudden need for safety-surge action to get out of a tight spot—and you floor the pedal to switch the pitch of this airplane-inspired transmission. Instantly and smoothly, you're at full-power acceleration—a thrill beyond words.

There's a lot more we could tell you about these great new Buicks—about brilliant new interiors, a superb new ride with a safer "sense of direction," and new safety features everywhere you look.

But the best way to get the whole story of the best Buick yet is right at the wheel of one of these '56 beauties. So drop in this week and do just that.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Stock Market Hits New High In Recovery Drive

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — The stock market today advanced to a new high in its current recovery drive.

It was the market's third consecutive strong rise, but lacked both the vigor and extent of the previous two.

Prices were up 1 to around 4 points, with a few stocks up a bit more, at the outside.

Steels and motors were mixed and the rise of the oils wasn't unanimous, but most of the rest of the market was higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 industrial component gained 0.6. The industrial component gained $1.40, rails were up $1, and utilities were up 20 cents.

The list was composed of 1,172 individual issues of which 565 were higher and 369 lower with 26 new highs and 8 new lows for the year.

Benguet Consolidated Mining was the day's most active issue unchanged at 1⅜ on 55,500 shares. That included a block of 11,000 shares at 1⅜.

Standard Oil (NJ) was second up 2½ at 147. The stock opened unchanged. Fruehauf Trailer was third most active up 1¼ at 52¼. It had a block of 15,000 shares at 52¾.

Panhandle Oil, Friday's most active issue up 1, was fourth today off ⅜ at 1⅜.

Chrysler was fifth off 1⅞ at 94. The stock was third most active Friday off ⅝, and after the close directors took dividend action but said nothing about a split.

One Way Plan Proposed For Seymour Street

A Seymour Street resident asked the Mayor and Council yesterday to make the street one-way west and restrict parking to one side.

Harold C. Legeer, 416 Seymour, said parking on both sides, particularly by trucks, makes passage almost impossible, poses a hazard because vision is blocked and is dangerous for pedestrians, particularly children, crossing the street.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said the truck matter had been looked into previously but will be checked again.

On another matter, James Bonner, operator of Maryland Avenue service station, protested a city ruling it is not responsible for loss of business incurred during the repair to the roadway in front of his business after a gas line had been laid.

Bonner claimed the city left work undone for 11 days after the gas line was completed. A spokesman for the gas company said the station driveways were not blocked at the same time and there was always one open.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan said the city has always taken the position it is not responsible in cases where it is not working directly on the property and pointed out the city must maintain its streets. He said a number of businesses had been affected similarly during flood control work and for a much longer time.

Delegates Named By Rubber Employes

Four delegates of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), have been selected to attend the 17th annual convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council in Washington next week.

They are James W. Stein, president; Ralph C. Beard, William Sheetz and David D. Miller. The session will open November 17 and continue through November 19. All business sessions will be at the Willard Hotel.

CONCERNING FALSE-CARDING

MOST PLAYERS indulge in false-carding so indiscriminately (and often so senselessly) that any potential advantage is lost—the opponents simply ignore the card that was played. There is, however, a very genuine need of logical false-carding—as, for example, in this case:

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 5 4 ♥ 7 2 ♦ K J 9 2 ♣ K 4 3
♠ 10 7 ♥ A J 9 5 3 ♦ 6 5 ♣ J 9 8 6	N W E S	♠ K 8 6 ♥ 8 2 ♦ Q 10 6 4 ♦ — ♣ Q 7 5 2
	♠ J 9 ♥ K 8 ♦ A Q 10 8 7 4 3 ♣ A 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's double raise of the minor suit was indefensible. The right response, very obviously, was one spade, and South then would have reached a foolproof game contract at notrump instead of the diamond contract that could have been beaten.

West's opening lead was the ten of spades, and when South saw the dummy he realized that the contract rested on thin ice. An opening lead of a ten is not often made from a suit headed by K-10, with or without lower cards, and thus the spade king was clearly marked offside. If East got in he would surely shift to hearts, and if the heart ace was wrong (as South strongly suspected) the contract would be lost.

South did what every truly fine player would do in his position: he put up dummy's spade ace and unhesitatingly dropped his own jack on the trick. Then he led a low spade from dummy.

East might well have sensed what was going on, but he didn't. There was no way of his knowing positively whether declarer's play of the spade jack had been honest or not; whether West had led the ten from a holding of 10-9-7. So East ducked—and South won the trick with the nine. After that, of course, the contract was ironclad.

Observe that if South had played the spade nine on the first trick he would have marked himself with the jack, and then East couldn't have been in doubt when the second spade was led from dummy.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7 (INS)—Despite her present troubles and really bad headlines, Susan Hayward returns to work next month. 20th Century-Fox feels that work is the best thing for her.

Next on her agenda is "Hilda," Herbert Bayard Swope's initial film. She gets a beautiful wardrobe as Hilda, a girl who marries a respectable man whom she does not love to change the course of her life.

Philip Dunne, who directs "Hilda," joined with producer Swope in asking that Susie, who gives a great performance in "I'll Cry Tomorrow," play in Swope's first.

Much as we would like to keep Alec Guinness in Hollywood it won't be possible because he says after he completes "The Swan" at MGM he has to hurry to London for George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Woman," which he is making for Alexander Korda.

Then Alec has a little project of his own up his sleeve. He is personally adapting an English novel, "The Horses Mouth," in which he'll also co-star.

If he doesn't finish "The Swan" by Christmas he'll bring his wife and son to Hollywood to be with him for the holidays. We will be sorry to lose Alec; he's one of the most popular actors ever to visit our town.

That script Tony Martin is pouring over between stops at the Cocoanut Grove is "Speakeasy," a thriller of the prohibition days by Mortimer Braus and my information is that he'll sign for it by the time this hits the newsstands.

Getting the tall, dark and handsome Tony isn't the only plan afoot by Producers Aubrey Schenck and Howard Koch, who also made Tony's non-singing western "Frontier Scout" for U-A.

Peggy Lee is being sought for the gal—and our pal from the gangster movie days, George Raft, for the other top part. The tunes Tony and Peggy would sing are many of those old nostalgic melodies of the roarin' (but dry 20s when those in quest of libation peeked through a peekhole and whispered, "Joe sent me."

You can say that Charlton Heston does absolutely nothing on impulse, including his Christmas holidays. He has bundled up Lydia, himself and their son and has taken off for their Michigan farm where they'll spend not only Thanksgiving but Christmas.

Reason for all this is that the farm was pioneered by Charlton's grandfather and Heston wants his baby to celebrate his first Christmas there.

This Heston guy is a pretty solid customer. He knows just where he's going and why, and movie acting never will go to his head, although he takes his career very seriously.

At least six months ago Walter Wanger told me that he bought "Mother, Sir" for Joan Bennett, and he sent me the book to read. Now he's getting it ready for the screen.

Shirley Yamaguchi, the Japanese star, reached here yesterday from a vacation in Mexico City to report to Walter at Allied Artists Studio. She will play a geisha girl, which should not be too difficult for her. She was in "House of Bamboo," and is as beautiful a Japanese girl as you'll see.

Snaps:

Tony Curtis has gone in for art in a big way and bought 12 pictures in Paris with Janet Leigh's approval, even though one cost $13,000.

If it's true Otto Preminger will again go after the Johnston office for a seal for "The Moon Is Blue," I don't believe Preminger has a chance. He was turned down once.

It cost Norman Krasna $20,000 when a real wedding was staged in St. Genevieve's Church in Paris where he had planned to have Olivia De Havilland and John Forsythe marry for "The Ambassador's Daughter." He offered $10,000 to the real bride, but she said it was bad luck to postpone a wedding.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Good Play

Arnold Schulman's "The Heart's a Forgotten Hotel" on "Playwrights 56." (NBC-TV 9:30 p. m. EST alternate Tuesdays) is not only the best thing Schulman has done on TV but one of the best things anyone has done in a long time.

It was a simple, taut story of a perennial adolescent very well played by Edmond O'Brien, and his son who at age fourteer is already more mature than his daddy at age forty-two. O'Brien operates a small hotel in Florida, but it is the son who worries about getting towels to the customers while his father is buying expensive suits he can't afford and having the car painted and chasing girls. And going bankrupt.

This intolerable situation reaches a climax when O'Brien's brother (Paul Hartman), a responsible though stuffy citizen, and his wife (Sylvia Sidney) come to Florida to take the boy home with them on the ground that his father is not fit to care for him. This happens to be quite true, but the boy is quite able to look after himself and what's more he loves his father. But eventually the boy leaves with his uncle and aunt after he perceives that his father doesn't really want him because possession of a growing boy implies adulthood which the man refuses to face.

That's all there was to it, but the play had a special quality of urgency and pathos about it because Schulman's dialogue seemed desperately real. Here's a sample, selected at random because there's hardly a bad line in the play. O'Brien is talking to his blonde girl friend about his brother.

SIDNEY: Listen. I'm going to ask him for money. He thinks I'm a goof as it is. You don't know this guy. Most old-fashioned man you ever seen. He thinks a girl is a blonde is no good. Just like that. He thinks I ought to live in a cave some place like a monk. You don't know this guy.

SHIRL: I know him. I been trying to run away from guys like him my whole life. My husband. You should have known him. The same way. All they want is to sit around in a deep hole some place, and if you talk about fun — they yell bloody murder. You said a dirty word.

SIDNEY: That's him. That's my brother.

SHIRL: That's all of them.

SIDNEY: Man oh man. How I'd just like to pick up, me and you, and take off. I don't know. Africa. Some place. Let the wind blow.

SHIRL: I can pack up in five minutes.

SIDNEY: Would you?

SHIRL: What have I got to lose?

SIDNEY: You'd go with me?

SHIRL: I go where the kicks are and when the kicks stop coming I'm off like a greased bird.

That little passage tells you quite a lot about both characters. All Schulman's characters—his forty-two-year-old adolescent, his mature fourteen-year-old, his brother ("I think Max's the only one got it made. There's a guy buried alive, but he's got it made, Shirl.") his sister-in-law — even a handyman and a guy trying to collect the rent ("Sidney, don't make me out a mean man. I'm not a mean man. I gave you three months. You know another man in business, would'n close you up?") are all especially nice people torn by the necessities of just getting along day by day with their limited dreams.

In addition to some splendid performances by O'Brien and Cliff Tatum as the boy, I thought Arthur Penn's direction was marvelously concise and telling. In fact, I'd like to see the whole thing all over again, same cast and all.

Television And Radio

Good Play

Arnold Schulman's "The Heart's a Forgotten Hotel" on "Playwrights 56." (NBC-TV 9:30 p. m. EST alternate Tuesdays) is not only the best thing Schulman has done on TV but one of the best things anyone has done in a long time.

It was a simple, taut story of a perennial adolescent very well played by Edmond O'Brien, and his son who at age fourteer is already more mature than his daddy at age forty-two. O'Brien operates a small hotel in Florida, but it is the son who worries about getting towels to the customers while his father is buying expensive suits he can't afford and having the car painted and chasing girls. And going bankrupt.

This intolerable situation reaches a climax when O'Brien's brother (Paul Hartman), a responsible though stuffy citizen, and his wife (Sylvia Sidney) come to Florida to take the boy home with them on the ground that his father is not fit to care for him. This happens to be quite true, but the boy is quite able to look after himself and what's more he loves his father. But eventually the boy leaves with his uncle and aunt after he perceives that his father doesn't really want him because possession of a growing boy implies adulthood which the man refuses to face.

That's all there was to it, but the play had a special quality of urgency and pathos about it because Schulman's dialogue seemed desperately real. Here's a sample, selected at random because there's hardly a bad line in the play. O'Brien is talking to his blonde girl friend about his brother.

SIDNEY: Listen. I'm going to ask him for money. He thinks I'm a goof as it is. You don't know this guy. Most old-fashioned man you ever seen. He thinks a girl is a blonde is no good. Just like that. He thinks I ought to live in a cave some place like a monk. You don't know this guy.

SHIRL: I know him. I been trying to run away from guys like him my whole life. My husband. You should have known him. The same way. All they want is to sit around in a deep hole some place, and if you talk about fun — they yell bloody murder. You said a dirty word.

SIDNEY: That's him. That's my brother.

SHIRL: That's all of them.

SIDNEY: Man oh man. How I'd just like to pick up, me and you, and take off. I don't know. Africa. Some place. Let the wind blow.

SHIRL: I can pack up in five minutes.

SIDNEY: Would you?

SHIRL: What have I got to lose?

SIDNEY: You'd go with me?

SHIRL: I go where the kicks are and when the kicks stop coming I'm off like a greased bird.

That little passage tells you quite a lot about both characters. All Schulman's characters—his forty-two-year-old adolescent, his mature fourteen-year-old, his brother ("I think Max's the only one got it made. There's a guy buried alive, but he's got it made, Shirl.") his sister-in-law — even a handyman and a guy trying to collect the rent ("Sidney, don't make me out a mean man. I'm not a mean man. I gave you three months. You know another man in business, would'n't close you up?") are all especially nice people torn by the necessities of just getting along day by day with their limited dreams.

In addition to some splendid performances by O'Brien and Cliff Tatum as the boy, I thought Arthur Penn's direction was marvelously concise and telling. In fact, I'd like to see the whole thing all over again, same cast and all.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all of our kind friends, neighbors, the pallbearers and those who so kindly provided cars, for their many acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy and condolence, for their beautiful floral offerings, Rev. Wilbur Grose, and others who assisted in any manner, at the loss of our beloved Husband and son, Donald M. Winters.

Mrs. Betty Winters,
Mr. & Mrs. Arch Winters & Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, Henry G. Huff, who passed away November 8, 1954

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb,
He gently closed his loving eyes,
And whispered "Peace be thine."
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past,
His every patient worn out frame,
Has found sweet rest at last.

Missed by his wife & children

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all of our kind friends, neighbors, the pallbearers and those who so kindly provided cars, for their many acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy and condolence, for their beautiful floral offerings, Rev. Wilbur Grose, and others who assisted in any manner, at the loss of our beloved Husband and son, Donald M. Winters.

Mrs. Betty Winters,
Mr. & Mrs. Arch Winters & Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, Henry G. Huff, who passed away November 8, 1954

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb,
He gently closed his loving eyes,
And whispered "Peace be thine."
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past,
His every patient worn out frame,
Has found sweet rest at last.

Missed by his wife & children

Orchard Camp Blaze Fatal To Three Workers

WINCHESTER, Va., Nov. 6 (AP)—A third orchard worker has died of burns received yesterday when fire swept through a camp house on the Harry F. Byrd Inc., property near Berryville.

The latest victim, identified as Eliza Green of Florida, died late yesterday at Winchester Memorial Hospital. Green suffered second and third degree burns in the blaze that destroyed the one-story wood and tile building that housed between 30 and 40 Negro orchard workers.

Bodies of two other victims were discovered by firemen after the flames were extinguished. They were identified as Josh Wells of Umatilla, Fla., and Charles Whitehead of Philadelphia.

The fire broke out in mid afternoon, and the building was a total loss by the time fire fighters arrived from Berryville and Charles Town, W. Va. Officials said they believed the fire was started when an oil stove exploded.

State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., an officer of the orchard firm, said the building was insured. There was no estimate of the amount of damage.

Punch, as a beverage, was named after a Hindu word meaning five. This was usually the number of ingredients used.

Orchard Camp Blaze Fatal To Three Workers

WINCHESTER, Va., Nov. 6 (AP)—A third orchard worker has died of burns received yesterday when fire swept through a camp house on the Harry F. Byrd Inc., property near Berryville.

The latest victim, identified as Eliza Green of Florida, died late yesterday at Winchester Memorial Hospital. Green suffered second and third degree burns in the blaze that destroyed the one-story wood and tile building that housed between 30 and 40 Negro orchard workers.

Bodies of two other victims were discovered by firemen after the flames were extinguished. They were identified as Josh Wells of Umatilla, Fla., and Charles Whitehead of Philadelphia.

The fire broke out in mid afternoon, and the building was a total loss by the time fire fighters arrived from Berryville and Charles Town, W. Va. Officials said they believed the fire was started when an oil stove exploded.

State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., an officer of the orchard firm, said the building was insured. There was no estimate of the amount of damage.

Punch, as a beverage, was named after a Hindu word meaning five. This was usually the number of ingredients used.

Russell McCain Submits Truck Safety Plan

Opposes Stopping Vehicles At Summit

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, offered several proposals for warning signs on Big Savage Mountain, but objected to the stopping of heavy trucks at the summit of the mountain at a meeting of the 11-man safety committee and SRC officials last night in Frostburg.

The meeting was scheduled last week when the committee was appointed by Mayor Perry C. Myers of Frostburg for the purpose of taking immediate steps to safeguard against a repetition of the fatal highway accident in LaVale on October 19 which took five lives.

Several Plans

The committee proposed several plans for signs to be erected on the slopes and at the top of the 2,500-foot summit, including one which would demand drivers stop their heavy vehicles at the top before descending the steep sloop toward Frostburg.

McCain opposed the stopping of trucks at the summit, telling the assembled committee and interested parties that if a truck were stopped at the top other trucks might be jeopardized on the slopes during bad weather or if the roads were slippery.

Set Of Signs

The SRC chairman suggested a set of signs on the west slope of the mountain, one about 1,000 feet from the top telling drivers of an important notice on the summit of the grade, another sign about 100 feet from the top again advising of the notice atop the mountain.

At the summit, McCain said, a sign should be erected advising drivers of the steep grade ahead and warning them to shift into low gear for the descent. On the east side of the slope two more signs were proposed advising drivers keep their trucks in low gear.

At the entrance to Frostburg, McCain continued, a sign would acquaint truck drivers with the fact they are entering a populated city and the mountain grade continues, for them to remain in low gear. At the Bowery Street light in Frostburg a sign would advise drivers they could shift to normal driving gears.

McCain then told the assembled committeemen the SRC would put up the signs and would cooperate in any way to increase the safety factor against runaway vehicles on the mountain.

Another meeting of the committee will be held Monday, November 21, at 7:30 p. m. in Frostburg City Hall prior to the meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore November 22, at 2 p. m.

The committee will plan a program to be presented to the legislators at the Baltimore meeting.

Attending last night's meeting in addition to representatives of Frostburg organizations and the safety committee were McCain, J. L. Mentiens, associate engineer of the traffic department of SRC; George N. Lewis, director of the SRC traffic department; R. E. L. Putnam and G. Bates Chaires, Allegany County SRC chairmen; Lt. W. E. O'Hara, Maryland State Police; Porter C. Trice, of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission; Del. Fred B. Driscoll; William H. Lemmert, president of Allegany County Commissioners. State Senator Charles M. See, and Delegates Lester B. Reed and Noel Speir Cook, members of the safety group, also were present.

Court House Will Close On Friday

New Mt. Savage Plant Site

These old C&P Railroad shops in Mt. Savage are being purchased by Danmar Company, Inc., of Washington and will be developed into a new industry fabricating structural steel and manufacturing ribbon copy equipment designed to eliminate the need for carbon paper. The Board of Directors of the Western Maryland Railway Company yesterday approved the sale of seven buildings to Danmar. Between 150 and 200 will be employed there. Production is expected to start about January 1.

Railway Board Approves Sale For New Plant

Western Maryland Takes Final Action

Mt. Savage's new industry moved another step nearer reality yesterday when the Board of Directors of the Western Maryland Railway Company, meeting in New York City, approved sale of the old C&P Railroad shops at Mt. Savage to Danmar Company, Inc., of Washington.

Edward C. Lanahan, secretary of the Western Maryland, informed the Associated Press in Baltimore last night that the sale was approved at the New York meeting.

Danmar Company, Inc., plans to fabricate structural steel and manufacture ribbon copy equipment for typewriters which will remove the need for carbon paper.

Daniel Price, president of the company and owner of the Occidental Restaurant in Washington, plans to employ between 150 and 200 persons at the Mt. Savage plant, which he hopes to get into production early in 1956. Except for supervisory personnel, all of the employes will be hired locally.

Price's remodeling and expansion program for the property calls for the expenditure of up to $500,000 for the new plant.

The lead for the new industry came from United States Senator John Marshall Butler, who suggested the Cumberland area to Price when he said he was interested in a Maryland location for his plant.

Local negotiations for the plant were handled by Albert H. Hargreaves, director of the Industrial Promotion Department of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Parole Violator Draws Sentence

Roy E. Rhodes, city, yesterday was sentenced to the Maryland penitentiary for three years in violation of parole.

He was given a hearing before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court. The hearing was held on a petition of the State's Attorney's office. Rhodes was found guilty and the parole stricken out and the defendant committed by Judge Harris to the penitentiary.

On December 7, 1953, a criminal information charging Rhodes with forgery was filed in the local court. He was arraigned on December 10 that year and pleaded guilty.

On December 29, he was sentenced by Judge Harris to three years in the penitentiary and the term was suspended.

The prisoner was paroled under the supervision of the parole officer on the condition he kept the peace, be of good behaviour, abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor, support his two minor children, get employment and make restitution of $474.35 obtained through forgery.

Rhodes was arrested over a month ago and has been detained in the County Jail on a charge of passing a number of worthless checks.

He will be taken to the penitentiary this morning. Counsel for the defendant was Edwin Horchler.

Demand For Symphony Tickets Increases Steadily

The demand for tickets for Friday's concert in the Fort Hill auditorium, by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, is exceeding all expectations. The advanced sale of reserved seats has passed the thousand dollar mark, and sponsors urge that those who wish good seats apply for them today.

The appearance of the orchestra here is being sponsored by the Times-News and all receipts over the actual guarantee will be given to the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Since Friday is Veterans Day, the orchestra will open with a patriotic theme and will also feature another colorful and stirring number, of interest to "all red-blooded patriots."

The program as announced last night by telephone from Baltimore included, "Star-Spangled Banner"; "Light Cavalry Overture" by Von Suppe; "Symphony No. 7 (A Major Opus 92)" by Beethoven, better known as "The Dance Symphony." Intermission. "Legend of Kikimora" by Liadoff; "Irish Suite" by Anderson; and "Findandia" by Sibelius.

Because the orchestra, which comprises 90 pieces, is so pleased that Cumberland has requested it to play here, its distinguished conductor, Massimo Freccia, told the Times-News "we will play as many encores as your audience wishes."

Eugene S. Williams, a native of Romney, a former resident of this city, and president of the Baltimore Symphony Association, also expressed pleasure with the advance enthusiasm that has been evidenced in the local appearance. Williams has long contended that the Baltimore Symphony is in reality "Maryland's Symphony", and the Queen City of the Alleganies is an appropriate place for the famous aggregation to appear on such an important patriotic holiday.

Tickets are still available at the Music Shop, Baltimore Street, and Sykes Music Store, North Centre Street. Reserved seats are selling for $1.50, $2 and $2.50, while general admission is 75 cents and $1. Students tickets will continue on sale during the week.

First Shipment Of Pipe Arrives

The S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company today will begin unloading and storing steel pipe which the City of Cumberland will use for ist water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch.

The firm will do the work under a $3,820 contract let by the Mayor and Council yesterday morning. The only other bid was for $5,550 from the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

The first carload, containing about 25 sections of 18 inch pipe, was delivered yesterday to a siding at the B & O Rolling Mill yard, and inspected shortly afterwards by Water Commission William J. Edwards and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Commissioner Edwards said the Brotermarkle film advised it is having slings made up and plans to begin the job of unloading and storing the pipe today.

The car which is on hand contains the first of a number of shipments from Middletown, Ohio, due within the next three weeks. Included will be about 27,000 feet of pipe and fittings.

The line will be laid by the Cumberland Contracting Company, which submitted a low bid of $165,175 for the work.

The award specified that payments will not begin until the city has sold a 1955 water improvement bond issue.

The $750,000 issue, to finance the water line and further improvements to the city's water storage and treatment facilities at Lake Gordon, will be sold by the Mayor and Council next Tuesday at 10 a. m.

The cost of the pipeline is estimated at $409,215, including the pipe, purchased from Armco for $167,715; installation, engineering contingencies and rights of way.

Bow And Arrow Hunter Shoots Rabbit, Fined

A 20-year-old Cumberland hunter was fined $10 in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday for shooting a rabbit out of season on Town Creek with a bow and arrow.

Edward Robinson, 204 Wilmont Avenue, told the court this story:

He was hunting deer with bow and arrows on Scott's Farm near Town Creek last week. He spotted a rabbit in the brush and, intending to get in some practice, shot an arrow at the rabbit.

Robinson was arrested by Game Warden Joseph J. Keating for having a dead rabbit in his possession.

"I didn't think I'd hit it," Robinson said.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick waived costs in the unusual case.

Polio Shots Resumed In Schools

Second and third graders yesterday bared their arms like veterans for their second shot of Salk polio vaccine.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, said the program of inoculations which began in the schools last spring resumed on schedule yesterday.

He said reports indicated the work progressed faster than expected, adding that 292 children from Luke, Hammond Street and St. Peter's Parochial School received shots at Westernport yesterday.

Other shots were given in Frostburg to students from Hill Street and the College Laboratory School.

Scheduled to get second shots are some 3,600 school children who received first shots in the spring from vaccine supplied by the National Polio Foundation.

Quarters Are Sought For Play Equipment

Small playground equipment is safely stored in the Street Department Warehouse but Robert E. Pence, recreation director, said space will have to be found elsewhere for large pieces of equipment.

All available space in the warehouse, he said, is being used for smaller playground equipment.

Space will have to be found elsewhere, he said, for bulky pieces such as sliding boards and picnic tables.

The storage quarters, he added, will have to be large enough to allow workers to repair and paint the equipment over the winter.

He said the swings and tables will be taken from the playgrounds as soon as space is secured.

Two Men Seek Prompt Trial In Green Case

Burglary Charge Set For Nov. 23

Harold P. Odom, 60, and James W. Golden, 45, who have been under arrest since October 12 as suspects in the burglary of $27,000 from A. Lee Green, LaVale, have filed a petition in Allegany County Circuit Court for an immediate trial.

The petition was filed yesterday by their counsel, William C. Walsh, Edward J. Ryan, Thomas B. Finan, William Walsh and William L. Wilson.

A court order was signed by Chief Judge George Henderson setting the trial for 9:15 a. m., November 23.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher has indicated that a criminal information will be filed sometime this week. The two men, in the petition, waived the right to an indictment by the grand jury.

They are seeking an immediate trial by the court. The two men were arrested near Baltimore by FBI agents on October 12 and brought to Cumberland.

Some $10,000 in bonds and $17,000 in cash was taken from the Green home in October 11, 1949.

Odom and Golden were nabbed after they had checked out of a motel on the outskirts of Baltimore. Both men have long criminal records.

Odom's record dates back to 1919. He was arrested in February 1940 in Nassau County, N. Y. and sentenced to Sing Sing prison on a grand larceny extortion conviction, according to the FBI.

Golden's record shows convictions for burglary in Wisconsin in 1931 when he got 1-5 years and in Indianapolis in 1934 when he drew a year and day for theft of interstate shipments. In November 1934 he was shot in Indianapolis while committing a burglary, the record showed, and sentenced to 3-10 years. He drew a 5-10 year term in New Mexico in July 1941 on a charge of possession of burglary tools.

If they had not petitioned for an immediate trial, the case would not have been considered by the Circuit Court grand jury until January 3.

Cpl. F. H. Tribett To Address Lions

Cpl. F. H. Tribett of the West Virginia State Police will be guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Ridgeley Lions Club tonight at the Perabee Lounge. He will also show a film on the work of the State Police.

The club has marked this week as one to honor law enforcement officers.

William Knieriem, president, plans to name a committee for the annual sale of Christmas trees, and plans will be outlined for the annual outdoor Christmas lighting contest.

A report of the Lions zone meeting, held Sunday at the New Century Hotel in Romney, will be given by Michael Sirna and Aden Everstine.

Veterans Day Observance Plan Complete

Features Memorial, Retreat, Parade

Veterans Day will be formally observed in Cumberland Friday with a series of events featuring members of various military and veteran organizations, including a public ceremony, a retreat and a military parade.

Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman of arrangements and Howard Loughrie, commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, last night noted that the program has been completed.

Memorial Ceremony

At 11 a. m. Friday, a memorial ceremony will be held at the local post office, site of the Honor Roll. W. Earle Cobey, local attorney will be master of ceremonies. The invocation will be given by Rev. J. F. Zimmerman. The Veterans Day address will be delivered by Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, commander of the 1st Battalion, 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard. Rev. Zimmerman will pronounce the benediction, after which a military salute will be fired with Staunton Byers in charge and taps will be sounded by a bugler.

At 5 p. m., on the lawn in front of the home of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, a retreat ceremony will be featured. Vernon Crable of the VFW will be in charge.

The annual November 11 parade will assemble at 7 p. m. at the State Armory, South Centre Street, and will march over a downtown route at 7:30 p. m. The parade route includes Centre Street to Union Street to George Street to Baltimore Street to Centre Street to Market Street, to Mechanic Street to Baltimore Street to South George Street to Salem Street where it will disband.

Solicits Funds

Voiture No. 164, Society 40 and 8 will precede the parade and solicit funds for the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association. The American Legion has adopted as one of its national programs, financial aid to heart associations to encourage research for prevention and cure of heart disease, as well as rehabilitation of those already stricken. Each year, the 40 and 8, cooperating with the legionnaires, uses this method to help raise funds needed here for the heart program.

The parade will be led by a patrol of city and state police officers and Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal.

The first division will be led by Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps of Frostburg, followed by city officials in cars.

The second division will be led by the Maryland National Guard Drum and Bugle Corps; followed by the Headquarters Company and Company C, local National Guard units.

The third division will be led by Allegany High School senior band followed by the 6th Special Infantry Company, US Marine Reserves.

The fourth division, with R. T. Farrell as aide, will be led by Allegany High School's junior band, followed by US Army, US Navy, and US Marine recruiting service units; Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and members of their auxiliary.

The fifth division will be led by Howard Loughrie, aide, and Fulton Myers Post Drum and Bugle Corps, members of Fulton Myers Legion Post; members of Fort Cumberland Legion Post No. 13 and their auxiliary and members of the 40 and 8.

Open house will be featured at the American Legion and the VFW post homes, all day Friday.

The parade is being held earlier this year because of the appearance of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra at Fort Hill High School Friday at 8:30 p. m. This is the second year for the post office memorial service, the 10th year for the VFW retreat ceremony; and sixth year the legion has aided the Heart Association.

Three Radio Receivers Acquired By Fire Dept.

Three monitoradio receivers, to be used as a secondary communication system for the Cumberland Fire Department, arrived here yesterday.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said the receivers were ordered through the efforts of Police and Fire Commissioners William V. Keegan and himself and realized from appropriations from the City, and are to be installed as soon as possible.

One will be placed at West Side, East Side and South End fire stations and included among their uses will be a means of communication in the event the telephone system or alarm system now maintained, are knocked out.

With the installation of the receivers Central Fire station will be in constant contact with the three other houses. They will be manned 24 hours a day.

Mobile radio units have already been installed in the various fire trucks of the department and are used to advantage in the event of a fire.

Fishpole type antennae, measuring about seven feet, will be installed on the outside of each station along with the receivers.

Chief Parker hooked up one of the receivers yesterday afternoon in his office. He called the switchboard in Central Fire Station about 60 feet away and asked for a test of the new equipment.

Immediately the test was relayed over the set. Parker pointed out that when the test was made, the call went by telephone line to the C&P Central office here and then to the transmitter located on the water tower on Seneca Avenue extended back to the chief's office.

Even though an antennae was not used at the demonstration yesterday the call came in good.

Russell McCain Submits Truck Safety Plan

Opposes Stopping Vehicles At Summit

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, offered several proposals for warning signs on Big Savage Mountain, but objected to the stopping of heavy trucks at the summit of the mountain at a meeting of the 11-man safety committee and SRC officials last night in Frostburg.

The meeting was scheduled last week when the committee was appointed by Mayor Perry C. Myers of Frostburg for the purpose of taking immediate steps to safeguard against a repetition of the fatal highway accident in LaVale on October 19 which took five lives.

Several Plans

The committee proposed several plans for signs to be erected on the slopes and at the top of the 2,500-foot summit, including one which would demand drivers stop their heavy vehicles at the top before descending the steep sloop toward Frostburg.

McCain opposed the stopping of trucks at the summit, telling the assembled committee and interested parties that if a truck were stopped at the top other trucks might be jeopardized on the slopes during bad weather or if the roads were slippery.

Set Of Signs

The SRC chairman suggested a set of signs on the west slope of the mountain, one about 1,000 feet from the top telling drivers of an important notice on the summit of the grade, another sign about 100 feet from the top again advising of the notice atop the mountain.

At the summit, McCain said, a sign should be erected advising drivers of the steep grade ahead and warning them to shift into low gear for the descent. On the east side of the slope two more signs were proposed advising drivers keep their trucks in low gear.

At the entrance to Frostburg, McCain continued, a sign would acquaint truck drivers with the fact they are entering a populated city and the mountain grade continues, for them to remain in low gear. At the Bowery Street light in Frostburg a sign would advise drivers they could shift to normal driving gears.

McCain then told the assembled committeemen the SRC would put up the signs and would cooperate in any way to increase the safety factor against runaway vehicles on the mountain.

Another meeting of the committee will be held Monday, November 21, at 7:30 p. m. in Frostburg City Hall prior to the meeting of the Legislative Council in Baltimore November 22, at 2 p. m.

The committee will plan a program to be presented to the legislators at the Baltimore meeting.

Attending last night's meeting in addition to representatives of Frostburg organizations and the safety committee were McCain, J. L. Mentiens, associate engineer of the traffic department of SRC; George N. Lewis, director of the SRC traffic department; R. E. L. Putnam and G. Bates Chaires, Allegany County SRC chairmen; Lt. W. E. O'Hara, Maryland State Police; Porter C. Trice, of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission; Del. Fred B. Driscoll; William H. Lemmert, president of Allegany County Commissioners. State Senator Charles M. See, and Delegates Lester B. Reed and Noel Speir Cook, members of the safety group, also were present.

New Mt. Savage Plant Site

These old C&P Railroad shops in Mt. Savage are being purchased by Danmar Company, Inc., of Washington and will be developed into a new industry fabricating structural steel and manufacturing ribbon copy equipment designed to eliminate the need for carbon paper. The Board of Directors of the Western Maryland Railway Company yesterday approved the sale of seven buildings to Danmar. Between 150 and 200 will be employed there. Production is expected to start about January 1.

Railway Board Approves Sale For New Plant

Western Maryland Takes Final Action

Mt. Savage's new industry moved another step nearer reality yesterday when the Board of Directors of the Western Maryland Railway Company, meeting in New York City, approved sale of the old C&P Railroad shops at Mt. Savage to Danmar Company, Inc., of Washington.

Edward C. Lanahan, secretary of the Western Maryland, informed the Associated Press in Baltimore last night that the sale was approved at the New York meeting.

Danmar Company, Inc., plans to fabricate structural steel and manufacture ribbon copy equipment for typewriters which will remove the need for carbon paper.

Daniel Price, president of the company and owner of the Occidental Restaurant in Washington, plans to employ between 150 and 200 persons at the Mt. Savage plant, which he hopes to get into production early in 1956. Except for supervisory personnel, all of the employes will be hired locally.

Price's remodeling and expansion program for the property calls for the expenditure of up to $500,000 for the new plant.

The lead for the new industry came from United States Senator John Marshall Butler, who suggested the Cumberland area to Price when he said he was interested in a Maryland location for his plant.

Local negotiations for the plant were handled by Albert H. Hargreaves, director of the Industrial Promotion Department of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Parole Violator Draws Sentence

Roy E. Rhodes, city, yesterday was sentenced to the Maryland penitentiary for three years in violation of parole.

He was given a hearing before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court. The hearing was held on a petition of the State's Attorney's office. Rhodes was found guilty and the parole stricken out and the defendant committed by Judge Harris to the penitentiary.

On December 7, 1953, a criminal information charging Rhodes with forgery was filed in the local court. He was arraigned on December 10 that year and pleaded guilty.

On December 29, he was sentenced by Judge Harris to three years in the penitentiary and the term was suspended.

The prisoner was paroled under the supervision of the parole officer on the condition he kept the peace, be of good behaviour, abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor, support his two minor children, get employment and make restitution of $474.35 obtained through forgery.

Rhodes was arrested over a month ago and has been detained in the County Jail on a charge of passing a number of worthless checks.

He will be taken to the penitentiary this morning. Counsel for the defendant was Edwin Horchler.

Demand For Symphony Tickets Increases Steadily

The demand for tickets for Friday's concert in the Fort Hill auditorium, by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, is exceeding all expectations. The advanced sale of reserved seats has passed the thousand dollar mark, and sponsors urge that those who wish good seats apply for them today.

The appearance of the orchestra here is being sponsored by the Times-News and all receipts over the actual guarantee will be given to the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Since Friday is Veterans Day, the orchestra will open with a patriotic theme and will also feature another colorful and stirring number, of interest to "all red-blooded patriots."

The program as announced last night by telephone from Baltimore included, "Star-Spangled Banner"; "Light Cavalry Overture" by Von Suppe; "Symphony No. 7 (A Major Opus 92)" by Beethoven, better known as "The Dance Symphony." Intermission. "Legend of Kikimora" by Liadoff; "Irish Suite" by Anderson; and "Findandia" by Sibelius.

Because the orchestra, which comprises 90 pieces, is so pleased that Cumberland has requested it to play here, its distinguished conductor, Massimo Freccia, told the Times-News "we will play as many encores as your audience wishes."

Eugene S. Williams, a native of Romney, a former resident of this city, and president of the Baltimore Symphony Association, also expressed pleasure with the advance enthusiasm that has been evidenced in the local appearance. Williams has long contended that the Baltimore Symphony is in reality "Maryland's Symphony", and the Queen City of the Alleganies is an appropriate place for the famous aggregation to appear on such an important patriotic holiday.

Tickets are still available at the Music Shop, Baltimore Street, and Sykes Music Store, North Centre Street. Reserved seats are selling for $1.50, $2 and $2.50, while general admission is 75 cents and $1. Students tickets will continue on sale during the week.

First Shipment Of Pipe Arrives

The S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company today will begin unloading and storing steel pipe which the City of Cumberland will use for ist water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch.

The firm will do the work under a $3,820 contract let by the Mayor and Council yesterday morning. The only other bid was for $5,550 from the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company.

The first carload, containing about 25 sections of 18 inch pipe, was delivered yesterday to a siding at the B & O Rolling Mill yard, and inspected shortly afterwards by Water Commission William J. Edwards and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Commissioner Edwards said the Brotermarkle film advised it is having slings made up and plans to begin the job of unloading and storing the pipe today.

The car which is on hand contains the first of a number of shipments from Middletown, Ohio, due within the next three weeks. Included will be about 27,000 feet of pipe and fittings.

The line will be laid by the Cumberland Contracting Company, which submitted a low bid of $165,175 for the work.

The award specified that payments will not begin until the city has sold a 1955 water improvement bond issue.

The $750,000 issue, to finance the water line and further improvements to the city's water storage and treatment facilities at Lake Gordon, will be sold by the Mayor and Council next Tuesday at 10 a. m.

The cost of the pipeline is estimated at $409,215, including the pipe, purchased from Armco for $167,715; installation, engineering contingencies and rights of way.

A 20-year-old Cumberland hunter was fined $10 in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday for shooting a rabbit out of season on Town Creek with a bow and arrow.

Edward Robinson, 204 Wilmont Avenue, told the court this story:

He was hunting deer with bow and arrows on Scott's Farm near Town Creek last week. He spotted a rabbit in the brush and, intending to get in some practice, shot an arrow at the rabbit.

Robinson was arrested by Game Warden Joseph J. Keating for having a dead rabbit in his possession. "I didn't think I'd hit it," Robinson said.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick waived costs in the unusual case.

Polio Shots Resumed In Schools

Second and third graders yesterday bared their arms like veterans for their second shot of Salk polio vaccine.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, said the program of inoculations which began in the schools last spring resumed on schedule yesterday.

He said reports indicated the work progressed faster than expected, adding that 292 children from Luke, Hammond Street and St. Peter's Parochial School received shots at Westernport yesterday.

Other shots were given in Frostburg to students from Hill Street and the College Laboratory School.

Scheduled to get second shots are some 3,600 school children who received first shots in the spring from vaccine supplied by the National Polio Foundation.

Quarters Are Sought For Play Equipment

Small playground equipment is safely stored in the Street Department Warehouse but Robert E. Pence, recreation director, said space will have to be found elsewhere for large pieces of equipment.

All available space in the warehouse, he said, is being used for smaller playground equipment.

Space will have to be found elsewhere, he said, for bulky pieces such as sliding boards and picnic tables.

The storage quarters, he added, will have to be large enough to allow workers to repair and paint the equipment over the winter.

He said the swings and tables will be taken from the playgrounds as soon as space is secured.

Two Men Seek Prompt Trial In Green Case

Burglary Charge Set For Nov. 23

Harold P. Odom, 60, and James W. Golden, 45, who have been under arrest since October 12 as suspects in the burglary of $27,000 from A. Lee Green, LaVale, have filed a petition in Allegany County Circuit Court for an immediate trial.

The petition was filed yesterday by their counsel, William C. Walsh, Edward J. Ryan, Thomas B. Finan, William Walsh and William L. Wilson.

A court order was signed by Chief Judge George Henderson setting the trial for 9:15 a. m., November 23.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher has indicated that a criminal information will be filed sometime this week. The two men, in the petition, waived the right to an indictment by the grand jury.

They are seeking an immediate trial by the court. The two men were arrested near Baltimore by FBI agents on October 12 and brought to Cumberland.

Some $10,000 in bonds and $17,000 in cash was taken from the Green home in October 11, 1949.

Odom and Golden were nabbed after they had checked out of a motel on the outskirts of Baltimore. Both men have long criminal records.

Odom's record dates back to 1919. He was arrested in February 1940 in Nassau County, N. Y. and sentenced to Sing Sing prison on a grand larceny extortion conviction, according to the FBI.

Golden's record shows convictions for burglary in Wisconsin in 1931 when he got 1-5 years and in Indianapolis in 1934 when he drew a year and day for theft of interstate shipments. In November 1934 he was shot in Indianapolis while committing a burglary, the record showed, and sentenced to 3-10 years. He drew a 5-10 year term in New Mexico in July 1944 on a charge of possession of burglary tools.

If they had not petitioned for an immediate trial, the case would not have been considered by the Circuit Court grand jury until January 3.
